Most part dealt with the meetings of the Coordinating Committee for Postwar Rehabilitation which has been attended by representatives of the State Department, Office of Economic Coordination and the Office of Lend Lease Administration. Lowenthal did not appear to have attended all of these meetings but discussed at length the matters which were taken up at the meetings. He acts in a "behind the scenes" capacity and his advice is constantly sought.

During one conversation with Lowenthal questioned the appointment of a man "who isn't even known definitely to be a thorough liberal." Lowenthal's surveillance confirms the allegation of close friendly relationship with Justice Frankfurter, and other than painting Lowenthal as a strategist in government affairs, nothing of particular importance to the Bureau was developed by the surveillance.

Federal Employment

The Bureau's available information pertaining to Lowenthal's employment is undoubtedly incomplete. However, he has appeared from time to time as a Federal employee of various governmental agencies and Bureaus. By memorandum dated August 6, 1929, the Director related that Lowenthal, in his capacity as secretary of the National Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement (The Wickersham Commission) requested several items of information, the more pertinent of which are as follows:

"A memorandum setting forth the percentage of time spent by the Agents and Accountants of the Bureau on the more important phases of the Bureau's Investigative work, such as National Motor Vehicle Theft Act, White Slave Traffic Act, Mails To Defraud, Theft From Interstate Shipments, Anti-Trust Violations, etc.

"A memorandum of the course of instruction followed at the training school for Special Agents and Special Accountants.

"A memorandum of the procedure followed in the selection of Special Agents and Special Accountants.

"A memorandum on the procedure followed to check the work and efficiency of Special Agents and Special Accountants after their appointment to the Bureau.

"Three copies of the new manual of instructions.

"Six copies of the efficiency ratings sheets used for field employees.

"Six copies of the personality reports sheets used by Inspectors in examining applicants."

During the remaining months of 1929, also during 1930, considerable additional material was furnished by the Bureau to Lowenthal, including three copies of the Bureau's Manual of Rules and Regulations, and one copy of the Manual of Instructions.
An article in the March 12, 1940, issue of the "St. Louis Post Dispatch" of St. Louis, Missouri, describes Lowenthal as Counsel for the Railroad Financing Investigation being conducted by Senator Burton K. Wheeler. The article related that Lowenthal was the real brains behind the investigation and without his work the whole thing would have been without results.

In Walter Winchell's column of February 5, 1942, the statement was made that Senator Wheeler's man Lowenthal in addition to his Washington office, which he occupies at the taxpayer's expense, also has an office at 45 Broadway, New York City, the phone number of which, Digby 4-6790, is assigned to a government phone. The columnist then asked whether Wheeler had put the very rich man (meaning Lowenthal) on a Senate Interstate Commerce payroll.

The Director, by memorandum dated May 1, 1942, to the Attorney General, in outlining his conversation with Mr. Milo Perkins of the Board of Economic Warfare advised that he was informed that Lowenthal was serving in an advisory capacity to the Board of Economic Warfare on a project that would probably be completed in 60 or 90 days. The Director outlined for Mr. Perkins in general some of Lowenthal's activities and Mr. Perkins asked whether it would be desirable for him to call Lowenthal in and make an issue of the matter, or to wait for the conclusion of the current project and then discontinue his services. The Director answered that he believed that it would be better to permit Lowenthal to conclude his present assignment and allow his services to terminate automatically.
From 1921 until the present time various sources have made available to the Bureau different items of information which portray his interest in Communist affairs. (62-25733-20)

In support of the foregoing a review of pertinent items shows that in 1923, Lowenthal admitted to a Bureau Agent that he was General Counsel for the Russian American Industrial Corporation, 51 Union Square, New York City. In a prospectus published by this corporation for the purpose of raising capital, it is stated that the plan for the organization of a million dollar corporation as described in the prospectus was an outgrowth of the visit of Sidney Hillman, President of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, to Russia in the summer of 1921. The stated purpose of the corporation was "to aid and assist in developing the resources of Russia, thereby furthering the economic progress of Russia and the American progress in that country." (62-25733-20)

In February of 1942, the New York Office advised that a letterhead of the International Judicial Association carried the name Max Lowenthal, as being a member of the National Committee representing the District of Columbia. This organization, now defunct, was said to be under Communist control and its statements and publications were described as having reflected the Communist line. (100-25836-14)

By way of explanation it might be noted that H.R. 6230 was a bill passed by the House of Representatives to amend the Nationality Act and provided for the cancelling of citizenship of a naturalized citizen "on the grounds that his utterances, writings, actions, or course of conduct establishes that his political allegiance is to a foreign state or sovereignty."
Washington Field, by report dated March 29, 1944, in the case entitled "Communist Infiltration of CIO Maritime Committee" pointed out that

...and Lee Pressman, General Counsel for the CIO and co-counsel for the CIO Political Action Committee, discussed the possibilities of having Senator Donnell, Chairman of the Civil Service Commission Committee institute an investigation of the hiring and investigation of employees by the Civil Service Commission with Max Lowenthal as Counsel.
Lee freeman is said to be the most important contact

Anti-Bureau Activities

April 8, 1944. BAD

It is interesting to note that on March 25, 1944, Walter Winchell's column carried the following: "Incidentally, the Attorney-General has protested the appointment of Max Lowenthal to the Senate Wire Tapping probe on the ground that he was the writer of the anonymous brief against John Edgar Hoover. It was distributed by Lowenthal's stooge Litchfield -- the irony of its: that an anonymous letter writer should be against wire tapping."

In furtherance of this "mess," according to an extremely confidential source, Carol King wrote to Lee Pressman in Washington, D.C., in May 1960, and asked whether it would not be a good idea for the Mine and Smelter Workers to get in touch with Max Lowenthal with reference to the TWA activities at Ducktown, Tennessee. Carol King stated that she did not want to do this directly inasmuch as she could never tell when Max was going to be temperamental and refuse to see the representative of the Mine and Smelter Workers. She expressed the thought that Max could do a lot if once he got started and added that he was somewhat discouraged "these days."

In March of 1962, the Director by memorandum to the Attorney General referred to the so-called Tennessee Valley Authority case at Cooper Hill, Tennessee, destruction of government property involving [redacted], wherein certain elements of the CIO committed sabotage and destroyed, by use of explosives, the power line of the Tennessee Valley Authority. The Director pointed out that the FBI was called upon to make the investigation and as a result the guilty parties were brought to trial and convicted in federal court. As a result, the Bureau was subjected to the most vicious and villifying campaign by elements of the CIO and Communists for the mere performance of its duties. At this time the Director referred to the above-mentioned letter written by Carol King to Lee Pressman.
Early in 1941, Lowenthal came out in the open and submitted a twenty-page brief entitled "Is the Department of Justice Sufficiently Competent in National Defense?" His brief urged defeat of legislation initiated by Congressman Hobbs intended to legalize wire tapping in specific types of cases, particularly those relating to the National Defense program. Lowenthal stated that the use of wire tapping in espionage, sabotage, and other cases involving serious offenses constituted a menace and a threat to the American people.
An item of considerable interest to the Bureau was discovered by Agents of the New York Office in the office of Carol Weiss King, heretofore mentioned as an attorney and as secretary of the International Juridical Association.

It was quite apparent from this that Lowenthal and Carol King probably worked on the "spear" of the Bureau together and that Lowenthal submitted his ideas to King either for approval or assistance. It is a well-known fact that Carol King has represented numerous notorious Communists and was an incorporator of the Compro Daily Publishing Company which at one time published the "Daily Worker". She has acted as counsel for Harry Bridges and has been active in the defense of recalled that on the floor of the Senate on February 1, 1942, Senator Truman alleged in substance that the Bureau had no excuse for not intercepting messages between Japanese spies in Hawaii and authorities in Japan. Generally speaking, the Senator's remarks were critical of the Bureau's activities. It seems apparent that Lowenthal was the one who supplied Senator Truman with the material he utilized in this speech.
Max Lowenthal has been described as a middle-aged, very wealthy New York lawyer and a one time partner of the law firm Lowenthal, Scold and Branden, 42 Exchange Place, New York City. Recently his home address was listed as 457 Central Park, West, New York City.

He is known as a former associate of and advisor to Senator Burton K. Wheeler and among others has been reportedly friendly with Lowenthal has appeared from time to time as a Federal employee of various governmental agencies and bureaus. He was Secretary of the National Commission of Law Observance and Enforcement (the Wickersham Commission). Subsequent to this he was an assistant to Ferdinand Pecora during the stock market investigation.

In March 1940, Lowenthal was reported to have held several positions in the New Deal Administration among them being the position of Special Attorney for the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, Rail Inquiry. Lowenthal has been reported to have been the author of the Wheeler Railroad Act which provides for the creation of a special court for rail reorganization as a "break" against "trading" among the parties to a suit. An article in the March 12, 1940 issue of the "St. Louis Post Dispatch" of St. Louis, Missouri, describes Lowenthal as counsel for the railroad financing investigation being conducted by Senator Burton K. Wheeler. The article stated that Lowenthal was "the real brains behind the investigation and without his work the whole project would have been without results."
Max Lowenthal has consistently and persistently engaged in a vilificatory campaign against the Federal Bureau of Investigation predicated on exaggerated distortion of facts.

To date no information has been received that Lowenthal is or was a member of the Communist Political Association. However, he has been the associate and adviser of individuals ranging in description from "left wing" to leading functionaries in the Communist Political Association.

On or about August 12, 1946, Mr. Max Lowenthal was appointed General Counsel to General Lucius Clay, Chief of the American military zone of the Allied Military Government of Germany. In the light of his record, Mr. Lowenthal's appointment has a definite interest to the Department of State.

Mr. Lowenthal was a member of the National Committee of the International Juridical Association (Official folder, "What is the I.J.A., published by the International Juridical Association) This organization was an adjunct of the International Labor Defense, which Attorney General Francis Biddle has termed the "legal arm of the Communist Party." The chief function of the International Juridical Association was the defense of Communist cases. It was founded on May 1, 1931, as part of a chain of similar Communist fronts throughout the world. Among his fellow members of the National Committee were the following individuals who are either openly avowed members of the Communist party, attorneys active in the defense of the Communist Party, or both:

Persons who know Mr. Lowenthal pay tribute to his shrewdness and the fact that he would not join such an organization without knowing its character.

On May 3, 1940, he was the signer of a declaration issued by the American Committee for Protection of Foreign Born, another adjunct of the International Labor Defense, both headed at one time by Hon. Vito Marcantonio. Both organizations specialized in the defense of Communist cases.

In May 1942 he was proposed for the post of Executive Secretary of the War Manpower Commission by Lee Pressman, pro-Communist General Counsel of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, and fellow member of the International Juridical Association. (New Leader, May 23, 1942)

As head of the Rehabilitation and Recovery Division of the Board of Economic Warfare, later known as the Foreign Economic Administration, Mr. Lowenthal included on his staff the following individuals with pro-Communist records:

Background

A complete review of the Bureau's files relating to the above-named individual has failed to show the date or country of his nativity and has revealed that he has never been the subject of a Bureau investigation. The usual reference books such as "Who's Who," et al have been checked with negative results. A report that Lowenthal sheds but meager light on his nationalistic history. The Bureau was advised in 1943, by a Civil Service Commission investigator that Lowenthal was then the subject of a thorough investigation and it is therefore believed that the files of the Civil Service Commission may contain additional information regarding his background and activities.

Information has been received by the Bureau from time to time which describes Lowenthal as a middle-aged, very wealthy New York lawyer, and a one-time partner of the law firm of Lowenthal, Scoll and Branden, 43 Exchange Place, New York City. The dearth of background information lends support to the allegation that the current Washington, D. BY WILLARD EDWARDS

Rep. Dondro (R) of Michigan exposed the communist affiliations of War department personnel in the American occupation zone in Germany in a House speech yesterday, in which he called for permitting a condition to exist which "dooms" our national interests. Dondro gave the names and records of a number of officials. Three have been "forced to resign," but the others remain.

"S focal point of the House incident was the resignation of Col. Bernard Bernstein, former director of the office of investigation of the Nazi party in the American occupation zone. Bernstein is alleged to have been a member of the Nazi party and to have worked for the German government during the war.

Bernstein's resignation was accepted by the House, and he was ordered to leave the country within 24 hours. The matter is now under investigation by the Attorney General's office.

In addition to Bernstein, other individuals have been named in connection with the investigation. These include:

- Robert M. Hart, a former member of the American Military Government, who is alleged to have been a member of the Nazi party.
- Carl Albert, a former member of the American Military Government, who is alleged to have been a member of the Nazi party.
- Joseph R. Doran, a former member of the American Military Government, who is alleged to have been a member of the Nazi party.

The investigation is being conducted by the Attorney General's office, and is expected to continue for several weeks.
Lowenthal attended the University of Minnesota at Minneapolis, Minnesota, receiving his B.A. Degree in 1909. He received his LL.B. Degree from Harvard University in 1912.

The records of the Foreign Economic Administration reflect the following occupational data concerning Lowenthal:

From 1907 to 1909 he was a reporter on the "Minneapolis Journal", Minneapolis, Minnesota.
From 1912 to 1915 he was a law clerk for Judge Julian E. Back, U. S. Commerce Court, at $1800 per annum, Washington, D. C.
From 1915 to 1916 he was a law clerk for Calwalander, Nickerson and Taft, New York City, at $1800 per annum.
In 1917 he was clerk or assistant to the emissary or mission in the State Department, Washington, D. C. and Europe.
From 1917 to 1918 he was assistant secretary and later secretary to the President's Mediation Commission, Washington, D. C.
In 1918 Lowenthal was an informal aide in the War Department, Washington, D. C.
From 1918 to 1919 he was assistant chairman of the War Policies Board.
From 1920 to 1921 he was an assistant secretary to the Second President's Industrial Conference, Washington, D. C.
From 1929 to 1930 he was an executive secretary for the National Commission on Law Enforcement and Observance, Washington, D. C.
From 1933 to 1934 he served as Research Director, U. S. Banking and Currency Commission, Washington, D. C.
From 1935 to 1942 he served as Chief Counsel for the U. S. Senate Commission on Interstate Commerce.
From May 16, 1942 to April 14, 1944, he served as a consultant for the Board of Economic Warfare, FEIA, at a per diem salary of $56.

During the periods not covered by the above he was engaged in the private practice of law and writing for magazines. (65-56402-2294 p.258 and following)

Information has been received by the Bureau from time to time concerning Lowenthal and his background. He is generally described as a very wealthy New York lawyer and at one time was a partner in the law firm of Lowenthal, Szold and Bredwen, 48 Exchange Place, New York City.
The current telephone directory for Washington, D.C. reflects that Lowenthal's Washington address is One West Irving Street, Chevy Chase, Maryland.

A technical surveillance on Lowenthal maintained by the Bureau from April to September, 1943, disclosed that he was in frequent contact with officials of the Office of Economic Warfare and other agencies with reference to plans being formulated for postwar rehabilitation. He was shown to be very free with his advice to of the latter agency, for the most part dealt with the meetings of the Coordinating Committee for Postwar Rehabilitation which has been attended by representatives of the State Department, Office of Economic Coordination and the Office of Lend Lease Administration. Lowenthal did not appear to have attended all of these meetings but discussed at length the matters which were taken up at the meetings. He acts in a "behind the scenes" capacity and his advice is constantly sought. (62-25733-2)

was discussed and Lowenthal questioned the appointment of a man "who isn't even known definitely to be a thorough liberal."/ Lowenthal's surveillance confirms the allegation of close friendly relationship with Justice Frankfurter, and other than painting Lowenthal as a strategist in government affairs, nothing of particular importance to the Bureau was developed by the surveillance. 62-25733-2

FEDERAL EMPLOYMENT

The Bureau's available information pertaining to Lowenthal's employment is undoubtedly incomplete. However, he has appeared from time to time as a Federal employee of various governmental agencies and Bureaus. By memorandum dated August 6, 1929, the Director related that Lowenthal, in his capacity as secretary of the National Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement (the Wickersham Commission) requested several items of information, the more pertinent of which are as follows:
"A memorandum setting forth the percentage of time spent by the Agents and Accountants of the Bureau on the more important phases of the Bureau's investigative work, such as National Motor Vehicle Theft Act, White Slave Traffic Act, Mails to Defraud, Theft From Interstate Shipment, Anti-Trust Violations, etc.

"A memorandum of the course of instruction followed at the training school for Special Agents and Special Accountants.

"A memorandum of the procedure followed in the selection of Special Agents and Special Accountants.

"A memorandum on the procedure followed to check the work and efficiency of Special Agents and Special Accountants after their appointment to the Bureau.

"Three copies of the new manual of instructions.

"Six copies of the efficiency rating sheets used for field employees.

"Six copies of the personality report sheets used by Inspectors in examining applicants."

During the remaining months of 1929, also during 1930, considerable additional material was furnished by the Bureau to Lowenthal, including three copies of the Bureau's Manual of Rules and Regulations, and one copy of the Manual of Instructions.

Sometime subsequent to Lowenthal's resignation from the Wickersham Commission, he was an Assistant to Ferdinand Peora during the Stock Market Investigation and

The allegation concerning Lowenthal's employment as an Assistant Attorney General has not been verified through records of the Department.

An article in the March 12, 1940, issue of the "St. Louis Post Dispatch" of St. Louis, Missouri, describes Lowenthal as Counsel for the Railroad Financing Investigation being conducted by Senator Burton K. Wheeler.
The article related that Lowenthal was the real brains behind the investigation and without his work the whole thing would have been without results.

(62-58277-1)

In Walter Winchell’s column of February 5, 1942, the statement was made that Senator Wheeler’s man Lowenthal, in addition to his Washington office, which he occupies at the taxpayer’s expense, also has an office at 45 Broadway, New York City, the phone number of which, Bigby 4-6790, is assigned to a government phone. The columnist then asked whether Wheeler had put the very rich man (meaning Lowenthal) on a Senate Interstate Commerce payroll.

(62-25733-22)

COMMUNIST AND LEFT WING ASSOCIATIONS

While to date no information has been received that Lowenthal is or was a member of the Communist Political Association there can be no doubt that he has been the associate and adviser of individuals ranging in description from “left wing” to “key figure” in the Communist Political Association.

From 1923 until the present time various sources have made available to the Bureau different items of information which portray his interest in Communist affairs.

(62-25733-20) 17

In support of the foregoing a review of pertinent items shows that in 1923, Lowenthal admitted to a Bureau Agent that he was General Counsel for the Russian American Industrial Corporation, 51 Union Square, New York City. In a prospectus published by this corporation for the purpose of raising capital, it is stated that the plan for the organization of a million dollar corporation as described in the prospectus was an outgrowth of the visit of Sidney Hillman, President of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, to Russia in the summer of 1921. The stated purpose of the corporation was “to aid and assist in developing the resources of Russia, thereby furthering the economic progress of Russia and the American progress in this country.”

(62-25733-20)
The "New York Times" for June 5, 1933, carried a summary of a book written by Lowenthal entitled "The Inverter Pays".

In February of 1942, the New York Office advised that a letterhead of the International Juridical Association carried the name Max Lowenthal, as being a member of the National Committee representing the District of Columbia. This organisation, now defunct, was said to be under Communist control and its statements and publications were described as having reflected the Communist line.

By way of explanation it might be noted that H.R. 6280 was a bill passed by the House of Representatives to amend the Nationality Act and provided for the cancelling of citizenship of a naturalised citizen "on the grounds that his utterances, writings, actions, or course of conduct establishes that his political allegiances is to a foreign state or sovereignty."

This Federation was known as a Communist front group.
This organization was known to have been subject to Communist influence.

Washington Field, by report dated March 29, 1944, in the case entitled "Communist Infiltration of CIO Maritime Committee," pointed out that for the CIO and co-counsel for the CIO Political Action Committee, discussed the possibilities of having Senator Downey, Chairman of the Civil Service Commission Committee, institute an investigation of the hiring and investigation of employees by the Civil Service Commission with Max Lowenthal as Counsel.

Lee Pressman is said to be the most important contact.

By letter to the Bureau dated November 4, 1944, SAC Conroy of New York pointed out that a Max Lowenthal, residing at 467 Central Park West, was in friendly contact with...
It is interesting to note that on March 25, 1940, Walter Winchell's column carried the following: "Incidentally, the Attorney General has protested the appointment of Max Lowenthal to the Senate Wire Tapping probe on the ground that he was the writer of the anonymous brief against John Edgar Hoover. It was distributed by Lowenthal's stooge Litchfield — the irony of it: that an anonymous letter writer should be against wire tapping."

In furtherance of this "smear" campaign, according to an extremely confidential source, Carol King wrote to Lee Pressman in Washington, D. C., on May 24, 1940, and asked whether it would not be a good idea for the Mine and Smelter Workers to get in touch with Max Lowenthal with reference to the FBI's activities at Ducktown, Tennessee. Carol King stated that she did not want to do this directly inasmuch as one could never tell when Max was going to be temperamental and refuse to see the representative of the Mine and Smelter Workers. She expressed the thought that Max could do a lot if once he got started and added that he was somewhat discouraged "these days."
In March of 1942, the Director by memorandum to the Attorney General referred to the so-called Tennessee Valley Authority case at Cooper Hill, Tennessee, destruction of government property involving [redacted], wherein certain elements of the CIO committed sabotage and destroyed, by use of explosives, the power line of the Tennessee Valley Authority. The Director pointed out that the FBI was called upon to make the investigation and as a result the guilty parties were brought to trial and convicted in federal court. As a result, the Bureau was subjected to the most vicious and vilifying campaign by elements of the CIO and Communists for the mere performance of its duties. At this time the Director referred to the above-mentioned letter written by Carol King to Lee Pressman.

(62-25733-20 p.6)

Early in 1941, Lowenthal came out in the open and submitted a twenty-page brief entitled "Is The Department of Justice Sufficiently Competent in National Defense?" His brief urged defeat of legislation initiated by Congressman Hobbs intended to legalize wire tapping in specific types of cases, particularly those relating to the National Defense program. Lowenthal stated that the use of wire tapping in espionage, sabotage and other cases involving serious felonies constituted a menace and a threat to the American people.

An item of considerable interest to the Bureau was discovered by Agents of the New York Office in the office of Carol Weiss King, heretofore mentioned as an attorney and as secretary of the International Juridical Association.

It was quite apparent from their files that Lowenthal and Carol King probably worked on the "smear" of the Bureau together and that Lowenthal submitted his ideas to King either for approval or assistance. It is a well-known fact that Carol King has represented numerous notorious Communists and was an incorporator of the Compro Daily Publishing Company which at one time published the "Daily Worker". She has acted as counsel for Harry Bridges and has been active in the defense of the [redacted].

CONNECTION WITH HARRY S. TRUMAN

It will be recalled that on the floor of the Senate on February 2, 1942, Senator Truman alleged in substance that the Bureau had no excuse for not intercepting messages between Japanese spies in Hawaii and authorities in Japan. Generally speaking, the Senator's remarks were critical of the Bureau's activities. It seems apparent that Lowenthal was the one who supplied Senator Truman with the material he utilized in this speech.
"Human Events", published in Washington, D. C., on September 26, 1946, linked Lowenthal with Communists. It said, "It may be a mere coincidence but since Mr. Lowenthal's appointment, General Clay has permitted leaders of the Soviet sponsored SED to address mass meetings in the American zone of occupation. It is not reported that opponents of the SED are allowed to express their opinions publicly in Russian-occupied Germany."

An article in the New York Times for January 25, 1947, reported an attack on the World Federation of Trade Unions by Representative George A. Benders, Republican of Michigan, as an instrument for world-wide attack on American foreign policy. During his attack he referred to Lowenthal as the General Counsel for General Clay in Germany and said that he was a man of long-established ties with Communist organizations and one whose loyalty was questionable.

(This memorandum consists of a review of the references appearing in the Bureau files concerning Lowenthal since April of 1945. The balance of the memorandum is taken from a memorandum previously written on April 27, 1945.)

REGIONAL LOYALTY BOARD NAME CHECK FOR MR. JAMES E. HATCHER
CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

Reference is made to a memorandum of Mr. V. P. Leary to you under the above caption dated August 11, 1948, which suggested that the Internal Security Unit prepare a memorandum on Max Lowenthal containing suitable data for transmittal to the Civil Service Commission by the Liaison Section.

Attached hereto is a blind memorandum for transmittal to the Civil Service Commission.

There is set forth below data contained in the Bureau files on Max H. Lowenthal who may be identical with the subject of the Civil Service inquiry. These data have been received from various sources including public sources and have not been completely verified. These data may be used by the Liaison Unit in its cover memorandum.

MAX H. LOWENTHAL

The Washington Daily News for August 8, 1933, indicated that Max Lowenthal, a noted lawyer, had resigned his position as Secretary to former President Hoover's Law Enforcement Commission because of "disappointment over the failure of the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission to adhere to its announced intention of making a scientific and impartial study of law violations and law enforcement." The article pointed out that Lowenthal served thirteen months without pay "in a position which he entered at the personal solicitation of George F. Fickerson, Chairman of the Commission" and quit in "disgust over what he regarded as its antics in the realm of political expediency." The article claimed that the breaking of the secrecy rule by various members of the Commission, bickering over the problem of prohibition, and breaches of common agreement precipitating several quarrels, caused Lowenthal great distress, and finally led to his resignation.

The New York Times index indicates that in the June 5, 1933, issue on page 18 there appeared a summary of the book written by Max Lowenthal, entitled "The Investor Pays."

In 1936 Max Lowenthal was reported to be a member of the National Committee of the International Juridical Association. This organization was cited as a Communist front by the Special Committee on Un-American Activities, House of Representatives, March 29, 1944. 62-25733 serial 6 page 4
This organization was cited as a Communist front by the Special Committee on Un-American Activities, House of Representatives on March 29, 1944.

A list of organizations named by Attorney General Tom C. Clark as being within the purview of Part III, Section 3 of Presidential Executive Order 9835 includes the National Federation for Constitutional Liberties.

The column by Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen entitled "Washington Merry-Go-Round" which appeared in the Washington Times Herald of January 20, 1942, contained the following reference to Max Lowenthal: "The CIO Left-Winger General Counsel Lee Pressman tried secretly to get an appointment to the Board for Max Lowenthal, attorney of the staff of Senator Burton Wheeler."

In Walter Winchell's column of February 5, 1942, the statement was made that Senator Wheeler's man Lowenthal, in addition to his Washington office which he occupies at the taxpayers' expense, also has an office at 45 Broadway New York City, the telephone number of which is Digby 6-6790. Winchell alleged that this number was assigned to a government phone. The columnist then asked whether Wheeler had put the very rich man (meaning Lowenthal) on the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee's payroll.

The New Leader for May 23, 1942, carried an article reflecting that in May 1942, Max Lowenthal was proposed for the post of Executive Secretary of the War Manpower Commission by Lee Pressman, General Counsel for the Congress of International Organizations and fellow member of the International Juridical Association.
Washington Book Shop, which was described as the official disseminating agency for Communist literature in Washington. This organization was cited as a Communist front by the Special Committee on Un-American Activities, House of Representatives March 29, 1944. 62-25733-40.

The Human Events published in Washington, D. C. on September 25, 1946, contained an article which linked Max Lowenthal, General Counsel to General Lucius Clay, Allied Military Government, Berlin Germany, with the Communists. The article stated, "It may be a mere coincidence but since Mr. Lowenthal's appointment General Clay has permitted leaders of the Soviet sponsored SED to address mass meetings in the American zone of occupation. It is not reported that opponents of the SED are allowed to express their opinions openly in Russian occupied Germany." 62-25733-41

The New York Times for July 10, 1947, contained an article entitled "Ex Army Men Named as 'Red' Backers." This article reflected that George A. Dondero, Republican of Michigan, had made a speech in the House of Representatives in which he named ten individuals once with the War Department whom he said had Communist backgrounds or leanings. One of these individuals named by Mr. Dondero was Max Lowenthal, former legal advisor in the United States zone. Mr. Dondero also stated that "Allen Rosenberg, attorney on Lowenthal's staff, is now actively defending Communist organizations and individuals in Washington." 61-7557-A NY Times 7-10-47

ACTION: If you approve, it is suggested that this memorandum and the attached blind memorandum be referred to the Liaison Unit.

RE: MAX H. LOWENTHAL

In 1923 Max Lowenthal stated that he was General Counsel for the Russian American Industrial Corporation, 31 Union Square, New York City. In a prospectus published by this corporation for the purpose of raising capital, it is stated that the plan for organization of a million dollar corporation as described in the prospectus was an outgrowth of the visit of Sidney Hillman, President of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, to Russia in the summer of 1921.

The stated purpose of the corporation was "to aid and assist in developing the resources of Russia, thereby furthering the economic progress of Russia and the American progress in that country." The prospectus referred to Soviet concessions consisting of six factories in Petrograd and three factories in Moscow for the making of material, and stated that the control of the concessions would be vested in representatives of the Supreme Council of National Economics of the Soviet Government and of the Russian American Industrial Corporation.

In a pamphlet issued by this corporation there appeared the names of Mr. and Mrs. Max Lowenthal as subscribers to Russian American Industrial Corporation stock.

In February 1942 the letterhead of the International Juridical Association carried the name of Max Lowenthal as being a member of the National Committee representing the District of Columbia. This organization was cited as a Communist front by the Special Committee on Un-American Activities, House of Representatives on March 29, 1944.

The Congressional Record for January 14, 1947, contains a speech made by Representative George A. Dondero, Republican of Michigan, in which Mr. Dondero discussed the "World Federation of Trade Unions." Mr. Dondero stated in part as follows: "It should also be noted that Mr. Max Lowenthal, recently appointed general counsel to Lieutenant General Clay, is a man with long-established ties to Communist organizations and his loyalty record is highly questionable. Another adviser and close associate of Lowenthal is George Shaw Wheeler, whose loyalty record is even more questionable." Congressional Record January 14, 1947 page 332

NAME CHECKS FOR MR. J. E. HATCHER
CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

It should be noted that one of the individuals mentioned in this list of names of Max Lowenthal (Loewenthal), and the following is all of the background information supplied:

A check of the Bureau files reveals a three volume report on Max H. Lowenthal, who is believed to be identical with the individual set out in the memorandum from the Civil Service Commission, above referred to. Bureau file No. 62-25733 contains the notation on the outside cover that inquiries on Max Lowenthal should be referred to the Security Division.

ACTION

It is suggested that this memorandum be referred to the Internal Security Section for preparation of suitable data for transmittal to the Civil Service Commission by Liaison.
To: Mr. D. M. Ladd
From: Mr. E. H. Winterroth
Subject: MAX LOWENTHAL

The Max Lowenthal who appears prominently in the Bureau files will be recalled as being closely associated with Communists and even members of the Communist underground in Washington. He will also be recalled as having had a very prominent and important part in the smear campaign against the Director and the Bureau in 1940.

The latest mention in the files with respect to Max Lowenthal, who is referred to immediately above and who was born on February 26, 1888, specifically with regard to his Federal Government employment, is contained in a memorandum dated January 31, 1948, wherein it is stated: [Redacted]

It is to be noted that a Loyalty of Government Employees Investigation was conducted relative to a Max Lowenthal, born February 26, 1888, who was at the time employed by the War Assets Administration. These two are not identical.

Consequently, it is to be seen that no Loyalty investigation has been conducted of the Max H. Lowenthal who is said to be presently working at the White House.

Recommendation:

In view of Lowenthal's background and since he is said to be presently working at the White House and is presumably a bona fide Federal Government employee, it is recommended that an immediate check be made with the Civil Service Commission to determine if he is presently employed with the Federal Government. Thereafter, if it is ascertained he is so employed, it is further recommended that a review of the files be made looking toward the inauguration of a Loyalty of Government Employees Investigation.

FROM: MR. R. W. WALD
SUBJECT: MAX LOWENTHAL

Supervisor Roach contacted of the White House who advised that Lowenthal had no official position in the White House, and furthermore that he is not on the White House payroll.

advised Mr. Roach that Lowenthal is a close friend of Matt Connelly, Secretary to the President, and frequently visits him. Further stated that the White House will be very interested in having any information indicating that Lowenthal is representing himself as being an Administrative Assistant to the President.

In view of the fact that Lowenthal is not presently employed at the White House, it does not appear that a loyalty investigation would be in order.

Max Lowenthal attended the University of Minnesota at Minneapolis, Minnesota, and received a B.A. Degree in 1909. He received an LL.B. Degree from Harvard University in 1912.

Max Lowenthal resides at 467 Central Park West, New York City. He owns a farm at Milford, Connecticut. Previous known addresses were 1 West Irving Street, Chevy Chase, Maryland, and 322 Central Park West, New York City.

He is married to and they have three grown children.

Lowenthal has an extensive employment history dating back to 1907. The following is a brief resume of the same:

From 1907 to 1909 he was a reporter on the "Minneapolis Journal", Minneapolis, Minnesota.

From 1912 to 1913 he was a law clerk for Judge Julian W. Mack, U.S. Commerce Court, at $1800 per annum, Washington, D.C.

From 1913 to 1914 he was a law clerk for Cadwalader, Wickersham and Taft, New York City, at $1800 per annum.

From 1917 to 1918 he was assistant secretary and later secretary to the President's Mediation Commission, Washington, D.C.

In 1918 Lowenthal was an informal aide in the War Department, Washington, D.C.

From 1918 to 1919 he was assistant chairman for the War Policies Board.

From 1920 to 1921 he was an assistant secretary to the Second President's Industrial Conference, Washington, D.C.

From 1929 to 1930 he was an executive secretary for the National Commission on Law Enforcement and Observance, Washington, D.C.

From 1933 to 1934 he served as Research Director, U.S. Banking and Currency Commission, Washington, D.C.

From 1935 to 1942 he served as Chief Counsel for the U.S. Senate Commission on Interstate Commerce.
From May 16, 1942, to April 14, 1944, he served as a consultant for the Board of Economic Warfare, FEA, at a per diem salary of $35. (65-56402-2294 pg 258, Records of FEA)

During the periods not covered by the above, he was engaged in the private practice of law and writing for magazines.

His last known official connection with the United States Government was in August, 1946, when he was appointed an Advisor on Problems of Internal Restitution Sequestration and Disposal of Jewish Property to General Lucius Clay, Allied Military Government, Berlin. He left for Berlin, Germany, to join the staff of General Clay on August 26, 1946, by plane. Lowenthal has sometimes been referred to as General Counsel to General Lucius Clay. Lowenthal does not appear to hold any position in the Government service at the present.

Max Lowenthal was at one time a partner in the law firm of Lowenthal, Saold and Brandwen, 41 Exchange Place, New York City. He is generally referred to as a New York lawyer of considerable affluence. (62-25733-11)

INVESTIGATION

Max Lowenthal has never been the subject of a complete investigation by the FBI, although a technical surveillance was maintained on him from April to September, 1943. (62-25733-2) (62-25733-11)

ALLEGATIONS OF COMMUNIST PARTY MEMBERSHIP

The Bureau does not possess any proof of Communist Party membership on the part of Max Lowenthal. However, there have been three strong allegations against him, which are set out as follows:
In 1923 Max Lowenthal was the General Counsel for the Russian American Industrial Corporation, 31 Union Square, New York City. In a prospectus published by this corporation, the purpose was set out as follows: "To aid and assist in developing the resources of Russia, thereby furthering the economic progress of Russia and the American progress in that country." The prospectus mentions Soviet concessions consisting of six factories in Petrograd and three factories in Moscow, and stated that the control of the concessions would be vested in representatives of the Supreme Council of National Economics of the Soviet Government and of the Russian American Industrial Corporation. According to the prospectus, the corporation was the outgrowth of a visit of Sidney Hillman (deceased), former President of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, to Russia in 1921.

This organization was cited by the Attorney General as a communist organization within the purview of Executive Order 9835, which relates to the loyalty of Government employees. (62-25733-20 pg 7; 100-7046-120)

In February, 1942, the letterhead of the International Juridical Association carried the name of Max Lowenthal as being a member of the National Committee representing the District of Columbia. This organization was cited as a communist front by the Special Committee on U.-American Activities of the House of Representatives on March 29, 1944. (62-25733-41 pg 5; 100-2563-14)
The records of the House Committee on Un-American Activities reflect Max Lowenthal of 1 West 92nd Street, New York City, as a member of the National Lawyers Guild. These records reflect that when he headed the Rehabilitation and Recovery Division of the Foreign Economic Administration, his staff included Allan Rosenberg, attorney, who is now actively defending Communist organizations and individuals in Washington, D. C. The National Lawyers Guild was cited as a Communist Front by the Special Committee on Un-American Activities of the House of Representatives on March 19, 1944. (62-25733-10x)

Ludwig Martens was investigated by the Departments of Labor and Justice, and as a result of these investigations, deportation proceedings against Martens was instituted in 1920 on the grounds that he was a member of the Russian Communist Party; that he believed in the establishment of the Soviet form of Government all over the world, and assisted in spreading the propaganda of the Third International. He and his entire family were permitted to depart voluntarily from the United States in 1921, and, according to the Soviet Press, he died around October 1, 1948. It is interesting to note that Arthur Alexandrovich Adams, a native of Russia who had been residing in the United States, was employed in Martens' technical section and he departed with Martens. Adams later engaged in Soviet espionage in the New York area. (Summary of Soviet and Satellite Espionage and Communist Activities in the U.S., 12-15-43) "Human Events", published weekly in Washington, D. C., said of Lowenthal on September 25, 1946, "It may be a mere coincidence, but since Mr. Lowenthal's appointment, General Clay has permitted leaders of the Soviet sponsored SED to address mass meetings in the American zone of occupation. It is not reported that opponents of the SED are allowed to express their opinions publicly in Russian-occupied Germany." (105-569) An article in the New York Times for January 15, 1947, reported an attack on the World Federation of Trade Unions by Representative George A. Dondero, Republican of Michigan, as an instrument for world wide attack on American foreign policy. During his attack he referred to Lowenthal as the General Counsel for General Clay in Germany and said that he was a man of long-established ties with Communist organizations and one whose loyalty was questionable. (10-260007 Sub A)
WASHINGTON INFLUENCE

No attempt has been made to verify this information but it was ascertained through a highly reliable source from April to September, 1943, that there was a very close and friendly association between Lowenthal and Justice Frankfurter. (62-25733-41)

The allegation concerning Lowenthal's employment as an Assistant Attorney General has not been verified through records of the Department. (61-7559-7878)

An article in the March 12, 1940, issue of the "St. Louis Post Dispatch" of St. Louis, Missouri, describes Lowenthal as Counsel for the Railroad Financing Investigation conducted by Senator Burton K. Wheeler. The article related that Lowenthal was the real brains behind the investigation and without his work the whole thing would have been without results. (62-58277-1)

In Walter Winchell's column of February 5, 1942, the statement was made that Senator Wheeler's man Lowenthal, in addition to his Washington office, which he occupies at the taxpayer's expense, also has an office at 45 Broadway, New York City, the phone number of which, Digby 4-6790, is assigned to a government phone. The columnist then asked whether Wheeler had put the very rich man (meaning Lowenthal) on a Senate Interstate Commerce payroll. (62-25733-22)
A highly reliable confidential source disclosed during April to September, 1943, that Lowenthal was in frequent contact with officials of the Office of Economic Warfare and other agencies with reference to plans being formulated for postwar rehabilitation. He was shown to be very free with his advice to the Office of Economic Warfare.

During one conversation with Lowenthal, he discussed and Lowenthal questioned the appointment of a man "who isn't even known definitely to be a thorough liberal."
The Washington Daily News for August 9, 1930, indicated that Max Lewenthal, a noted lawyer, had resigned his position as secretary to former President Hoover's Law Enforcement Commission because of "disappointment over the failure of the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission to adhere to its announced intention of making a scientific and impartial study of law violations and law enforcement." The article pointed out that Lewenthal served thirteen months without pay in a position which he entered at the personal solicitation of George E. Mckersham, Chairman of the Commission and quit in "disgust over what he regarded as its antics in the realm of political expediency." The article claimed that the breaking of the secrecy rule by various members of the Commission, bickering over the problem of prohibition, and breaches of common agreement precipitating several quarrels, caused Lewenthal great distress, and finally led to his resignation.

The New York Times index indicates that in the June 6, 1933, issue on page 18 there appeared a summary of the book written by Max Lewenthal, entitled "The Investor Pays."
be recalled that on the floor of the Senate on February 2, 1942, Senator Truman alleged in substance that the Bureau had no excuse for not intercepting messages between Japanese spies in Hawaii and authorities in Japan. Generally speaking, the Senator's remarks were critical of the Bureau's activities. It seems apparent that Lowenthal was the one who supplied Senator Truman with the material he utilized in this speech. (62-25735-20)

A report prepared by the Special Committee on Un-American Activities in 1944 concerning Communist front organizations, reflected that was affiliated with the following organizations: the American League Against War and Fascism, the American Peace Mobilization, the American Youth Congress, the National Federation for Constitutional Liberties, and the National Negro Congress. All of the above organizations have been designated by the Attorney General as Communist organizations within the purview of Executive Order 9835. (100-221067-16)
On June 23, 1947, it was ascertained through a highly reliable source that Senator Burton K. Wheeler contacted Max Lowenthal on June 23, 1947. During the conversation Lowenthal referred to some published statement to the effect that Wheeler was going to head the Department of Justice. Wheeler replied that there was "nothing to it". Lowenthal said that he thought it would be a fine move for the President to make. (65-56402-2850)

On June 24, 1947, it was ascertained through this same source that Max Lowenthal spoke to Matt Connelly, a Presidential Assistant at the White House. Max Lowenthal said, "Remember we talked yesterday about the Bulwinkle Bill. Now understand I didn't suggest any veto or anything or any other bill to him but if he is going to do it let's make sure it isn't overridden." Connelly agreed. Lowenthal continued, "That takes some work in advance."

About July, 1947, a confidential informant made available diaries belonging to Mary Jane Keeney and her husband, Phillip O. Keeney. These diaries were maintained by Mary Jane Keeney over a period of eight years and they contained information reflecting numerous contacts between the Keeney and Michael Naigles. These contacts usually showed that the Keeney and the Naigles spent the afternoons and evenings together and on numerous occasions other individuals were present, among whom was Mrs. Max Lowenthal.

On October 15, 1947, according to a confidential informant, Miriam Naigles was contacted by Max Lowenthal and he informed her that he desired to repay her for some type of work she had performed for him. She agreed to forward Lowenthal a bill. The nature of this work was not identified by the informant. Miriam Naigles is the wife of Michael Naigles. According to a confidential informant, the Naigles have been members of the Communist Party for some length of time. Michael Naigles has been alleged to have engaged in Soviet espionage activities with David Ralph Wahl, Washington representative of the American Jewish Conference, previously mentioned herein, and is an associate of Phillip and Mary Jane Keeney who have been reported by a confidential source as having been members of the Communist Party.
According to the records of the House Committee on Postwar Activities, Mr. Lowenthal of 1 West 22nd Street, New York City, while head of the Rehabilitation and Recovery Division of the Foreign Economic Administration, had been on his staff.

It is interesting to note that on March 25, 1940, Walter Winchell’s column carried the following: "Incidentally, the Attorney General has protested the appointment of Max Lowenthal to the Senate Wire Tapping probe on the ground that he was the writer of the anonymous brief against John Edgar Hoover. It was distributed by Lowenthal’s stooge Litchfield — the irony of it: that an anonymous letter writer should be against wire tapping."

In furtherance of this "smear" campaign, according to an extremely confidential source, Carol King wrote to Lee Pressman in Washington, D. C., on May 24, 1940, and asked whether it would not be a good idea for the Mine and Smelter Workers to get in touch with Max Lowenthal with reference to the FBI’s activities at Ducktown, Tennessee. Carol King stated that she did not want to do this directly inasmuch as Max was going to be temperamental and refuse to see the representative of the Mine and Smelter Workers. She expressed the thought that Max could do a lot if once he got started and added that he was somewhat discouraged "these days".

In March of 1942, the Director by memorandum to the Attorney General referred to the so-called Tennessee Valley Authority case at Cooper Hill, Tennessee, destruction of government property involving...et al, wherein certain elements of the CIO committed sabotage and destroyed, by use of explosives, the power line of the Tennessee Valley Authority. The Director pointed out that the FBI was called upon to make the investigation and as a result the guilty parties were brought to trial and convicted in federal court. As a result, the Bureau was subjected to the most vicious and vilifying campaign by elements of the CIO and Communists for the mere performance of its duties. At this time the Director referred to the above-mentioned letter written by Carol King to Lee Pressman.

Early in 1941, Lowenthal came out in the open and submitted a twenty-page brief entitled "Is the Department of Justice Sufficiently Competent in National Defense?" His brief urged defeat of legislation initiated by Congressman Hobbs intended to legalize wire tapping in specific types of cases, particularly those relating to the National Defense program. Lowenthal stated that the use of wire tapping in espionage, sabotage and other cases involving serious felonies constituted a menace and a threat to the American people.

(62-25733-20 p. 8)
In 1945, Carol Jung submitted her name to the Security Board as an applicant for the position of editor-in-chief of the Daily Worker. She was a member of the Communist Party, and her work as an editor was influenced by the party's goals and strategies. Jung was also active in the defense of Lombard and Co. She successfully defended Lombard in a lawsuit brought by the company. Lombard was a member of the Communist Party and was prosecuted for libel. The case was eventually settled out of court.

Jung's work on the Daily Worker was influenced by her political affiliations and her commitment to the party's goals. She was active in the defense of

Lombard, and her efforts were recognized by the party.

Her work on the Daily Worker was influenced by her political affiliations and her commitment to the party's goals. She was active in the defense of

Lombard, and her efforts were recognized by the party.
By memorandum dated August 6, 1929, the Director related that that Max Lowenthal, in his capacity as secretary of the National Commission of Law Observance and Enforcement (the Wickesren Commission), requested various items of information relating to the investigative work of the Bureau, the most pertinent of which are as follows:

"A memorandum setting forth the percentage of time spent by the Agents and Accountants of the Bureau on the more important phases of the Bureau's investigative work, such as National Motor Vehicle Theft Act, White Slave Traffic Act, Mail to Defraud, Theft from Interstate Shipment, Anti-Trust Violations, etc.

"A memorandum of the course of instruction followed at the training school for Special Agents and Special Accountants.

"A memorandum of the procedure followed in the selection of Special Agents and Special Accountants.

"A memorandum on the procedure followed to check the work and efficiency of Special Agents and Special Accountants after their appointment to the Bureau.

"Three copies of the new manual of instructions.

"Six copies of the efficiency rating sheets used for field employees.

"Six copies of the personality reports sheets used by Inspectors in examining applicants."

During the remaining months of 1929, also during 1930, considerable additional material was furnished by the Bureau to Lowenthal, including three copies of the Bureau's Manual of Rules and Regulations, and one copy of the Manual of Instructions. There is no indication the manuals were returned.
(62-21747-17) (62-25733-3)

Some time subsequent to Lowenthal's resignation from the Wickesren Commission, he was an assistant to Ferdinand Recora during the Stock Market Investigation.

EFFORTS TO DISCREDIT UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT AGENCIES

Federal Bureau of Investigation

Confidential sources have reported that since 1940 Max Lowenthal has instigated or been connected with a number of campaigns to discredit the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

In relation to this same attack, a confidential informant reported that Carol King had suggested having the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers get in touch with Max Lowenthal with reference to an FBI investigation conducted at Ducktown, Tennessee. It was indicated that Carol King thought Lowenthal could do a lot if he once got started, but that recently he was somewhat discouraged. This allegation of Carol King, as previous allegations made in this matter, was unfounded. Carol King is an Attorney who has represented numerous Communists.
Early in 1941 Lowenthal submitted a twenty-page brief entitled, "Is the Department of Justice Sufficiently Competent in National Defense." His brief urged defeat of legislation initiated by Congressman Hobbs intended to legalize wire tapping in specific types of cases, particularly those concerning the national defense program. MAX H. LOWENTHAL

BACKGROUND:

Max H. Lowenthal is a New York attorney who is well known in Washington, D.C. He lives at 467 Central Park West, New York City.

In August, 1946, he was appointed as an advisor to General Lucius Clay, who was then in Berlin, Germany. Previously Lowenthal held numerous responsible positions in various agencies of the United States Government.

ACTIVITIES:

In 1923 Max Lowenthal was the general counsel for the Russian American Industrial Corporation, 31 Union Square, New York City. In a prospectus published by this corporation, the purpose was set out as follows: "To aid and assist in developing the resources of Russia, thereby furthering the economic progress of Russia and the American progress in that country." The prospectus mentions Soviet concessions consisting of six factories in Petrograd and three factories in Moscow, and stated that the control of the concessions would be vested in representatives of the Supreme Council of National Economics of the Soviet Government and of the Russian American Industrial Corporation. According to the prospectus, the corporation was the outgrowth of a visit of Sidney Hillman, former President of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, to Russia in 1921. (62-25733-42).

This organization was cited by the Attorney General as a Communist organization within the purview of Executive Order 9835, which relates to the loyalty of Government employees. (62-25733-20 P. 7; 100-7046-120).

This organization was also cited by the Attorney General as one which came within the purview of Executive Order 9835. (62-25733-20, P. 9; 100-1170-49).
In February, 1942, the letterhead of the International Juridical Association carried the name of Max Lowenthal as being a member of the National Committee representing the District of Columbia. This organization was cited as a Communist front by the Special Committee on Un-American Activities of the House of Representatives, March 29, 1944. (62-25733-41, P. 5; 100-25839-14).

A confidential source reported that Max Lowenthal of 1 West 92nd Street, New York City, was a member of the National Lawyers Guild. This source further reported that "when he headed the Rehabilitation and Recovery Division of the Foreign Economic Administration, his staff included Allan Rosenberg, attorney, who is now actively defending Communist organizations and individuals in Washington, D. C." The National Lawyers Guild was cited as a Communist Front by the Special Committee on Un-American Activities of the House of Representatives on March 19, 1944. (100-25733-40 X).
EFFORTS TO DISCREDIT UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT AGENCIES:

Federal Bureau of Investigation

Confidential sources have reported that since 1940 Max Lowenthal has instigated or been connected with a number of campaigns to discredit the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

In relation to this same attack, a confidential informant reported that Carol King had suggested having the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers get in touch with Max Lowenthal with reference to an FBI investigation conducted at Deltown, Tennessee. It was indicated that Carol King thought Lowenthal could do a lot if he once got started, but that recently he was somewhat discouraged. This allegation of Carol King, as previous allegations made in this matter, was unfounded. Carol King is an attorney who has represented numerous Communists.
Early in 1941 Lowenthal submitted a twenty-page brief entitled, "Is the Department of Justice Sufficiently Competent in National Defense." His brief urged defeat of legislation initiated by Congressman Hobbs intended to legalize wire tapping in specific types of cases, particularly those concerning the national defense program. Lowenthal claimed that the use of wire tapping in espionage, sabotage and cases involving serious felonies constituted a menace and a threat to the American people.

Max Lowenthal attended the University of Minnesota at Minneapolis, Minnesota, and received a B.A. Degree in 1909. He received an LL.B. Degree from Harvard University in 1912. (62-25733-41; 100-25733-40x)

Max Lowenthal resides at 467 Central Park West, New York City. He owns a farm at Milford, Connecticut. Previous known addresses were 1 West Irving Street, Chevy Chase, Maryland, and 322 Central Park West, New York City.

He is married to [redacted] and they have three grown children.

Lowenthal has an extensive employment history dating back to 1907. The following is a brief resume of the same:

From 1907 to 1909 he was a reporter on the "Minneapolis Journal", Minneapolis, Minnesota.

From 1912 to 1913 he was a law clerk for Judge Julian W. Mack, U. S. Commerce Court, at $1800 per annum, Washington, D. C.

From 1913 to 1914 he was a law clerk for Cadwalader, Wickersham and Taft, New York City, at $1800 per annum.

From 1917 to 1918 he was assistant secretary and later secretary to the President's Mediation Commission, Washington, D. C.

In 1918 Lowenthal was an informal aide in the War Department, Washington, D. C.

From 1918 to 1919 he was assistant chairman for the War Policies Board.

From 1920 to 1921 he was an assistant secretary to the Second President's Industrial Conference, Washington, D. C.

From 1929 to 1930 he was an executive secretary for the National Commission on Law Enforcement and Observance, Washington, D. C.

From 1933 to 1934 he served as Research Director, U. S. Banking and Currency Commission, Washington, D. C.
From 1935 to 1942 he served as Chief Counsel for the U.S. Senate Commission on Interstate Commerce.

From May 16, 1942 to April 14, 1944, he served as a consultant for the Board of Economic Warfare, FEA, at a per diem salary of $35.

During the periods not covered by the above, he was engaged in the private practice of law and writing for magazines.

His last known official connection with the United States Government was in August, 1946, when he was appointed an Advisor on Problems of Internal Restitution Sequestration and Disposal of Jewish Property to General Lucius Clay, Allied Military Government, Berlin. He left for Berlin, Germany, to join the staff of General Clay on August 26, 1946, by plane. Lowenthal has sometimes been referred to as General Counsel to General Lucius Clay. Lowenthal does not appear to hold any position in the Government service at the present time.

Max Lowenthal was at one time a partner in the law firm of Lowenthal, Szold and Brandwen, 43 Exchange Place, New York City. He is generally referred to as a New York lawyer of considerable affluence.

INVESTIGATION

Max Lowenthal has never been the subject of a complete investigation by the FBI, although a technical surveillance was maintained on him from April to September, 1943.

ALLEGATIONS OF COMMUNIST PARTY MEMBERSHIP

The Bureau does not possess any proof of Communist Party membership on the part of Max Lowenthal. However, there have been three strong allegations against him, which are set out as follows:

(62-25733-41)
In 1923 Max Lowenthal was the General Counsel for the Russian American Industrial Corporation, 31 Union Square, New York City. In a prospectus published by this corporation, the purpose was set out as follows: "To aid and assist in developing the resources of Russia, thereby furthering the economic progress of Russia and the American progress in that country." The prospectus mentions Soviet concessions consisting of six factories in Petrograd and three factories in Moscow, and stated that the control of the concessions would be vested in representatives of the Supreme Council of National Economics of the Soviet Government and of the Russian American Industrial Corporation. According to the prospectus, the corporation was the outgrowth of a visit of Sidney Hillman (deceased), former President of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, to Russia in 1921. (62-25733-42)

This organization was cited by the Attorney General as a Communist organization within the purview of Executive Order 9835, which relates to the loyalty of Government employees. (62-25733-20, pg. 7; 100-7046-120)

This organization was also cited by the Attorney General as one which came within the purview of Executive Order 9835. (62-25733-20, pg. 9; 100-1170-42)

In February, 1942, the letterhead of the International Juridical Association carried the name of Max Lowenthal as being a member of the National Committee representing the District of Columbia. This organization was cited as a Communist front by the Special Committee on Un-American Activities of the House of Representatives on March 29, 1944. 62-25733-41, pg. 5; 100-25833-14
The records of the House Committee on Un-American Activities reflect Max Lowenthal of 1 West 92nd Street, New York City, was a member of the National Lawyers Guild. These records reflect that "when he headed the Rehabilitation and Recovery Division of the Foreign Economic Administration, his staff included Allan Rosenberg, attorney, who is now actively defending Communist organizations and individuals in Washington, D.C." The National Lawyers Guild was cited as a Communist Front by the Special Committee on Un-American Activities of the House of Representatives on March 19, 1944. (100-25733-40x)

Ludwig Martens was investigated by the Departments of Labor and Justice, and as a result of these investigations, deportation proceedings against Martens were instituted in 1920 on the grounds that he was a member of the Russian Communist Party, that he believed in the establishment of the Soviet form of Government all over the world, and assisted in spreading the propaganda of the Third International. He and his entire family were permitted to depart voluntarily from the United States in 1921, and, according to the Soviet Press, he died around October 1, 1948. It is interesting to note that Arthur Alexandrovich Adams, a native of Russia who had been residing in the United States, was employed in Martens' technical section and he departed with Martens. Adams later engaged in Soviet espionage in the New York area. (Summary of Soviet and Satellite Espionage and Communist Activities in the U.S., 12-15-48)

"Human Events", published weekly in Washington, D.C., said of Lowenthal on September 25, 1946, "It may be a mere coincidence, but since Mr. Lowenthal's appointment, General Clay has permitted leaders of the Soviet sponsored SED to address mass meetings in the American zone of occupation. It is not reported that opponents of the SED are allowed to express their opinions publicly in Russian-occupied Germany." (105-8697-11 pg 9)

An article in the New York Times for January 15, 1947, reported an attack on the World Federation of Trade Unions by Representative George A. Dondero, Republican of Michigan, as an instrument for world wide attack on American foreign policy.
During his attack he referred to Lowenthal as the General Counsel for General Clay in Germany and said that he was a man of long-established ties with Communist organizations and one whose loyalty was questionable.

(100-260007 Sub A)
No attempt has been made to verify this information but it was ascertained through a highly reliable source from April to September, 1943, that there was a very close and friendly association between Lowenthal and Justice Frankfurter. (62-25733-41)

The allegation concerning Lowenthal's employment as an Assistant Attorney General has not been verified through records of the Department. (61-7559-7879)

An article in the March 12, 1940, issue of the "St. Louis Post Dispatch" of St. Louis, Missouri, describes Lowenthal as Counsel for the Railroad Financing Investigation conducted by Senator Burton K. Wheeler. The article related that Lowenthal was the real brains behind the investigation and without his work the whole thing would have been without results. (62-86277-71)

In Walter Winchell's column of February 5, 1942, the statement was made that Senator Wheeler's man Lowenthal, in addition to his Washington office, which he occupies at the taxpayers' expense, also has an office at 45 Broadway, New York City, the phone number of which, Digby 4-6790, is assigned to a government phone. The columnist then asked whether Wheeler had put the very rich man (meaning Lowenthal) on a Senate Interstate Commerce Committee payroll. (62-25733-22)
A highly reliable confidential source disclosed during April to September, 1943, that Lowenthal was in frequent contact with officials of the Office of Economic Warfare and other agencies with reference to plans being formulated for postwar rehabilitation. He was shown to be very free with his advice to the Office of Economic Warfare. His contact with officials of the latter agency, for the most part dealt with the meetings of the Coordinating Committee for Postwar Rehabilitation which has been attended by representatives of the State Department, Office of Economic Coordination and the Office of Lend Lease Administration. Lowenthal did not appear to have attended all of these meetings but discussed at length the matters which were taken up at the meetings. He appeared to act in a "behind the scenes" capacity and his advice was constantly sought.

During one conversation with, Lowenthal questioned the appointment of a man "who isn't even known definitely to be a thorough liberal."
It will be recalled that on the floor of the Senate on February 2, 1942, Senator Truman alleged in substance that the Bureau had no excuse for not intercepting messages between Japanese spies in Hawaii and authorities in Japan. Generally speaking, the Senator's remarks were critical of the Bureau's activities. It seems apparent that Lowenthal was the one who supplied Senator Truman with the material he utilized in this speech. (62-25733-20)

A report prepared by the Special Committee on Un-American Activities in 1944 concerning Communist front organizations, reflected that was affiliated with the following organizations: the American League Against War and Fascism, the American Peace Mobilization, the American Youth Congress, the National Federation for Constitutional Liberties, and the National Negro Congress. All of the above organizations have been designated by the Attorney General as Communist organizations within the purview of Executive Order 9835. (100-221057-16)

On June 23, 1947, it was ascertained through a highly reliable source that Senator Burton K. Wheeler contacted Max Lowenthal on June 23, 1947. During the conversation Lowenthal referred to some published statement to the effect that Wheeler was going to head the Department of Justice. Wheeler replied that there was "nothing to it". Lowenthal said that he thought it would be a fine move for the President to make.

On June 24, 1947, it was ascertained through this same source that Max Lowenthal spoke to Matt Connelly, a Presidential Assistant at the White House. Max Lowenthal said, "Remember we talked yesterday about the Bulwinkle Bill. Now understand I didn't suggest any veto or anything or any other bill to him but if he is going to do it let's make sure it isn't overridden." Connelly agreed. Lowenthal continued, "That takes some work in advance."
About July, 1947, a confidential informant made available diaries belonging to Mary Jane Keeney and her husband, Phillip O. Keeney. These diaries were maintained by Mary Jane Keeney over a period of eight years and they contained information reflecting numerous contacts between the Keeneys and Michael Naigles. These contacts usually showed that the Keeneys and the Naigles spent the afternoons and evenings together and on numerous occasions other individuals were present, among whom was Mrs. Max Lowenthal.

On October 15, 1947, according to a confidential informant, Miriam Naigles was contacted by Max Lowenthal and he informed her that he desired to repay her for some type of work she had performed for him. She agreed to forward Lowenthal...
a bill. The nature of this work was not identified by the informant. Miriam Naigles is the wife of Michael Naigles. According to a confidential informant, the Naigles have been members of the Communist Party for some length of time. Michael Naigles has been alleged to have engaged in Soviet espionage activities with David Ralph Wahl, Washington representative of the American Jewish Conference, previously mentioned herein, and is an associate of Phillip and Mary Jane Keeney who have been reported by a confidential source as having been members of the Communist Party.

(101-4732-25, 27, 22, p. 3, 12)

On May 6, 1947, it was ascertained through a highly confidential source that Philip Dunaway had in his effects a report pertaining to an investigation concerning "Lyle Winston Cooper, Business Research Economist, Works Progress Administration, Internal Security - Hatch Act". This report was made by Special Agent C. A. Hardison, Washington, D. C., dated April 18, 1942. This report was recovered by the New York Office on June 7, 1947.

(65-56402-2606)
According to the records of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, Max Lowenthal of 1 West 92nd Street, New York City, while head of the Rehabilitation and Recovery Division of the Foreign Economic Administration had Allen Rosenberg, attorney, on his staff. Rosenberg has been mentioned here-in be-fore as a subject in the Silvermaster case.

(66-2542-3-50-1045, p. 2; 65-25773-40; 121-25733-40X)
A confidential informant advised that [redacted] was in contact (by mail) with Max Lowenthal March 27, 1950.
It is interesting to note that on March 25, 1940, Walter Winchell's column carried the following: "Incidentally, the Attorney General has protested the appointment of Max Lowenthal to the Senate Wire Tapping probe on the ground that he was the writer of the anonymous brief against John Edgar Hoover. It was distributed by Lowenthal's stooge Litchfield—the irony of it: that an anonymous letter writer should be against wire tapping."

In furtherance of this "smear" campaign, according to an extremely confidential source, Carol King wrote to Lee Pressman in Washington, D.C., on May 24, 1940, and asked whether it would not be a good idea for the Mine and Smelter Workers to get in touch with Max Lowenthal with reference to the FBI's activities at Ducktown, Tennessee. Carol King stated that she did not Congressman Hobbs intended to legalize wire tapping in specific types of cases, particularly those relating to the National Defense program. Lowenthal stated that the use of wire tapping in espionage, sabotage and other cases involving serious felonies constituted a menace and a threat to the American people. (62-25733-20 p. 8)
An item of considerable interest to the Bureau was discovered by Agents of the New York Office in the office of Carol Weiss King, heretofore mentioned as an attorney who has represented numerous Communists.

It was quite apparent from this that Lowenthal and Carol King probably worked on the "smear" of the Bureau together and that Lowenthal submitted his ideas to King either for approval or assistance. It is a well-known fact that Carol King has represented numerous notorious Communists and was an incorporator of the Compro Daily Publishing Company which at one time published the "Daily Worker". She acted as counsel for Harry Bridges and has been active in the defense of...
By memorandum dated August 6, 1929, the Director related that Max Lowenthal, in his capacity as secretary of the National Commission of Law Observation and Enforcement (the Wickersham Commission), requested various items of information relating to the investigative work of the bureau, the most pertinent of which are as follows:

"A memorandum setting forth the percentage of time spent by the agents and accountants of the bureau on the more important phases of the bureau's investigative work, such as National Motor Vehicle Theft Act, White Slave Traffic Act, Mail to Defraud, Theft from Interstate Shipment, Anti-Trust Violations, etc.,

"A memorandum of the course of instruction followed at the training school for Special Agents and Special Accountants.

"A memorandum of the procedure followed in the selection of Special Agents and Special Accountants.

"A memorandum on the procedure followed to check the work and efficiency of Special Agents and Special Accountants after their appointment to the bureau.

"Three copies of the new manual of instructions.

"Six copies of the efficiency ratings sheets used for field employees.

"Six copies of the personality reports sheets used by inspectors in examining applicants."

During the remaining months of 1929, also during 1930, considerable additional material was furnished by the bureau to Lowenthal, including three copies of the bureau's manual of rules and regulations, and one copy of the manual of instructions. There is no indication the manuals were returned.

62-21/47-17; 62-25733-3

Some time subsequent to Lowenthal's resignation from the Wickersham Commission, he was an assistant to Ferdinand Pecora during the stock market investigation and

62-25733-20
During a portion of this period, Henry Wallace was of course Chairmen of the Board of Economic Warfare.

Zombeteshal, a long time official connection with the United States Government, was in August, 1945, when he was appointed an Advisor on Problems of Internal Reorganization, Administration and Personnel of Civil Research in General during the War, Allied Military Government, Berlin. During the period he served by Zombeteshal's government employment he was engaged in private law practice and writing for various magazines.

In the past, several serious accusations have been received alleging Communist Party membership on the part of Zombeteshal.

According to the records of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, has actively defended Communist organizations and individuals in Washington.
This particular organization was cited by the Attorney General as a Communist organization within the purview of Executive Order 9066, which relates to the loyalty of government employees.

In February, 1943, Lowenthal's name was carried on the letterhead of the International Juridical Association as being a member of the National Committee of this organization representing the District of Columbia. This group was cited as a Communist front by the House Committee on Un-American Activities on March 29, 1944.

It should be further noted that the records of the House Committee on Un-American Activities reflect that Lowenthal was a member of the National Lawyers Guild. The latter was cited as a Communist front by the House Committee on Un-American Activities on March 13, 1944.

According to the New York Times for January 15, 1947, Representative George A. Dondero attacked the United Federation of Trade Unions as an instrument for world-wide attack on American foreign policy and during the course of his remarks referred to Lowenthal as the General Counsel for General Clay in Germany. He described Lowenthal as a man of long-established ties with Communist organizations and questions his loyalty was questionable. with a number of individuals who have been reported to have engaged in Soviet espionage or Communist underground activities in Washington in the early 1940's.

With congratulations of my highest esteem and best regards,

Sincerely yours,

J. Edgar Hoover

As you suggested, I talked to Matt Connelley this morning for about thirty minutes concerning Max Lowenthal and the book that he is writing which will be highly critical of the Director and the Bureau.

Mr. Connelley was told that the Director desired him to know of certain derogatory information that the Bureau had concerning Lowenthal, his previous writings and his antagonistic attitude toward Government agencies generally and the Bureau in particular.

Connelley stated that he knew that Lowenthal was writing a book but did not have the least idea what it was about. According to Connelley, Lowenthal contacted him some time back and asked him in veiled language if he was interested in seeing the material he intended to use. Connelley informed Lowenthal that he had no interest in the matter and did not desire to see the manuscript that Lowenthal had prepared at that time. Connelley stated that from the tenor of Lowenthal's conversation he got the impression that Lowenthal wanted him to write a Foreword or at least give verbal approval of his book. Connelley stated that such an approach was not unusual on the part of Lowenthal as he quite frequently came to Connelley with some "bright idea" and asked if Connelley or the President would be interested. On all occasions Connelley stated that he brushed Lowenthal off, whereupon Lowenthal's only response would be, "Well, it doesn't hurt to try."
In continuing the discussion on Lowenthal, I pointed out to Mr. Connelley the derogatory information that the Bureau had in its files. Principally in the past, strong allegations had been received alleging Communist party membership on the part of Lowenthal.

It was also mentioned to Mr. Connelley that in 1923 Lowenthal was General Counsel for the Russian-American Industrial Corporation, New York City, the aims and purposes of which were to aid and assist in developing the resources of Russia.

That this particular organization was cited by the Attorney General as a Communist front organization.

Another group that was cited by the Attorney General as coming within the purview of Executive Order 9835.

It was pointed out to Mr. Connelley that the records of the House Committee on Un-American Activities reflected that Max Lowenthal was a member of the National Lawyers Guild and that still another informant reported that Lowenthal had been associated with a number of individuals who had been reported to have engaged in Soviet espionage or Communist underground activities in Washington in the early 1940's.
The writings of Lowenthal over a number of years were called to Mr. Connelley's attention and the highly critical nature of such writings as they pertained to the FBI and the Director in conjunction with Lowenthal's campaign to discredit the FBI, Mr. Connelley's attention was called to the fact that information had come to our attention that Lowenthal had worked closely with one Carol Weiss King; that it was well known that Carol King had represented numerous notorious Communists as an attorney and that she, King, has also acted as counsel for Harry Bridges.

Upon giving these facts to Mr. Connelley, he stated that they were undoubtedly incorporated in the letter that the Bureau gave to Admiral Soivers. He stated that he had not read the Bureau's letter but that Soivers had mentioned it to him when he, Soivers, handed it to the President. Connelley stated that Soivers commented, "I have a letter from J. Edgar Hoover concerning your friend. I intend to give it to the President unless you have some objection." Connelley stated that he told Soivers he certainly had no objection and that the President should see the letter. Connelley stated that the President now has the letter and that when it is checked back to Soivers, he, Connelley, intends to look at it to get all the facts it contains.

Mr. Connelley commented that of course there is nothing that can be done now to stop the publication of the book but that he intends to see that the President is verbally given "the right steer" on Lowenthal.

Connelley advised that he was very appreciative of the fact that the Director saw fit to tip him off on this matter. He asked that I pass his words of appreciation on to the Director.
SUBJECT: MAX LOWENTHAL

For record purposes, ASAC Whelan of New York ascertained that Lowenthal presently resides in a penthouse apartment at 467 Central Park West, for which he pays $175 a month.

INVESTIGATOR’S NOTE: Investigation in this case was conducted in accordance with a Brief from the 4th Regional Office, dated June 7, 1943, File: INV;4R;WJE, which states as follows:

- It is requested that the following witnesses be interviewed:
  - J. E. H. Hardman, Editor of the official publication of Amalgamated Clothing Workers,
  - Sidney Hillman, of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers,
  - Judge Julian W. Mack, former Federal Judge, office in Woolworth Building.
  - Ralph Emmerson, 2515 Newton Ave., Astoria, L. I., N. Y., an employee of the Phelps-Dodge Oil Co., and a former Communist who might have information;
  - Morris Erstat, Attorney;
  - Louis Gruss, 66 Court Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., a former party member who secured the evidence in the Paul-Kern Investigation;
  - Appropriate official or officials of Kuehn Loeb & Co.

The following facts have been developed which make the above requested contacts necessary:

About 1923, Sidney Hillman organized the Russian-American Industrial Corporation, in connection with the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, the ostensible purpose of the organization which was incorporated in Delaware, was to manufacture and sell in Mrs. Loventhal is the former Eleanor Mack, niece of Judge Julian W. Mack, and it is reported that the Judge is familiar with the radical leanings of the applicant who is his former secretary, and has expressed satisfaction with him.

Until about 1929, Loventhal engaged in the practice of law in New York, at which time he became counsel for the Wickersham Committee, retaining this position for about a year when he resigned in a huff because the FBI, it is alleged, would not let him have free run of its files. About 1933 or 1934, he wrote a book on the reorganization of the Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Paul Railroad, which was entitled the "Investor Payz," and which dealt harshly with Kuhn Loeb, the firm dominating the reorganization. It is quite possible that Kuhn Loeb will have information of the subject.

The applicant since early in its life, if not from its very inception, had been associated with the International Juridical Association, of which the Secretary is the applicant's former law clerk, Carol W. King. The applicant's wife has been known in one instance to have done research for the IJA Bulletin, and Mr. Loventhal, himself, appears to have exchanged opinions, prepared memoranda, and worked with Carol W. King. The subject has a penchant for preparing memoranda on various subjects, the great body of which have been on the FBI apparently, and which are fed through various members of the National Press Club who publicize them by using material from them in stories they write.

Even though the applicant worked for seven or eight years for Senator Wheeler, he has not been the same type of isolationist as the Senator. While he was against Land-Lease, when it was initiated, he was a strong interventionist by the letter part of 1941, although it has not been established that he switched during the crucial days of 1941, June. It has been alleged that the subject, Judge Jerome Frank, and Sigmund Hertzberg, were the brains behind the "America First" organization. Judge Frank is on the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, Foley Square, New York, and should be interviewed in addition to the parties mentioned above. The IJA Bulletin followed the Party Line to a much better defined extent, declaring in 1940 that it was a period of "War hysteria" and in 1942 quoting Paul Robeson to the effect that "This is a war for freedom," and also opposing the Burke-Wadsworth bill and other war measures.

This memorandum, it should be understood, is in no way binding, and it is felt that further leads will be developed and explored in the New York inquiry.

By direction of the District Manager;

Very truly yours,
Chester D. Smith
Acting Principal Investigator.
MR. E. CAMERON, Head Elevator Operator, 322 Central Park West, New York City, interviewed March 20, 1943, by Investigator M. Raymond Stone.

He was here quite a while ago. He has left a forwarding address 2 W. Irving St., Chevy Chase, Md. Mr. Lowenthal is a man about 50 or more, and he lived here with his wife and two children. He certainly seemed to be all right while they were here, so far as I know. Of course, all I know of them was that they came and went quietly and never seemed to bother anyone. He had apartment 16-A, an 8 room apartment. I don't know where they lived before they came here. You had better contact the renting agent and that will be a tough job because there has been many of them in the meantime.

No, there isn't anyone up there now, who lived here when Lowenthal had their apartment.

Bernard Gilsley has the building now. Their office is at 2095 Broadway. Perhaps Wood-Dolsen Company would know of his residence here.

BERNARD GILSLEY, Real Estate Brokers, 2095 Broadway, New York City, interviewed March 20, 1943 by Investigator M. Raymond Stone.

We now have the building at 322 Central Park West, but we took the place over in December of 1942. I suggest that you see the Wood-Dolsen Company at 241 W. 72nd Street.

MR. LEE A. SCHILLER, Agent for Wood-Dolsen, Real Estate Brokers, 241 W. 72nd St., New York City, interviewed March 20, 1943, by Investigator M. Raymond Stone.

We took the building at 322 Central Park West over in December 1st of 1940. When we took the building over, Apartment 16-A was vacant. We bought the place from the Hanover Bank and Trust Company who had just foreclosed on the property. Mr. Jacob-Aisenberg, owned the building before we obtained it from the bank. Mr. Aisenberg is still living at 322 Central Park West in Apartment 8-b. He should be able to give you some information about Mr. Lowenthal.

MR. JACOB AISENBERG, Apt. 8-b, 322 Central Park West, New York City, interviewed March 20, 1943 by Investigator M. Raymond Stone.

Yes, I remember Max Lowenthal living here. I have just called my office and they have advised me that he left here on September 16, 1940 after having lived here 2 years. He was satisfactory as a tenant. We had a little trouble with him once over the payment of a half month's rent, but it was all over a technicality of the law. He has an attorney by the name of Strook, down in the Wall Street area. I believe the address is 61 Broadway.
I would say Lowenthal is a man about 50 years of age.

MR. HAROLD UNGAR, Attorney with the General Counsel's Office, Railroad Retirement Board, 45 Broadway, New York City, Interviewed March 22, 1943, by Investigator M. Raymond Stone.

Mr. Lowenthal is a wonderful man. That's about the only way to describe him. He's just about perfect. He was general counsel to the sub-Committee on Interstate Commerce in the investigation of railroads pursuant to Resolution 971. He was a national expert on the subject of railroads. He has written books on the subject. He has a very good book called, "The Investor Pays".

His main job here was an overall study of the investigation of the St. Paul Railroad. I was assigned by the Railroad Retirement Board to work with Mr. Lowenthal. He was chosen by the U. S. Senate Committee as Chief Counsel to work on railroad investigations and I was assigned by the Railroad Retirement Board to work with him.

The Sub-Committee has been out of existence since last Congress and now the Railroad Retirement Board project is being liquidated. They want to come out to Chicago now where the Board has moved, but with my family and the draft on my hands I can't do it.

I think that Mr. Lowenthal is just above the top of the world. I knew him over 30 years. I know he is a New Dealer, but I don't think he is Communistically inclined at all. I think for anything personal about him, you should see some of the City's Attorneys and business men who know him well. My connections with him have been entirely business and in connection with the railroad business.

As to every trait of his character, I think he is really the greatest man I ever met. Years ago, he used to be connected with Mr. Swold of the firm of Swold and Brandwein. Judge Mack of the Federal Court is, I think, his father-in-law.

He started here with this company in 1936. He is a man about 52 or 53 years of age. He is married and I think has two children. His pay here was only nominal. There was a rule in the Senate limiting his salary to about $3600.

I know of no scrapes or difficulties he has ever been in. A man of his record and caliber I would suppose would never be interested in that sort of thing (note: reference to Communism or Fascism).

His job here was a Congressional appointment. The committee was under the chairmanship of Senator Wheeler. Yes, this was a full time job. His connection, through the investigation, were more with banking and insurance than of the railroads. He is one of the leading writers of the country on the subject of railroads.

MR. ALLAN STROOCK, Attorney, Law firm of Stroock, Stroock and Lavan, 61 Broadway, New York City.

Interviewed March 22, 1943 by Investigator M. Raymond Stone.
Mr. Lowenthal is a Harvard man. I believe that my father did some legal work with him, but that was before my connections with the firm.

MR. ROBERT SZOLD, Partner, Law firm of Szold and Brandwein, 30 Broad St., New York City.
Interviewed March 22, 1943 by Investigator M. Raymond Stone.

I have known Max Lowenthal for about 20 or 25 years or more. He and I went to Harvard Law School together. Both of us graduated Cum Laude. We were both on the Harvard Law Review. He was secretary to Judge Mack about 1913. About 1920 he and I formed the law firm of Lowenthal and Szold. A few years later R. W. Perkins came in with us. Max is married to a niece of Judge Mack. The judge is an old and sick man now and I doubt if you could see him. Max finally left the firm and retired. He is pretty well heeled so far as money is concerned. His wife will inherit well. He's not the Communist type at all. He has always had things pretty much his own way. Of course, I say he is a drastic New Dealer, but I can all the way down the line for his true Americanism. I am sure, and I know him through and through, that he has never been connected with anything Communist. And, of course, his background precludes any possibility of Marxism or Fascism. He has never been in any sort of difficulties. He is a very able, liberal fellow and greatly devoted to public service.

I give him this good recommendation without reservation and I would definitely not be responsible for a recommendation like this if I wasn't sure of him, because of my own past history. In 1915 I was Assistant Attorney General in Puerto Rico and following that I was then in the Department of Justice for a while.

He has written a book called "The Investor Pays".

I think Joe Bear of the Bear-Sterns Brokerage firm and also E. F. Drew of the E. F. Drew and Company could also tell you all about him.

JospeH BEAR, Partner, Bear & Stearns, Brokerage Firm, 1 Wall St., New York City
Interviewed March 22, 1943 by Investigator M. Raymond Stone.

Yes, I have known Max Lowenthal for at least 20 years. He has been with the Wheeler Committee. We have copies of all their hearings on which Max was Chief Cross Examiner of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad.

He married a niece of Fred Mack, who was once my law partner. I am surprised that the Commission doesn't know all about him. He has been in Washington quite a while now. He is a very brilliant and capable fellow, but he is one of the Harvard gang in Washington that I just don't agree with. He is intimate with Justice Frankfurter, and with that Cohen and Cochran outfit of New Dealers down there and I hate their guts. The fact is, I hate Max's guts too, but that is because of his political views and not because of any personal qualifications which are unblemished. He is mixed up with that Harvard extreme New Deal outfit and I just don't follow their line of thinking. However, this man Lowenthal is a brilliant man and knows his business, disgustingly liberal.

He has so many big connections that I am just surprised that the Civil Service Commission doesn’t know enough about him so that an investigation wouldn’t be necessary.

MR. SAMUEL ZINE, Real Estate Agent, 371 E. 149th St., Bronx, N. Y.
Interviewed March 22, 1943 by Investigator M. Raymond Stone.

We had Mr. Max Lowenthal for a tenant at 322 Central Park West for about two years from October, 1938 to September, 1940. We were sorry to see him go. I know he had some kind of business with the government that took him to Washington frequently. He had an 8 room apartment that cost him about $2000 a year with us. He always paid his rent regularly. I don’t know where he was before that. I couldn’t tell you anything about any of his business or social connections. We never had any cause to think he ever had any inclinations or connections with any of the “Intels”. My recommendation for him is A-1. He is a very well educated man. I think he is a Harvard man.

We never had any liquor problem insofar as he was concerned. I have no reason to doubt any of his qualifications for government service.

MR. SAMUEL DAVID, Bookkeeper, Aisenberg & Fine, Real Estate Agents, 371 E. 149th St., Bronx, N. Y.
Interviewed March 22, 1943 by Investigator M. Raymond Stone.

When we had the building at 322 Central Park West, I had the opportunity to become pretty well acquainted with Mr. Max Lowenthal. He is a very unusual intellectual type of man. His connections, I believe, are mostly in Washington. He was on some Senate committees and his business was quite a bit in Washington.

I have never had any reason to suspect him of being anything but a good American citizen. You can come to that conclusion from the work he does and the people he work with.

He has connections in Congress because he has been on some Senate Committees for a long time. He has a fine family, also. He owes us no money. He was always prompt in his payments of rent.

He never showed any evidences of the use of liquor or anything of that nature. I thought he was really a responsible man.

INVESTIGATOR’S NOTE: On October 4, 1943, your investigator obtained the following news items from the files of the New York Times at 43rd Street and Broadway, New York City.

New York Times, May 31, 1929, Washington, D. C.,

Although this was a holiday the Special Commission (Wickersham) appointed by President Hoover to deal with law enforcement worked all day, just as it did yesterday, and took several important steps.
Mr. Lowenthal who was elected secretary, is a 1909 graduate of the University of Minnesota and of Harvard Law School in 1912. He served for one year as secretary to Julian W. Mack of the U. S. Court of Commerce and afterward was employed for a year in the law offices of Caldwelaler, Wickersham and Taft of New York. He was assistant to Mr. Wickersham as special counsel for the City of New York in the Port of New York Terminal rates case before the Interstate Commerce Committee.

He was Assistant Secretary of President Wilson's Mediation Commission in 1917; Assistant Secretary of the War Labor Policy Board in 1918 and of the President's second Industrial Conference in 1919--1920, since which time he has been engaged in the practice of law in New York. He is one of the trustees of the 20th Century Fund.

New York World, August 8, 1930.

LOWENTHAL QUIT HOOVER LAW BODY SEEKING IDEAL LOST

"Disappointment over the failure of the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission to adhere to its preannounced intention of making a scientific and dispassionate study of law violation and law enforcement, and disgust over what he regarded as its antics in the realm of political expediency, caused the resignation of Max Lowenthal of New York as the commission's executive secretary. The World learned yesterday from informants close both to Mr. Lowenthal and to members of the Commission.

Mr. Lowenthal resigned July 30th. He had served thirteen months without pay in a post which he entered at the personal solicitation of George W. Wickersham, chairman of the commission.

A lawyer of such unusual ability that he had been able to make, in fifteen years, a fortune sufficient to enable him to retire from active practice, and of much liberal and public-spirited convictions that he has for many years given the greater part of his time and his abilities to public and quasi-public affairs, Mr. Lowenthal was induced to become the commission's secretary, it was learned, by representations that it would attempt something which thoughtful lawyers had hoped for for years—a comprehensive, authoritative, fact-finding inquiry into the increasingly serious problem of law enforcement.

President Hoover, who originally had promised to create a board for the study of the prohibition problem specifically—a promise made in the course of his Presidential campaign, when the liquor question was causing much political maneuvering and squirming—commissioned the board to study, not prohibition alone, but the whole broad field of law enforcement. He gave assurances that no report would be expected within two years, and obtained funds sufficient to carry on the first year's investigation and research work.

With this prospect Mr. Lowenthal was induced to move his residence to Washington, discontinue virtually all of his business and professional connections in New York, and give his full time—without pay—to the task of giving executive direction to the commission's inquiry.
His friends said yesterday—and it was confirmed by persons intimately informed of the secret workings of the commission—that Loventhal was soon disillusioned both as to the scope and scientific quality of the inquiry and as to its intent.

At the outset the commission bound itself to the rule that no member was to reveal any of the board's workings or discuss its problems, hopes or plans; that all statements were to come from the chairman, Mr. Wickaram, and then only after consultation among the members and with their joint consent.

This one rule was quickly broken, first by Mr. Wickaram (although apparently innocently) in the publication of his letter to Governor Roosevelt suggesting that the states might share in the burden of prohibition enforcement, and afterward by several other members, notably Frank J. Lossie, Chicago civic reform leader; Federal Judge Paul J. McCormick, and Miss Ada L. Comstock, president of Radcliffe College.

These breaches of a common agreement precipitated several quarrels within the membership, it is an open secret, as well as causing violent partisan criticism in Congress and among the wets and drys.

But a greater cause for distress to Mr. Loventhal and to several others of his type who had given their services to the commission was the departure of the commission from the standards on which it had commenced work.

In spite of the President's assurance that it would not be required to make any hasty or ill-prepared reports, political expediency demanded that a preliminary report be made when the commission was only six months old. This report, designed to prevent congressional criticism of inaction by the commission, was composed so hastily that it contained many ambiguities and inaccuracies of statement and fact, it is said, and drew upon the commission a considerable amount of hostile criticism.

A supplementary report, issued several months later, did little to remedy the situation created by the commission's political self-consciousness.

Meanwhile, within the commission itself dissension had arisen among several of the members who were naturally antagonistic on many of the points under consideration and examination. Particularly was this true of the prohibition problem, and a series of quarrels between the so-called "liberal vet" group, of which Mr. Wickaram is supposedly the leader, and the extreme dry faction led by Federal Judge Kenny of Iowa, probably has brought about a situation where a unanimous recommendation in regard to the prohibition law and its workings will be impossible.

Mr. Loventhal is said to have discussed the matter of his resignation as long ago as six months, when he perceived, according to his intimates, that the supposedly scientific study of law enforcement was vanishing in a welter of political bickerings, but he was persuaded to remain at his post until mid-summer when, after hostile threats on the part of the Senate, the commission finally obtained a new appropriation of $250,000.

Then with the announcement that "family reasons made further residence in Washington impracticable," he resigned the secretaryship and returned to his summer home at New Milford, Conn.
chairman still bound him, as said, and no seals as such will be made.

confirmation or denial to the reasons reported by his friends for his resignation.

"The only person who can make any statement about this is Mr. Wickersham," he said. "I shall not discuss it now or later."

Mr. Lowenthal was born in Minnesota and was graduated from the University of Minnesota in 1909, but after his graduation, Cum Laude, from the Harvard Law school in 1912, and a year as secretary to Judge Julian W. Mack of the U. S. Court of Commerce, he entered the offices of Cadwalader, Wickersham and Taft here and later became senior partner of the law firm of Lowenthal, Skold and Perkins.

Although he had a large practice, he gave much of his time to public service, even before his virtual retirement three years ago, and served with Mr. Wickersham as special counsel for the City of New York in its Port of New York terminal rate case, assisted in the formation of the National Bank and was active in labor and industrial affairs.

New York Times, February 9, 1932

The 20th Century Fund has transferred its headquarters from Boston to this city.

It was established in 1919 by Edward A. Filene, president of the William Filene's Sons Co. of Boston. 4 of the 9 members of the Board of Trustees are residents of New York and as the activities of the fund expanded, it was found desirable to transfer them here.

The New York Trustees of the fund are Bruce Bliven, MAX LOWENTHAL, James J. McDonald, and Owen D. Young. The other members of the board are Newton D. Baker, Henry S. Dennison, John M. Peck, Edward A. Filene, and Roscoe Pound. Evans Clark is the Executive Director.

The fund has confined its donations almost entirely to the economic field and has been chiefly known to the public for its interest in the Credit Union movement and in maintaining higher standards of consumer credit generally, as well as for its contribution to the promotion of scientific management through its support of the International Management Institute.

"A SIGNIFICANT CASE STUDY OF BIG BUSINESS AND THE BANKERS."

By Garvin C. Means.

(Preface) For the purpose of making the subject clearer to the average investor a concrete case (the receivership of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad Company) has been chosen. This case is the biggest receivership in American History. By and large its story is typical of most reorganizations of companies in which bondholders and stockholders have their money. Some of the men active in that case participate in most large corporate reorganization and in great measure set the conduct of all such cases in every section of the country.

Throughout the book the author emphasizes the typical character of bringing out the parallel between the legal steps actually taken and those recommended as goo
The course of the receivership is set forth almost entirely in excerpts from court and commission proceedings, public lectures and published documents.

In them the bankers and their lawyers speak directly, and the full interest of conflicting personalities and involved situations is thereby obtained. By the skillful handling of this material the author causes the whole development of the receivership to stand out from the mass of material and of legal technicality. He makes it appear as a campaign on the part of the bankers to obtain control of the St. Paul and the prerequisites of such power without assuming enforceable responsibility to the security holders or to the general public with respect to the property.

The receivership of the St. Paul is itself a cause celebre. By 1925, the date of the receivership, the road had become a tremendous network of 11,000 miles, with assets of 3/4 of a billion dollars and over 40,000 security holders. The receivership involved most of the large banking houses in Wall Street and the bulk of the great corporation's law firm. At the center of the stage stood the bankers, Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and the National City Co., and an imposing array of lawyers. Rarely has such a host of financial and legal talent been organized in a single cause ....

Mr. Lovesthal goes on to tell how, when the financial condition of the St. Paul became increasingly more precarious, the bankers discouraged the formation of the usual protective committee on the ground that such action would be premature. Then, without announcement to the public, plans were made for an immediate receivership. According to the testimony of their lawyers, the banking group managed to have the receivership come before a judge satisfactory to them ....

Mr. Lovesthal only sketched the final stages of the reorganization—the transfer of the property to a new corporation at a sale; the issuance of new securities; the fees to the bankers and their lawyers; amounting to over six million dollars; and finally the retaining of banker control over the new company by a voting trust. ....

From the point of view of the lawyers, this book is a most readable and exciting resume of a great receivership. From the social point of view, the book is of even greater significance. It points directly to what must be one of the major problems of the modern corporation ------- the development of power without responsibility.

Implicit in the book is an indictment not only of current reorganization practices, but also of all banking activity which aims to obtain irresponsible powers....

New York Times, August 26, 1933.

Mr. Lovesthal, attorney, who has been working recently with Ferdinand Fassbender in the Senate Investigation of Banking, has made available his services as consultant to the subcommittee of the House of Representatives assigned to investigate federal and equity receiverships in New York, it was announced yesterday.

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad was accused before the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce today of questionable activities dating back as far as 1926....

The Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce, now investigating plans for the reorganization of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, introduced into the record this afternoon a list of insurance company officials and bankers who, it was asserted, supported or have acquiesced in the so-called debtor or Alleghany Corporation reorganization plan now pending before the Interstate Commerce Committee. All of those named, it was declared, were on a J. P. Morgan & Company "preferred list" and as such received from that firm substantial blocks of Alleghany stock at a price well below the market price prevailing at the time the securities were allocated, ...

The insurance companies named on the list were the Metropolitan Life, New York Life, Prudential Life and John Hancock Mutual Life. The banks were The Bank of New York and Trust Company; E. H. Loeb & Co.; Bankers Trust Co.; New York Trust Company, and the Guaranty Trust Company.

Frederic W. Ecker, Vice-President of the Metropolitan Life, and Alfred H. Meyers, Treasurer of New York Life, were the witnesses under examination when Max Lowenthal, Chief Counsel for the Senate Committee, read the list into the record. Neither Mr. Ecker nor Mr. Meyers was on the list, but Frederick W. Ecker, father of Frederic W. Ecker, was on it. The elder Mr. Ecker, who is Chairman of the Board of the Metropolitan Life, was allocated 1,000 shares of Alleghany stock, and, according to the committee, the price he paid as well as all the others named was $20 a share, the market price at the time being $35. Frederic H. Ecker, the committee said, realized a profit of $15,500.

Mr. Ecker and Mr. Meyers made no effort to conceal their resentment at the testimony. Mr. Ecker made it plain that there was not the remotest excuse to interpret as improper his father's acceptance of the Morgan and Company allocation. It was, he explained, a transaction entirely outside his father's connection with the Metropolitan Life. Mr. Meyers denounced the production of the evidence as an insinuation that persons prominent in the management of insurance companies and banks had been guilty of taking bribes. Mr. Lowenthal insisted that he was making no insinuations, but was simply putting into the record certain facts that had come into the possession of the Senate Committee.

Once in the controversy involving the production of the list, Senator Truman, acting Chairman of the Committee, remarked that if such a transaction involved public officials, it would be labeled "graft" ...

An 11-man committee to make a study and recommend legislation to govern references in bankruptcy, trustees in bankruptcy and receivers named by federal courts was appointed today by Attorney General Murphy.

The Attorney General has been eager especially since Judges Manton and Thomas were investigated to reform the receivership system ...

Members of the committee are Solicitor General Jackson, Judge Robert P. Patterson of the 2nd Circuit Court, Jesse J. James, Chairman of the R. F. C., Edward
The committee will meet soon, and establish offices and a staff to collect information, especially that available from Congressional Committees which have investigated the receivership system.

Max Lowenthal, Counsel for the Senate's investigation of railroad finances, urged the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee today to approve tighter safeguards against a conflict of interest on the part of persons handling railroad bankruptcy matters.

Mr. Lowenthal testified at hearings on legislation to revise the present procedure for reorganization of insolvent railroads, legislation which he assisted in preparing. The investigation which he directed, he told the committee, showed a need for provisions in the pending bill designed to assure independent trustees, receivers and counsel during reorganization of insolvent roads.

MR. JACOB BAKER, Investigator, B'Nai B'rith Anti-Defamation League, 212 Fifth Ave., New York City.
Interviewed September 27, 1943.

I have been here a number of years, but I do not know Mr. Max Lowenthal. The only material which we have in our files with respect to the man whom you are investigating is the following item in Walter Winchell's Column in the New York Daily Mirror as of February 5, 1942.

"... Senator Wheeler's man, Max Lowenthal, in addition to his Washington office (which he occupies at taxpayers' expense) also has an office at 25 Broadway, New York, the telephone number of which is D'ivy 4-6790--which is a U. S. Government phone number! How come? Did Wheeler finally put the very rich man on the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee payroll?"

Mr. Henry Minsky, President of B'Nai B'rith, is located in Omaha, Nebraska. Mr. Morris Blagyer, National Secretary of the B'Nai B'rith is located at 1003 K St., N. W., Washington, D. C. Someone who might be able to give you some information is Mr. Lawrence White, Regional Secretary of the B'Nai B'rith at 11 W. 42nd Street.

MR. MORRIS KENST, Attorney, 283 Madison Ave., New York City.
Interviewed September 27, 1943.

I have known Max Lowenthal for about 20 years, and between us we have always called each other Morris and Max. In recent years I haven't seen much of him.

I first knew him when he was secretary to Judge Julian Mack. He married Judge Mack's daughter. As you perhaps know, Judge Mack just recently died. He was a very able, brilliant, and successful lawyer and made all of his money in law. However, he hasn't been practicing law for some time. For a long time he was connected with Senator Wheeler on the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

Mr. Lowenthal is incorruptible and wouldn't sell out to a labor union or to the National Association of Manufacturers for money. However, I wouldn't trust his
My conclusions are not based on a holl of a lot of facts, but I don't trust him.

He tried to undermine the Federal Bureau of Investigation and I think, also, the Civil Service Commission. It wouldn't surprise me at all if he wrote those articles in the Nation magazine about the F. B. I. investigator and the Civil Service Commission investigators, in which you were held up to ridicule as to how you conducted your investigations. Get the Federal Bureau of Investigation files on him. That will tell you what I have in mind. I can't tell you anything more about that. All you have to do is get the file at the Federal Bureau of Investigation. I have talked to Edgar Hoover about him. That's all I can tell you.

You might go to see Judge Jerome Frank about Lowenthal, but don't tell Judge Frank that I told you to see him. Max Lowenthal was the one who is supposed to have written many of the letters of the Senators who were opposed to the appointment of William Douglas to the Supreme Court.

Max is anti-Fascist, and perhaps has been sucked in at times by the Communists, but he is no Communist. I think he has been strongly for the war effort. He isn't one of those who supported Mearanont in opposition to the Conscription Bill or in the picket of the White House.

As to his personal life, he is married and has a couple of children. His personal habits are above reproach. If Senator Norris was around, he would give you a good account of Lowenthal, as he thought well of him.

MR. EMANUEL SONDHEIME, Field Secretary, District #1, B'nai B'rith, 11 W. 42nd St., New York City.
Interviewed September 27, 1943.

I have been working in this position for the last 8 years and I never heard of Max Lowenthal. This district embraces all of the New England states. Mr. Lawrence White is now on a field trip and he will be back in about a week. Someone whom you might see about Max Lowenthal is Colonel M. O. Zehm, who is an important person in the B'nai B'rith, maintains close relations with the State Department and handles many of our Army and Navy matters. You might also see George Ayriss Sulzberger, who is president of our district.

I am a member of Military Intelligence and during President Harding's administration Senator Ladd and myself were on a commission that went to Russia.

The name Max Lowenthal does not strike a familiar chord in my memory.

Have you checked the files at the Anti-Defamation League? They certainly would
We have not approached an official of B'nai B'rith to try and undermine the F. B. I. I have just called Mr. Arnold Forster, Chief, Investigations Division, of the Anti-Defamation League, and he is going to check our inner confidential files.

MR. ARNOLD FORSTER, Chief, Investigations Division, B'nai B'rith Anti-Defamation League, 212 Fifth Ave., New York City.
Interviewed September 28, 1943.

We do not have anything in any of our files on Max Lowenthal except that news item which Walter Winchell had in his column. Rose Bigman, Walter Winchell's secretary, may be able to furnish you with some additional information on him, or can tell you where you can get it. Winchell may well know plenty about Lowenthal. He is very well informed.

Someone that I suggest you might see is Rabbi Paul Rieckman, who is director of the Anti-Defamation League in Washington, D. C. His address in Washington is 1005 K St., N. W. and the telephone number is District 7151.

I do not know anyone by the name of Max Lowenthal. I never heard of anyone ever proposing to us that we attack the F. B. I.

INVESTIGATOR'S NOTE: This call was made after a record search form had been returned with the following notation thereon:

"Confidential Defendent A-2" a "Max Lowenthal", a known Communist, member of the National Committee of the International Juridical Association, 100 Fifth Ave., New York City."

CONFIDENTIAL DEFENDANT A-2, Interviewed October 4, 1943.

Our records indicate that we have a report from Confidential Defendent A-3 dated April 27, 1943, the number of which I am not at liberty to give you, which states that Mr. Max Lowenthal as of June, 1942 was shown to be a member of the National Committee of the International Juridical Association in the District of Columbia. He was also listed as a member of the New York Executive Committee of the International Juridical Association as of May 29, 1933.

Our files show that the Executive Committee of the International Juridical
The International Juridical Association with headquarters at 100 Fifth Ave., New York, N. Y., was originally a branch of a like organization in Germany. Since the Hitler regime came into power in Germany, the New York Branch became the official headquarters of the organization. It was formed on May 2, 1933 by lawyers of New York City who have a leaning towards Communism. This is a legal organization said to be attached to the International Labor Defense, 80 E. 11th St., New York City, a known Communist affiliate. Mrs. Carol Weiss-King is Secretary.

It is not known whether this association is a member of the Communist party of the U. S. A., but it is believed that they are closely associated with them in supplying lawyers for its defense in court.

INVESTIGATOR'S NOTE: Page 373 of Mr. Eugene Lyons' book "The Red Decade" states that the International Juridical Association is listed by the Committee for Cultural Freedom as of April, 1940 as being under "outright Communist control".

Pages 65 and 66 of the report of Emil K. Ellis, in the matter of the investigation of the City Council into the affairs and conduct of the Municipal Civil Service Commission of the City of New York and Honorable Paul J. Karr, Its President, states in part as follows:

"The bulletins of the International Juridical Association from its very inception show that it is devoted to the defense of the rights of the Communist Party, Communists and radical agitators and that it is not limited merely to legal research, but to sharp criticism of existing governmental agencies and defense of subversive groups."

INVESTIGATOR'S NOTE: Your investigator is incorporating into this report at this point the results of a record search by our Liaison Investigator with Confidential Informant A-3 which states as follows:

SUBJECT: Record Search at Confidential Informant A-3 in the case of Max Lowenthal.

Pursuant to your request, this investigator made a record search at the New York Office of Confidential Informant A-3, which disclosed the following information:

BERNARD MOSKIN, Attorney, 16 Court St., Brooklyn, N. Y.
Interviewed October 4, 1943.

Mr. Louis Gruss, no longer has his office here as he is now employed as an attorney by the Office of Dependency Benefits at Newark, N. J. Mr. Gruss’s address is 55 Winthrop St., Brooklyn.

MR. LOUIS GRUSS, 55 Winthrop St., Brooklyn, N. Y.
Interviewed October 4, 1943.

I am now employed at the Office of Dependency Benefits at Newark. The material which I obtained in the Paul Kera case was secured from a former informant in the Communist Party, but for the main part the subversive material which I obtained came as a result of considerable research work at the Public Library. I was never a member of the Communist Party.

I can’t seem to recall the name of Max Lowenthal. I am confident I do not know him. His name may have appeared in my report, but I don’t know anything about him. In reviewing my report now, I can’t seem to locate his name being referred to in any of the organizations that Paul Kera was a member of.

I spent considerable money and research work in obtaining letter heads of organizations with which Mr. Kera was identified. I didn’t list all of the individuals I outlined on these various letter heads in my report. I took the names of the more prominent individuals and those which appeared consistently throughout the organizations so that the political complexion of the individuals and Mr. Kera could be clearly shown.

For a long time I had these letter heads and material in my apartment here, but it was cluttering up my place so I threw it all into the incinerator.

I don’t know of anyone who might be able to give you some information about Max Lowenthal. I’m sorry I can’t be of more help to you.

INVESTIGATOR’S NOTE: New York Public Library, 42nd St.
& Fifth Avenue, New York City, contacted October 5, 1943.
The Reader’s Guide to Periodical Literature was checked from January, 1929 to June, 1942 and indicated that the applicant wrote the following articles:

New Republic Magazine, October 17, 1934, “$30 in Wall Street”.

The card files at the New York Public Library indicated that the applicant wrote the book, “The Investor Pays”,

No further information.”

/s/ Kenneth Glenn.
INVESTIGATOR'S NOTE: Your investigator reviewed the above articles and there was nothing in them which reflected anything adversely on the applicant insofar as his loyalty was concerned. As the titles of the articles indicate, they were criticisms of Wall St. practices.

Your investigator reviewed the International Juridical Association monthly bulletin from May 1st, 1932 until December, 1942, on which later date the bulletin stated, "Next monthly, bi-monthly thereafter, the bulletin will be published by the National Lawyers Guild as an integral part of the Lawyers Guild Review."

The April, 1942 issue of the International Juridical Association monthly bulletin had a letterhead with the various members of the National Committee of the Association listed by states on the left hand margin.

The District of Columbia had the following individuals on the National Committee:

John P. Davis,
Thomas L. Emerson,
Henry T. Hunt,
Joseph Kernan,
Max Loventhal,
Leo Pressman,
Ralph T. Sevord,
Herbert Wechsler,
Ruth Weyman,
David Ziskind.

The August, 1940 issue of the bulletin in reviewing the Burke-Wadsworth Conscription Bill concluded in part as follows:

"It is scarcely conceivable that defense interests are properly served by peacetime regimentation destructive of confidence in American Democracy. ...

The June, 1942 issue of the bulletin states in part as follows:

"Despite widespread protest against the disruptive tactics and anti-Democratic tendencies of the Council Committee's work, Governor-Lehman approved a $50,000 appropriation for continuance of its work in investigation of "subversive" activities in New York schools."

BENJAMIN J. BUTTENWEISER, Navy Lieutenant (Senior Grade) and partner, Kuhn-Loeb & Co., Bankers, 52 William St., New York City, Interviewed October 5, 1943.

You were fortunate in finding me in the city, as I have been abroad for the past two years. At present I am on a 10 day furlough.

I can say conservatively that I have known him for about the past 15 years. I knew him best in 1936 when he was counsel on the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee. At that time I was questioned considerably in Washington by him and others on the Committee in connection with our activities. He was in this office weeks on end looking into our books from 1896 on.

He is just the wrong kind of a man for the government to take any important position. I know thousands of people who would lose respect in anything he would turn up in. He has a typically destructive type of mind and fancies he knows all about economics. Personally, I don't think he knows much about economics. I would not have a great deal of confidence in anything he had anything to do with. I don't think that he has a constructive mind at all. His is the kind of mind that undermines confidence in the administration. He has an insatiable lust for publicity. He will write an article on anything. I wouldn't want him running the economics of this country while I am out on a cruiser.

Our firm realizes that we have made mistakes in the past. Hindsight is always better than foresight. These mistakes have always been mistakes of judgment. In the early 1930's Max Lowenthal wrote a book called "The Investor Pays" in which he bitterly attacked us in connection with our handling of the financial reorganization of the Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Paul Railroad. It was a book about 500 pages long and in it he pictured us as playing loose and being dishonest. A lot of people said that we should have sued him for libel, but we didn't, as that is what he would have wanted us to do.

He also wrote some of the dirtiest, most scurrilous articles on things that he knows to be untrue. I recall that one of these articles was in Harper's Magazine. He is a very insincere fellow and is the kind of a man that runs with the hares and hunts with the hounds. He will write an article with his eye on the cash register. I think you could hire him for $10,000 to write an article for you on any subject. This firm wouldn't say a good thing about him. He has a brilliant mind, but it is a completely destructive type of mind.

My objection to him is that he is completely intellectually dishonest. I don't think the government helps itself much by employing a man like Max Lowenthal. J. P. Morgan & Co. would give you a worse story about him than us. He is just a mentalcadid.

Lowenthal is a great one at mud-slinging. He is one of the most sneering, arrogant individuals I know.

I have a wholesome respect for some of the people who have investigated this firm. I don't know of anyone who has been investigated by Max Lowenthal who didn't come out with the feeling that he is intellectually dishonest. Justice Ferdinand Pecora investigated us and I thought that he was honest and fair about it. Mr. Talbot Taylor of the Wheeler Senate Interstate Commerce Committee did a good job. However, this fellow Lowenthal doesn't even have good manners.

We caught him stewing in his own juice a couple of times. One day he was questioning me in Washington all day long. Immediately at the conclusion of the day's
This summary did not tally with what had transpired during the day, and I asked Senator Wheeler if I could see the statement. Senator Wheeler showed me the mimeographed statement and I asked him how he was in a position to have the day's proceedings summarized immediately after the conclusion of the hearing. The press did not publicize the day's proceedings, as they realized that the summary they just received was prepared in advance. I am certain that Max Lowenthal had done this.

Senators Truman and Wheeler know him damn well.

It has been years since he has had a private practice. He was formerly with the law firm of Lowenthal, Scol and Ernadwier. The firm did considerable legal work for minority stockholders. He made all of his money on receiverships and bankruptcies, many of which cases were assigned to him by Judge Julian Mack whose niece he married.

I know that Senator Wheeler took quite a shine to him.

As to his loyalty to this country, I wouldn't damn him on that. I know he has no loyalty to people. As to whether he has any Nazi or Fascist sympathies, I would say completely no. I don't think much about his economic tenets, but whether he is a Communist or fellow traveler I have no way of judging that.

So far as I know his personal habits are O. K. I am sure he doesn't drink or take drugs.

One of my partners, Captain Lewis S. Strauss, of the Naval Bureau of Ordnance, at Washington, D. C. knows more about his background than I do. Young Tom Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co., who is now in the Army, could tell you something about Lowenthal. The elder Lamont of J. P. Morgan would probably know him. Someone whom you might see of reputation is Mr. John W. Davis, former presidential candidate of the law firm of Davis, Polk, Wardwell, Gardner & Reed. Also, Mr. Robert Swaine of the law firm of Cravath, DeGersдорff, Swaine & Wood.

MR. RALPH EMERSON, 251st Hewton Ave., Astoria, L. L., N. Y.
Interviewed October 7, 1943.

I can't seem to remember Max Lowenthal who was counsel on the Wheeler Senate Interstate Commerce Committee. I was legislative representative for the Maritime groups in Washington during 1938 and 1939, and I have appeared before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, but I can't seem to place Mr. Lowenthal.

Recently, six different governmental investigating agencies have contacted me in connection with people identified with Wheeler. I think it is because Wheeler's daughter at one time was playing around with a Communist-Party member, Bonnie Dresen, who was placed in my office by Joe Curran and Rathboun. Bonnie was a good looking chap, became acquainted with Wheeler's daughter and took her to party affairs, etc. At about that time, Wheeler introduced some Communist sponsored radio bill. I was never a member of the party, but knew what was going on.

If you have any suspicions that Lowenthal may be subversive, you might see Eli Oliver of the Amalgamated Bank. Oliver used to be manager on the Hill in Washington for Labor's Non-Partisan League. He was Sidney Hillman's executive assistant in Washington when Hillman was a big-shot down there. Oliver is no friend particularly of Wheeler's. He is politically reliable. The Communists made it hot.
I worked for British Intelligence on the waterfront here for about 8 months before we got into the war.

INVESTIGATOR'S NOTE: Your investigator called at the offices of the Phelps-Dodge Oil Company at 40 Wall St., New York City, on October 4, 1943, and was informed that they did not have anyone by the name of Ralph Emerson in their employ. During the interview, Mr. Emerson did not indicate where he is presently employed. He did not particularly impress your investigator as being altogether reliable. He was friendly and endeavors to be co-operative, but his mannerisms did not inspire confidence. He resides with his wife and a small child in two small rooms on the second floor of a rundown frame house. These two rooms presented a picture of squalor at the time your investigator called.

MR. ELI OLIVER, Window Teller, Amalgamated Bank, 15 Union Square, New York City. Interviewed October 7, 1943.

I never had any association with or know anything about Mr. Max Loventhal. I think that Sidney Benjamín, auditor of the bank, knows him.

MR. SIDNEY BENJAMIN, Auditor, Amalgamated Bank, 15 Union Square, New York City. Interviewed October 7, 1943.

I am auditor for the Board of Directors of this bank and directly responsible to the board. I have known Max Loventhal for many years. He was one of the original directors of this bank. He helped to organize it and acted in the capacity of an attorney.

In the 1920's and early 1930's Mr. Loventhal used to represent bond holders and minority stockholders in appropriate reorganization work. I was secretary of some of these committees which his law firm represented. He is a very brilliant and capable attorney.

I haven't seen him in the past six months. He came in here about that time for a visit.

He has been counsel to the Senate Investigating Committee on railroads. He was handling for some time the investigation of the Missouri, Pacific Railroad, years ago, when the government was looking into it. He made quite a reputation as counsel for the government of the Missouri, Pacific Railroad and wrote a book on it.

He is one of the Felix Frankfurter boys and has been in Washington since the New Deal came in. He has been living in Washington since the start of Roosevelt's administration. He is one of these Harvard men and graduated with all kinds of honors. He is supposed to be an expert on railroads and reorganization work. That was the kind of law work which he specialized in.

I know he does not drink. Mr. Loventhal is a very quiet, very fine man with a fine personality. He is devoted to his family, I know. I used to see him quite often
When he went into government work, he left his law practice altogether. Nothing of a scandalous or irregular nature of any kind has ever been connected with Mr. Lowenthal's name. In fact, I never heard anyone say anything bad about the man. That is unusual, but that is the type of man he is. Mr. Sidney Hillman, President of the union could tell you something about him. Many of the officers of the bank can give you a good account of him. Mayor LaGuardia was also connected with the bank the same time that Lowenthal was and they know each other well. Mr. Adolph Held, president of the bank can give you a good account of him.

From my association with Mr. Lowenthal, he has never said anything that would intimate to me that he has subversive tendencies or connections. In our years of association I would have been bound to have noticed that if he had such inclinations. He never expressed any views that might indicate he wanted to overthrow our form of government. There is no question that he is anti-Nazi and anti-Fascist, because he is (reference to religion). He is a liberal man and very liberal in his ideas, but that is not to be confused with Communism. I am certain that all of his background is opposed to the totalitarianism of Communism. He is a great supporter of President Roosevelt, and that is why he landed where he is.

I would unqualifiedly recommend him for any position in the government.

MR. ADOLPH HELD, President, Amalgamated Bank of New York, 15 Union Square, New York City.
Interviewed October 7, 1943.

INVESTIGATOR'S NOTE: This witness is chairman of the Jewish Labor Committee, which is a right-wing labor group in New York City. He has a reputation of long standing of being anti-Communist and is frequently attacked in the Communist press. In this connection he and the Jewish Labor Committee were castigated last spring by the Communist press because of its activity in protesting the execution by the Soviet Union of Henry K. Erlich and Victor Alter, Polish Socialist labor leaders.

I became president of this bank in 1925. Max Lowenthal was one of the organizing committees which created this bank and was on the Board of Directors for many years from 1925 to about 1933. That was when he retired to write his book about railroads.

He was secretary to Senator Wheeler's Interstate Commerce Committee and was heart-broken over Wheeler's anti-War stand. That is why he left Wheeler. Politically he is a rabid New Dealer, and leans towards the Wallace category. That would be my judgment. He has never told me, but I have a suspicion that he writes some of Wallace's speeches.

I can consider Mr. Lowenthal a man of the highest integrity, and absolutely reliable. In my opinion, in talking of Mr. Lowenthal, you are dealing with one of the first citizens of the country. He has a keen sense of fairness and the rights of people, according to his views. One cannot always agree with him, but one must always respect him, without fear of contradiction. He has courage, has convictions, and isn't afraid to state them. He is really a man. He is the kind of a fellow that gets burned at the stake.
I received a letter of inquiry about his boy recently. Mr. Loventhal comes from a nice family out in Minneapolis. He married a very nice woman. I think, she at one time, worked in the Research Department upstairs in the union.

Mr. Loventhal was attorney for the union and also for the bank. He is a Harvard graduate and after he graduated became secretary to Judge Macc. During and after the last war he held down a number of important positions in Washington. Then he became a member of the firm of Loventhal, Ewald and Perkins. Then Mr. Loventhal stepped out to write his book on the St. Paul Railroad which showed how Ewald, Loeb & Co. was milking the investing public. After he retired from the firm it became known as Ewald, Perkins and Brandwen. Mr. Ewald is now in Palestine on some economic mission. Mr. Ewald's sister, Henrietta-Ewald, is head of Hadassah. This law firm which Mr. Loventhal was a member of, is a large one. He was one of the best minority stockholder lawyers in the country, on account of his bull-dog tenacity. I have read a number of his reports of the Wheeler Senate investigating work, and they are marvelous pieces of work.

When he retired, he had quite a bit of money.

There is no question in my mind that Mr. Loventhal is anti-Nazi and anti-Fascist. He is no Communist. I would call him a real left-wing New Dealer and I am not saying that in a Communist sense. I am saying that as distinguished from some of the Southern New Dealers. He is not a Communist and has never been connected with any Communist outfit to my knowledge. If he has, he has kept them very secret. That would not run in line with his thinking. He might probably fight for free speech with the Communists, just as I might. That would go along the line that I don't agree with what the Communists say, but would stick up for their right to say it.

Mr. Hillman is not in town as he is on a speaking tour this month throughout the country. If he were around you could get a good opinion of Mr. Loventhal from him. If Judge Macc were alive he would give you a similar opinion of Mr. Loventhal.

Justice Felix Frankfurter in Washington is a close friend of Mr. Loventhal.

The Russian-American Industrial Corporation was started up in 1921 and liquidated in 1924. It was started to help Russia with its clothing industry going. It enabled them to purchase machinery in this country and model their clothing industry along the American model. In 1924 when Russia changed its policy and decided not to have any outside capital, the corporation was liquidated and paid off dollar for dollar. There was approximately $400,000 in that fund. Mr. Loventhal was in the corporation. It had no connection with the Communist Party, except that it was very friendly to Russia.

I would recommend Loventhal very highly to the government in any position.

MR. ROBERT W. PERKINS, General Counsel, Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., 321 W. 44th Street, New York City, interviewed October 8, 1943.

I have known Max Loventhal since 1910. At the Harvard Law School he was one year ahead of me, so I saw quite a bit of him at Harvard. During the last war, Max did some government work. Then, in 1921, I became a member of the law firm of Loventhal & Loeb and when Max came in, the firm added my name to it. That relationship Up until 1930, I saw him frequently as an intimate friend and as a law partner. Since 1930 I have only seen him occasionally. He has been in Washington most of that time. The law firm we had represented Hillman's Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America for a number of years. He was a great friend of Sidney Hillman. He specialized in general law, but did pay a lot of attention to reorganization, and that is probably what gave him his start on the railroad reorganization work with the Wheeler Interstate Commerce Committee.

Max is very smart, a very hard worker and very public minded. The practice of law was not enough for him. He wanted to get into government work. He had been successful in the practice of law and his compensation in the government was considerably less than what he had been making. I suppose you know more about what he did in Washington. He was active on the Wheeler Committee of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee for a number of years. He left that committee some time ago. His work there was strictly railroad finance work. Then he went into the Board of Economic Warfare, of which I think Milo Perkins is the head. That is where he was the last time I talked to him.

I think that Max is extremely loyal and patriotic and would go much further than the average American in making sacrifices for the country. He is very close mouthed. One of the closest mouthed guys I have ever known. He won’t tell you anything he feels you shouldn’t know. He is a great friend of Felix Frankfurter. Was a great friend of Justice Brandeis when he was alive. Mr. Benjamin-Cohen of the team of Cohen and Corcoran in Washington is a friend of his and can tell you all about Max. Mr. Lowenthal married into the Mack family, of which his wife is the daughter of Fred Mack, a broker on Wall Street.

Max has a farm up in New Milford, Conn. which he has had for about 15 years and is a gentleman farmer. In his living habits he is puritanical. He doesn’t smoke and is a teetotaller. I don’t even think he swears. He has never been arrested, or in any scandals or anything like that. He lives within his means and I am sure he pays his bills quite promptly. He is one of the smartest fellows that I know. Very smart and scrupulously honest.

He is a liberal and all that, but not a Communist. I am sure he is not a Communist. He is very liberal along the Frankfurter philosophy—pro-labor. He is not one of the Henry Wallace school. Wallace is too much of a visionary. Max has both of his feet on the ground. He is no Nazi or Fascist.

Mr. Skold would know him well, but he has gone abroad now on some kind of a mission. Maxwell Branden of our law firm, the last I heard, was with Lewis-Douglas, in the Maritime Commission in Washington.

I would recommend Max Lowenthal very highly for any kind of position in the government.

MR. SIDNEY HEITZBERG, Editor, Common Sense Magazine, 10 E. 49th St., New York City.

Interviewed October 11, 1943.

I was national director of the America-First Committee for 3½ months prior to Lovejthal several times in Senator Wheeler's office. I got out of the America First Committee, after I tried to reconcile the extremists in the committee.

My impression of Lowenthal was that he was against the America First Committee. I am certain that he was against Wheeler's pure and simple non-intervention. Lowenthal agreed with Roosevelt's foreign policy of intervention. He worked with Wheeler because Wheeler was always a liberal pro-labor guy in the early years. The whole labor crowd was with Wheeler, for all he lined up with Bob La Follette in 1924. That was the atmosphere in which Max Lowenthal was situated. As best as I can recall during the time that I got out of the America First Committee, Lowenthal supported President Roosevelt's foreign policy on Lead Lease and intervention. My impression that I gathered from others whom I talked with in Washington was that Loventhal was a very able and quiet guy. You didn't meet him at any of the cocktail bars. He was one of the New Dealers in Washington. That is the impression I got.

He was a labor lawyer engaged in various investigative activities on the Hill.

From what little knowledge I have of Mr. Loventhal, I would recommend him for a confidential position in the government. Some people who might know something about him are Charles Clift, who, the last time I heard, was working for the Federal Communications Commission in Washington. You might also see John Carson, who was consumer counsel for the Bituminous Coal Commission. Paul Ward of the Senate Press attached to the Baltimore Sun and James Wechsler of the Washington Post would also know him.

MR. J. B. S. HARDMAN, Editor, Advance Newspaper, Official publication of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, 15 Union Square, New York City.

Interviewed October 11, 1943.

INVESTIGATOR'S NOTE: The Commission is doubtless aware of the fact that this witness was a member of the Communist Party in the early 1920's and broke with the Party about 1924.

I have known Max Loventhal for over 20 years, but haven't seen him in the past 4 or 5 years. He was attorney for this union and also attorney for the bank downstairs. He was in the law firm of Loventhal, Solod, Perkins and Branden, located at 43 Exchange Place. I considered him one of the 15 best attorneys in New York.

He was secretary to the Wickersham Committee on enforcement of prohibition during Hoover's administration. He was a very capable attorney and after he made enough money, he retired to devote himself to public life. He made considerable money on railroad reorganization such as the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad. That's why Senator Wheeler hired him as attorney for his railroad committee.

Lowenthal has been in Washington for many years. His wife also worked in this union with me, mostly volunteer work, on publicity and research work. I knew her better than Lowenthal.

Mr. Lowenthal is an honest man and I never had any reason to question his integrity. He is sober and regular in all of his habits. Never been involved in any trouble of any kind to my knowledge. He is a very fine man and one of the best attorneys in New York.
I would recommend Mr. Loventhal without qualification for any position in the government.

The Russian American Industrial Corporation was created in the early 1920's, shortly after the Russian Revolution. Mr. Loventhal helped in the organization of the company. It had no connection with the Communist Party, but was established to assist Russia in getting its clothing industry set up along American lines. The corporation was dissolved around 1925 and everyone was paid off what they invested in the stock of the company.

INVESTIGATOR'S NOTE: It is difficult to reconcile Judge Jerome Frank's background and his appointment to his present position by President Roosevelt in March of 1941 with the statement in the brief in this case which states in part as follows:

"...It has been alleged that the subject, Judge Jerome Frank, and Sigmund Hertzberg, were the brains behind the 'America First' organization."

Are you going to keep what I tell you in the strictest confidence?

Well, then, I have known Max Loventhal for about 10 years and my association with him was closest during the time that I was Special Counsel with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation with respect to railroad matters. However, I haven't been in contact with him in the past 4 years.

He's a man of unusual talent and capabilities and a very able lawyer. He is financially independent, retired and devoting himself to the public service. His personal habits are impeccable, and he is financially honest. I don't have any suspicion of doubt as to his having any connection with any subversive groups, either Nazi, Fascist or Communist. He has some very influential friends in Washington. You notice, I have given you all of his good points. Now, I will tell you some of his bad points.

He's a hard man to get along with. I know I couldn't get along with him. He has a conspiratorial manner about him which does not instill confidence in his associates and the people who work with him. Instead of going from one point to the next by the shortest route, he would go around the room to get there, so as to not let anyone know what he was doing. That is something which I condemn in any executive. In that respect, you might see Telford Taylor, who used to work for and with him on the Wheeler Senate Railroad Investigative Committee. Mr. Taylor is now, I think, General Counsel for the Federal Communications Commission in Washington.
In financial matters there is no doubt about his integrity, but I question his intellectual integrity. He is in my opinion a neurotic and you can’t foretell what a neurotic might do. I am prejudiced against him. It was common knowledge among our friends that Lowenthal was the one who wrote the speech for one of the mid-West Senators when William Douglas’s appointment was submitted to the U. S. Supreme Court. This speech was for, I believe, one of the Minnesota Senators who is now dead. It referred to Douglas as a tool of Wall Street and I resented that greatly because one thing I know for sure and that was that Douglas was not a tool of Wall Street. You should see Judge Douglas about that speech.

Another thing, his reports were not always accurate. Instead of letting the facts speak for themselves, he would color them and stretch the facts to build up his reports. That is something I cannot approve of.

One person on the Wheeler Committee whom you should see is Senator Truman, as there is no question as to where he stands in the war effort. As to Senator Wheeler, I don’t think he would be a desirable man to have in a position of importance in the government, on account of his stand towards the war, and I don’t believe he has changed. Now, whether Lowenthal’s association with Wheeler affected Lowenthal’s outlook towards the war, is a matter of conjecture. I don’t know what effect on Lowenthal this association with Wheeler has had. I am trying to give you as complete a picture of him as possible. I am sure that he wouldn’t use information that came into his possession for his own financial gain. However, I feel that he would use it, if he had a fight with his superiors and was fired. He would use this information not for the purpose of disclosing information, but in a revengeful manner. He isn’t the type of man that would put his hand in the till, but if he should get pleased he might steal a lot of information. I, personally, wouldn’t hire him if it was up to me.

You might see Judge Ferdinand Pecora about him. They did some work together when Pecora was on the Senate Banking Investigative Committee. I can’t think of anyone else in New York for you to see.

MR. LAWRENCE WHITE, Secretary, District 1, B’nai B’rith, 11 W. 42nd St., New York City, interviewed October 11, 1943.

I do not know Mr. Max Lowenthal nor have I ever had any association with a person by that name. I don’t know anything about him.

JUDGE FERDINAND PECORA, New York State Supreme Court, 60 Center St., New York City, interviewed October 29, 1943.

I first met Max Lowenthal in 1933, when he was called to my attention by a mutual friend. He worked with me on the Senate Banking Investigative Committee for approximately 17 months in 1933 and 1934 before the creation of the Securities and Exchange Commission. He wanted to contribute his services to the Committee without compensation, but I didn’t want any $1 a year man on my committee, so I paid him a nominal salary. He is a man that is comfortably well fixed, but not extremely wealthy.

I haven’t seen him in the past two years.
A man of the Circuit Court of Appeals in New York knows him quite well. Certainly Justice Felix Frankfurter knows him well. In fact, Frankfurter knows him quite intimately. Justice Robert Jackson of the U. S. Supreme Court has a high regard for him. For a number of years Max Lowenthal was General Counsel on the Senator Wheeler Interstate Commerce Committee. I have heard from mutual friends that Mr. Lowenthal broke with Senator Wheeler because of Senator Wheeler's stand on isolationism and his anti-Semitic viewpoints. From what I know of Mr. Lowenthal, I would say that his break with Senator Wheeler was more of sorrow than of anger.

He was secretary to the late Judge Julian Mack and I know that Judge Mack thought well of him.

Mr. Lowenthal is very intelligent, but he is not an intellectual snob. He is an idealist, but the kind of an idealist who has both feet on the ground.

He is thoroughly American in his views and a very temperate fellow in his personal habits.

He is a very loyal citizen and an inveterate foe of totalitarianism of any kind. He does not subscribe to a philosophy that does not recognize the right of private property. You couldn't consider him a Socialist or Communist of even the lightest pink shade, but he is the kind of a man who thinks that many injustices and inequities do exist, and can and should be eradicated without doing violence to the rights of private property. He is a little left of center, but not way over to the left.

I consider him a good citizen and I think he would be a valuable man to have in any confidential position in the government.

MISS KAY MOTTES, Secretary to Walter Winchell, New York Daily Mirror, 235 E. 45th St., New York City, interviewed October 30, 1943.

I will get in touch with Walter Winchell and find out what he knows about Mr. Max Lowenthal. I cannot tell you if we have anything in our files on Mr. Lowenthal.

MR. MARRI ADAMS, Reference Room Clerk, New York Daily Mirror, 235 E. 45th St., New York City, interviewed October 30, 1943.

We do not have anything in our clipping files on Mr. Max Lowenthal.

INVESTIGATOR'S NOTE: On November 1, 1943 at 12:30 P. M., Miss Rose Eismann, Secretary to Walter Winchell, called your investigator on the telephone and informed him that Mr. Winchell had advised her that the Civil Service Commission could obtain any necessary information on the applicant in files of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

MR. JOHN W. DAVIS, Partner, Law Firm of Davis, Polk, Wardwell, Gardner & Reed, 15 Broad St., New York City, interviewed December 10, 1943.

I recall the name of Max Lowenthal, but I can't seem to place him. I'm afraid
I have known Max Leventhal for about 30 years. I haven't seen much of him in about 5 or 6 years. You could hardly expect me to speak objectively of him, after having been made the target of his book "The Investor Pays" which dealt with the reorganization of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad. As to whether it was an honest attack, is a matter of opinion, and I felt that it wasn't.

My knowledge of Max Leventhal goes back to 30 years ago when we both were going to the Harvard Law School. During the years I would see him occasionally at Bar Association meetings and other affairs. We have always called each other by our first names. He was with the law firm of Scol and Brandwine and made considerable money in bankruptcies and reorganizations under Judge Julian Mack. He then retired and for a number of years was General Counsel on the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee. He had me on the stand down in Washington for weeks at a time.

The person for you to see about Leventhal is Senator Truman as well as Senator Wheeler.

Max is an exceptionally capable and brilliant attorney, but I can't agree with him on his basic philosophy and economic concept. I am sure that he is highly regarded by the powers in the New Deal administration. He attacked Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, both of whom are my clients. As to whether the attacks were justifiable and honest ones is a matter of opinion. He wasn't the only one that attacked us. It made good political capital back there in 1933 and 1934.

Leventhal is the kind of a man who can pick out certain facts, all individually correct in themselves, but when placed together in a story in a particular way, they distort and disfigure the true picture. The individual facts are accurate, but when placed together, as he did, presented a distorted picture. He is the kind of a man that would make a last minute press release so the other side would not be in a position to get in their side of the story. The two men whom he principally attacked at Kuhn, Loeb & Co. are now dead.

He believes in a greater government control of enterprise and because of my background and clients, I am in direct conflict with him.

I know little of his personal life, but I think he is a clean living man and moderate in all his personal habits.

I am confident he has no Nazi or Fascist connections, as he is (reference to religion deleted). He is no Communist. As to his loyalty to this country, I would have no hesitancy on that.

As to whether I would recommend him for a position in the government, let me put it this way. If I was doing the hiring for the agency, I wouldn't hire him. I know if you asked him the same question, he wouldn't hire me.

Someone you might see who would be able to tell you something about Leventhal
I may have known Max Lowenthal back in 1936 when I appeared before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee at hearings, but I can't recall anything about him. That was some 8 years ago.

MR. SIDNEY HILLMAN, President, Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, 15 Union Square, New York City, Interviewed December 13, 1943.

The only thing I have ever had against Max Lowenthal was that he was a pacifist. How he feels now, I don't know. Our relations in recent years have been strained because of his pacifism and he knew how keenly I felt about the war effort.

My association with him goes back many years to shortly after the last war. He was then in a law firm of Lowenthal, Szold and Branden which was a Wall St. firm. The firm was the lawyers for the union and also for the bank downstairs. He was one of the organizers and a member of the Board of Directors of the bank. Max was my personal advisor. I have nothing but the highest regard for his ability and integrity. To give you an idea of the confidence I had in him, I had the bank once sell six million dollars worth of bonds just upon his advice. He is an outstanding lawyer. He handled cases involving minority stockholders and had a number of cases where his fee was around $50,000 to $70,000. He retired around the late 1920's. He had also made wise investments and when he retired he was worth well over a million dollars. In all of the time I have known him he has been very public spirited. For a long time he was counsel for Senator Wheeler's Railroad Committee and he served without any salary. To give you an idea of Mr. Lowenthal's integrity, he resigned as a director from the bank when he became connected with the Wheeler Railroad Committee, as he said it wouldn't be proper for him to continue with the bank because of his knowledge of organizations of which the bank might own some securities. He is an authority on railroads and once wrote a book about them.

The only thing, like I said at the outset, is that I have against him, is his being a pacifist. That was before we got into the war. I haven't had an opportunity to talk to him since we entered the war. I was in the hospital in Washington in 1942 and he came to visit me once, but we didn't have much of a chance to talk. At that time our relations were a little strained. He then was working for Wallace's outfit in Washington, I forget the name of what agency it was. He knew that I always felt keenly about the war effort, as I was on the National Defense Board and served with Haasen in heading the Office of Production Management. Max, I think, got his pacifist ideas from Senator Wheeler. In our long association, that's the one thing I hold against him. He has no Nazi, Fascist or Communist leanings. I don't have any doubt of his loyalty to this country. Of that, I am sure. Certainly he is no Nazi or Fascist. As for Communism, I am just as confident he is no Communist, for he believes in our form of government. He has too large a stake in our government to think otherwise. He is a liberal and is of that group at Harvard who were students of Justice Brandeis, a good friend of his, as is Justice Felix Frankfurter. They are all of that legal group that is opposed to the monopoly of big business. In fact, my relations with Judge Brandeis was strained too, when he ruled against the N. R. A.,
Judge Julian Mack, were he alive, could tell you something about Mr. Lowenthal. Max married his niece. His two boys now must be old enough to be in the Army.

His personal habits are beyond reproach. I have never heard of him ever being involved in any difficulties or doing anything that might reflect discredit on him. However, he is an opinionated fellow.

Someone who might be able to tell you something about Max Lowenthal is his former law partner Max Brandwen, who accompanied me to Washington when I was down there working for the government. Mr. Brandwen is now with the Shipping Administration in Washington. I don't know whether it is the War Shipping Administration or the Maritime Commission. Rabbi Stephen Weiss should be able to tell you something about Mr. Lowenthal's pacifist views.

Personally, I would recommend Max Lowenthal, for he is a very capable individual and I feel that now that we are in the war, he has changed his pacifist views.

JUDGE LEARNED HAND, Circuit Court of Appeals, 2nd Circuit Court, Southern District of New York, Federal Bldg., Foley Square, New York City, Interviewed December 13, 1943.

I have known Max Lowenthal for a good many years. However, he is no business associate or friend of mine. I have known him merely as a casual acquaintance, and I don't believe that in all the time I've known him that we have talked to each other for more than 2 or 3 hours altogether.

Mr. Lowenthal is a very able and intelligent attorney. He has a fine mind.

The last time I saw him was in Washington in 1929 or 1930 at which time he was secretary of the "Booze" Commission. He was complaining then about how badly things were being run in the Commission and that he was going to quit. If George Wickersham were alive, he could tell you something about Mr. Lowenthal's work in connection with that commission.

So far as I know, he is a good citizen and a loyal American. I would be very much surprised, if he was anything else.

The only thing that I have against the man from what I've heard is that he doesn't get along with people. To use a figure of speech, his crown doesn't fit his head.

No, I wouldn't recommend him for a position in the government because he doesn't get along with people.

INVESTIGATOR'S NOTE: On December 13, 1943, your investigator called at the offices of the American Jewish Congress at 330 W. 42nd St. to interview Rabbi Stephen Weiss. Rabbi Weiss' secretary advised your investigator, that he rarely calls at the offices of the American Jewish Congress and suggested that your investigator contact him on the telephone in order to arrange for an interview.
Whoever gave you the Commission, to investigate Max Lowenthal is just an idiot. You might just as well investigate the President. I consider it a big joke to investigate him. I am amazed that the government does not know all about Mr. Lowenthal. He is one of the ablest lawyers in the government service. Lowenthal is a very distinguished lawyer and has been in and out of the government service for the past 20 years. Instead of making $100,000 a year in private practice, he has been working for $5,000 or $6,000 a year for the government. You can speak to President Roosevelt about Mr. Lowenthal. You might just as well investigate Ike and Henry Wallace. Mr. Lowenthal is of the same intellectual fibre as they. Benjamin Cohen in Washington is a close friend of his. Good Day, and God Bless You.

SUMMARY

The applicant for the past three years has been residing at Chevy Chase, Md., a suburb of Washington. During the past ten years he has been engaged in an advisory capacity for the Senate Banking Investigative Committee, as counsel to the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, and as consultant to the Board of Economic Warfare. He was Executive Secretary of the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission for 13 months in 1930. During the last war the applicant was Assistant Secretary to President Wilson's Mediation Commission; Assistant Secretary to the War Labor Policy Board and of the President's Second Industrial Conference in 1919-1920.

The testimony of a number of witnesses revealed that the applicant is an extremely capable attorney who retired as a comparatively young man approximately 13 years ago, to devote himself to public spirited activities.
A number of the highest and best informed officials of the B'nai B'rith in New York City, as well as the Anti-Defamation League, were interviewed, but none of them knew anything of the applicant, or had ever heard of anyone seeking the aid of their organization to combat or undermine the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Mr. Henry Monsky, president of the B'nai B'rith, who is located at Omaha, Nebraska; Morris Blagyer, National Secretary and Rabbi Paul Richman, Director of the Anti-Defamation League, both located at 1003 K Street N.W., Washington, D. C., were individuals suggested during this investigation who might be interviewed to further pursue the derogatory information in this respect.

Louis Gruss and Ralph Emerson, both reported as former Communists, knew nothing of the applicant.

Judge Julian Macc, a former Federal Judge, and an uncle of the applicant by marriage, has recently died so consequently could not be interviewed.

Federal Judge Jerome Frank, New York State Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora, Adolph Held, President of the Amalgamated Bank, Robert W. Perkins, General Counsel, Werner Brothers Pictures Corp., J. B. Hurdman, Editor of the "Advance", official publication of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, and a number of other witnesses testified favorably as to the applicant's loyalty.

Mr. Ernest Ernst, attorney, stated that J. Edgar Hoover, had talked to him about the applicant and indicated that the Federal Bureau of Investigation had a file on him. Mr. Ernst stated that the applicant is financially incorruptible, but he doesn't trust his basic loyalty, and if the applicant disagreed with anyone, he might undermine the organization with which he had been connected. Mr. Ernst stated that he wouldn't be surprised if the applicant were the author of the recent articles in the Nation Magazine which were critical of the conduct of investigations by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the U. S. Civil Service Commission investigators.

Judge Jerome Frank stated that it was common knowledge that the applicant wrote a speech for one of the Minnesota Senators opposing the appointment of William Douglas to the U. S. Supreme Court. Judge Frank stated that he voiced his objection when Mr. Douglas asked his opinion on the appointment of the applicant as counsel to the Securities and Exchange Commission. He questioned the applicant's intellectual integrity and stated that the applicant stretches facts and discolours findings in his reports, and that he is a difficult individual to work with. Judge Frank stated he had not been in contact with the applicant in the past four years.

Mr. Sidney Hertzberg, together with the applicant and Judge Jerome Frank, according to the brief, were allegedly the brains behind the "America First" organization. Mr. Hertzberg, former National Director of the America First Committee, stated that on several occasions he met the applicant, his impression was that the applicant was opposed to the America First Committee and favored the administration's policy of Lend-Lease and intervention.

Mr. Adolph Held stated that the applicant was heartbroken over Senator Wheeler's anti-war stand, which is why the applicant severed his connection with the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee. Judge Ferdinand Pecora testified in a similar vein.
The files of Confidential Informant A-3 and Confidential Informant A-2 reveal that the applicant for a number of years has been a member of the International Committee of the International Juridical Association. A letterhead in the April, 1942 issue of the International Juridical Association monthly bulletin lists a Max Lowenthal as a member of its National Committee in the District of Columbia. The International Juridical Association is alleged to be a Communist front organization.

The applicant is reported to be a close friend of Justice Felix Frankfurter, Benjamin Cohen, and other individuals holding positions of importance in the government. Rabbi Stephen Weiss stated indignantly that he considered it idiotic to investigate the applicant, as the Commission might just as well investigate President Roosevelt, whom he stated could testify as to the applicant's reliability.

The applicant is reported to have graduated cum laude from the Harvard Law School and was a close friend of the late Justice Brandeis. The applicant, according to the testimony of a number of witnesses, is, to the effect, that he has a liberal outlook, but is not a Communist. He is reported to feel strongly against the monopolies of big business.

He wrote a book "The Investor Pays", and other articles which critically attacks alleged Wall St. practices by bankers and their lawyers in connection with corporate receiverships and reorganizations. Mr. Benjamin Buttenweiser, partner of the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., who is now serving in the U. S. Navy, stated that the book "The Investor Pays", was a distortion of facts and libelous in nature, but that the firm did not sue the applicant. Mr. Buttenweiser stated that the applicant is intellectually dishonest and he would not recommend him for government employment. He suggested that Captain Lewis Strauss, partner in the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and now located with the Naval Bureau of Ordnance in Washington, could furnish more information about the applicant. Mr. Robert T. Swaine, partner of the law firm of Gravath, DeGersdorff, Swaine & Wood, testified that the applicant was not to be relied on because of his lack of intellectual integrity.

Senator Truman in Washington who is reported to have worked closely with the applicant in recent years on the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, was reported as one who would be a good witness who might be able to throw some light on the applicant's loyalty. Mr. Telford Taylor, who worked with the applicant on the above committee, and who is now reported to be General Counsel of the Federal Communications Commission in Washington, should likewise be in a position to offer some illuminating testimony on the applicant. Mr. Sidney Hillman stated that the applicant's former law partner, Maxwell Brandwein, now reported to be connected with Lewis Douglas in the Maritime Commission in Washington, might be able to throw some more light on the applicant's pacifist views.

Many witnesses in this report testified to the effect that the applicant is a man of integrity and scrupulously honest.

Applicant's Personal History Statement gives his address as 1 West Irving St., Chevy Chase, Maryland and states that he was born February 26, 1888 and that his legal residence is New York. This form which was executed on December 31, 1942 indicates that he is married, is 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighs 150 pounds, and was born in Minneapolis, Minnesota and that he attended the University of Minnesota from 1905 to 1929, graduating with the degree of Bachelor of Arts and that he received his Bachelor of Laws at Harvard University in 1912. The applicant gives as references: Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone, Associate Justice Hugo Black, Associate Justice Felix Frankfurter, all of the Supreme Court; former Senator George W. Norris and Senator Harry S. Truman. The applicant's employment record as contained in this Brief does not vary from the attached Brief except that the applicant lists as employment from June, 1933 to April, 1934, the position of Research Director of the United States Banking and Currency Commission and states that from May, 1939 to August, 1939, he was Executive Secretary of the National Committee on Law Observance and Enforcement. He also states that from 1926 to 1921, he was Assistant Secretary of the Second Presidential Industrial Conference. From 1918 to 1919, the applicant was Assistant Chairman of the War Labor Policies Board and in 1918 was an Aide and Assistant in the War Department and from 1917 to 1918 was Assistant Secretary and later Secretary of the President's Committee on Mediation. Prior to 1917, the applicant was engaged as a Reporter on the Minneapolis Journal or was a Law Clerk.

February 17, 1942 - 0th of office in position of Consultant in the Legal Division, Board of Economic Warfare at $25.00 p.d.v.a.e.

May 16, 1942 - per diem increased to $35.00 per day.

There were several letters and forms in the file when it was examined concerning the applicant's proposed appointment to the position of Chief of the Reoccupation and Reconstruction Division of E.E.V. The final appointment papers had not been completely processed.

B.J. C
I knew Max Lowenthal only in connection with his work here for us. He had written a book on the reorganization of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad, which was a masterpiece and I wanted him to work with my Committee on railroad finance. As a result of his research work, the railroad act of 1940 was written. He did a very good job for us. He has been around Washington for a number of years. Before he came here to work for me, I believe he was practicing law in New York. He is a native New Yorker, I am sure. I have my own ideas about Max and I know that there are people who disagree with me. I was approached by one of my constituents when I was home in Montana once and was asked "Why have you got that Communist Lowenthal working for you?" I think that it is a joke anyone calling him a Communist. He is not well liked by some people because he worked for me. Drew Pearson stopped him on the street one day and asked Max what he meant by working for an old son-of-a--- like me. Frankly, I do not know what his feelings were toward the war or on isolation. I never discussed such matters with him because I soon found out that he did not agree with me. If he ever changed his mind, I don't know anything about it. He did an excellent job for me in connection with railroad finance - that was what he was hired to do and I doubtless avoided bringing up anything about isolation or the war and I really can't say very much about how he felt. He has some very good connections here in Washington. I was talking to Vice President Wallace just a few days ago and he told me that Max was doing a very good job for him.

I know Max Lowenthal slightly. At one time my office was near his over in the Commerce Building. That was when he first went to work for the Board of Economic Warfare and occasionally we would have lunch together. He is a brilliant lawyer and a generally very smart man, but I never trusted him. In fact, whenever he was around I always made it a point to say as little of any importance as possible because I did not want to be passing on any information to him. One of his chief assistants at the Board of Economic Warfare was Allen Rosenberg. When I was at the National Labor Relations Board, Allen was aligned with the Communist element in the Board, if he was not actually a member of the Communist Party. In fact, I do not think that there is any question that he is. Another fellow that Lowenthal has worked with is Charles Plato and I think that there...
I have known Max for 15 months in this work. He is a Harvard graduate and he heads the reoccupation division. He has amazing connections here in Washington. I heard Miss say that I was interested in a commission in the Army and one afternoon he offered to call up some of his friends and see what he could do for me, and he called a number of people that I have read about in the newspapers and have never had the opportunity to meet and he talked to them as though they were all old friends. He is insignificant looking, but he has ability and he has been in the Government off and on since the last war. Another time that he indicated that he had considerable influence was when Dies branded David Vaughan of the Board as a Communist. Just as soon as Dies released Vaughan's name, why Lowenthal went to work in his behalf and it was not long before Dies was making a retraction. He certainly did a good job on that. I have an idea that he seriously embarrassed Congressman Dies. So far as I know, his character and loyalty are just what they should be.
I have known Max Lowenthal only in connection with this office. He is, however, a former classmate at Harvard of Bob Patterson, the Under-Secretary of War and he was recommended to the Board by Senator Morris. He was a Consultant here for a number of months with me and he is now head of the Reoccupation Division. His office furnished the Army with all the information it possessed on the Economic Resources of Africa when the invasion started last November. I know nothing of his ideology. In other words, my knowledge of him is strictly professional. I knew him only one week before he came here to work and I knew that he was with the Interstate Commerce Committee on the Senate and when I hired him as a Consultant, I assumed that recommendation by a Senator would be as good as I could get.

MR. EDWARD BRECHER, Analyst for the Federal Communications Commission, Benjamin Franklin Postoffice Bldg., Washington, D.C.

I knew Mr. Lowenthal in connection with his work with the Senate Interstate Commerce Sub-Committee and later I worked for him at the Board of Economic and just a short time ago I transferred from there to the Federal Communications Commission. I think a great deal of his ability as an organizer and I know he is a brilliant research man. He was formerly in Wall Street and I think he was in the firm of Szold and Brandven. I do know that he was very successful and don't know a thing in his record that would be questionable. His ideology so far as I know. I would never suspect his loyalty to this country. So I know he's all right in every way.

ERIG. GENERAL NATHAN GREENBAUM, Office of the Secretary of War, Room 32, Pentagon Bldg., Arlington, Virginia.

I have known Max Lowenthal for a number of years and I don't like him a darn bit. He is just the type that people do not like. He and I were sending out our children to the same school in New York and the school encountered financial difficulties. It was necessary for the parents of the students to make contributions in order to keep the school open. I made my contributions and forgot about it, but Lowenthal had to go over the books of the School and study its teachers and make a general nuisance of himself before he would do anything to help. I would be greatly surprised if I found that he was a Communist. I do know that my former law partner, number of articles on the FBI and other subjects. There is no particular reason for him to be at odds with the FBI. He was deeply interested in the arrests the FBI made in Detroit several years ago when they held several radicals incommunicado for a number of hours. He wrote some stuff on that and I used part of it in news stories. In fact, he was the brains of some committee, which was headed by the Mid-Western Preacher and they got out a lot of material about that.

He, I would say, is not a Communist. In fact, I think I would class him as a New Dealer. I have seen him a time or two since he was at B.E.W. He invited me and Raymond Clapper and other newsmen out to his house where we were supposed to be given a story on B.E.W. There were supposed to be some other officials there and they didn't show up and for that reason the conference at Lowenthal's house blew up. I remember Raymond Clapper got pretty sarcastic. Max had two or three other fellows from his office, young fellows that were working for him, and they were obviously scared and as was Max to say anything. What they had in mind, I don't know, but I understand that we were supposed to get a story on post-war planning.

MR. WALTER STEELE, Publisher, National Republic Magazine, Washington, D.C.

I don't know Lowenthal very well except by reputation, and I understand that he has played quite a part in a Communist plan to get the FBI. There was a meeting on Ninth Street in February, 1940, at which it was planned to attack the FBI. Part of the plan was to have investigative agencies mushroom throughout the government and so have a great many of them and thereby necessitate coordination of them. The coordinator to be appointed was a notorious Communist whom I'll not name. Max Lowenthal was either at that meeting or behind it.

INVESTIGATOR'S NOTE: At this stage of the investigation, your Investigator interviewed an official of a nationally known, highly accredited organization which has furnished much valuable information in connection with other investigations at various times. This official, however, would not make a statement about Max Lowenthal without the promise being made that his name would not appear in this report. He then said that Judge Julian W. Mack had told him in Florida some years ago that he was worried about nephew by marriage and his radical leanings. The witness stated that the applicant had been the organizer among with Sigmund Hertzberg, and Judge Jerome Frank, of the "America First" committee. He also said the applicant had been writing many articles on the FBI and that he had traced them to him.
Loventhal was Executive Secretary to the Wickesbham Committee on Law Observance and Enforcement. Loventhal, while in this position, tried to get access to our files and was refused. He was angered by this and resigned in disgust in 1930, after 13 months' service. When he resigned, he charged that the Committee in its activities was doing only that which was politically expedient. Afterwards, he was instrumental in the reorganization of the Norfolk and Western Railroad and he wrote a book entitled "The Investor Pays", which extolled Euben Loeb and Company, of Wall St., New York. He made a great sum in his work for the Norfolk and Western Railroad. He has an insatiable thirst for power. Since he does not have the ability to meet people well, he works behind the scenes. He is well connected among various groups here in Washington with which he was formerly connected. He is a former close associate of Euben Loeb. I am not in position to vouch for the rumor that Euben Loeb has been at odds with J. Lowenthall since 1936. Lowenthall, for a number of years, has been a member of the National Committee of the International Juridical Association. For years preceding this association, he was very close to Sidney Hillman and has apparently been a guiding light, that is, Lowenthall, in radical circles. This is based on the obviously close association which Lowenthall has maintained with Carol King, Lee Pressman and others of like ilk. By way of completing his background, Lowenthall has a summer home in New Milford, Connecticut.

In the Fall of 1939, J. Edgar Hoover went before Congress and told them, "We are investigating individuals who would be dangerous to National Security and we have indices of personal and geographic nature". The Daily Worker and other isolationist publications and persons then started to raise Cain. It was soon thereafter that the Communist Party began to marshal its forces and it is correct information well substantiated by Communist Party literature that there was a definite campaign against the FBI clan at this time. The Bureau was duped from one source and another and from all sides at once. At that time, there was a grand jury investigation aimed at the New Masses, the Daily Worker and other as yet unregistered foreign agents.

INVESTIGATOR'S NOTE: At this stage, Mr. Nichols interrupted his giving of testimony to the undersigned to state that he did not want to go on record as to the source of the Bureau's information as to the above mentioned.
included several prominent Communists. At this same time, the People's World, the New Masses, Daily Worker and other publications of a similar nature opened up on the Bureau immediately. We compared the material and we could see that they were all from the same source and it was also obvious that these articles were part of a well-organized campaign. But since then, we have noticed the development of an extensive campaign against us.

Lowenthal, as has been said before, became angry at the Bureau in 1930 and while we have not investigated him, it appears that he has definite part in the present campaign.

Walter Winchell in his column of March 25, 1940 said that Robert Mitchfield was Max Lowenthal's stooge in passing out these memoranda against the Bureau. A memorandum entitled: "Is the Department of Justice sufficiently competent in National Defense," in which he attacked the Hobbs Bill legalizing wire tapping.
We have a report that Loventhal has been tied up with the National Federation of Constitutional Organizations. We have nothing to substantiate this, but it is well substantiated and beyond doubt true that Loventhal is a close associate of the International Juridical Association.

With further regard to the Russian-American Industrial Corporation, which was capitalized at $1,000,000., a prospectus concerning the sale of this Corporation's stock in 1921, referred to six factories in Moscow and indicated that control of the Corporation was in the National Council of the Soviet Union. The object of the Corporation being described as to aid and assist in developing Russia and to further the economic progress of the Soviet as well as American progress in Russia. This pamphlet lists as stock-holders, Mr. and Mrs. Max Loventhal. While our record in this respect is not complete, we have an indication that the State Corporation Commission of California in 1923 had the Los Angeles County Grand Jury indict several individuals for violation of the law covering the sale of securities. Our record indicates that these indictments were dropped and that the sale of the stock was forbidden in the State of California. The information that I have given you is material that has come to us from time to time and is now in any way the product of an investigation conducted by us. I have done my best to give you all the information we have and it has been done at the expressed orders of Mr. Hoover.

INVESTIGATOR'S NOTE: The testimony of Mr. Nichols was secured after the undersigned made an attempt to see Mr. Hoover, himself, who happened to be out of town at the time the interview was requested. Mr. Hoover was informed by long distance telephone when he called his office and his secretary informed him that the Commission was investigating Max Loventhal and he instructed her to call the undersigned right away and say that he "did know Max Loventhal and most unfavorably in every respect".
I think a great deal of him. He is no intimate of mine, but I used to see him quite a bit at the Capitol. He's a liberal, and he does not like J.Edgar Hoover. Neither do I, and I'm pretty sure that if Senator Walsh had lived to hold the office of Attorney General, Hoover would have been fired. It all goes back to the Plumer raids after the last war. The Senator remembered them, and so did Max. I don't think that he ever gave the Senator information. There was nothing that he could have told Senator Norris about the subject. I never knew very much about his writings, and have never run across anything he wrote on the FBI. His habits, loyalty and character would be all right.

MR. ROBERT O. LIVERIELD, Journalist and Public Relations man, interviewed at National Press Club, 14th and F Sts., NW., Wash., D.C.

I first knew Max when he was just out of law school and was an attorney in a $50,000,000 case that my employer at that time, the Thompson Black Company was interested in. He made our attorneys look silly and he made a great deal of money in the case. He later married the niece of Judge Julian Mack and has quite a record I think in New York in legal practice. I saw him around New York occasionally, but I didn't ever get to know him intimately. I was in Washington and I had not seen Max for a number of years when he came here with Senator Wheeler's outfit. He looked me up here at the Club and gave me some articles to circulate for him. He wrote all the reports for the Wheeler Committee and gave me material on them for the Press and he also wrote on other subjects. He has a yen for writing about J.Edgar Hoover and he has given me several articles on the FBI. I don't know what came between Hoover and Lowenthal, unless a letter Lowenthal wrote to Carol King about Hoover got into his hands. Carol King is a former clerk of Lowenthal's and she consults him on legal problems frequently. I don't recall the titles of any articles he wrote. Lots of members of the Club have gotten them. Sometimes ago, Quentin Reynolds came to me and asked to see Lowenthal's memorandum on the FBI. I still had one and he took it to Hoover, I found out later. I don't remember any particular case he dealt with in his memorandum. He was just against such large amounts of money going to Hoover, I think, and I think he was against wiretapping. As far as I am concerned, I would evaluate him as "tops". He's very likeable and is a brilliant lawyer. I don't suppose some extent by the law rather than have it to be entirely a violation. That was one thing that he had against J.Edgar Hoover. I don't think that he was personally at odds with Hoover, but he certainly was against his wiretapping idea. He was also against Justice Douglas when the President nominated him to the Supreme Court of the United States and I believe that he wrote a speech against the nomination which was made by Senator Fraysure. I don't know what his ideas on the war were. He was isolationist I know and he changed at some time, but just when I don't know. I was so interested myself, I had my mind so well made up that I didn't pay much attention to others. He is not a joiner and I don't know of any organizations he belongs to nor do I know of any groups he's connected with. For many years, I have seen him only for an occasional dinner and that is all that I have had with him. I think that I can safely say, however, that he is just deeply interested in civil rights and probably is no Communist. I would be greatly surprised to find that he was a Communist.

MRS. MARY HERLING, Assistant Chief of the Mutual Ownership Section of the Public-Federal Housing Authority, Longfellow Bldg., Rhode Island Ave. and M Sts., NW., Wash., D.C.

I don't know Max Lowenthal, but I know something of his staff. He has one man named Allan Rosenberg in his office at the Board of Economic Warfare. I applied for a job at BEW and Rosenberg interviewed me. In discussing their work of reoccupation, Rosenberg asked me what I would make of works councils in organizing reoccupied countries. I am a former secretary of the league for Industrial Democracy and I, therefore, am a Socialist and in no way a Communist. I knew before I talked to him that works councils were employed by the Communists in Germany after the past war and it is a method of Communists entirely. There seems to be a definite Communist air in that office and I gave up the idea of working there after I had the interview with Rosenberg. I am sure that he never had any intention of hiring me because he knew that I was a Socialist and I am rather surprised that he would bring up such a subject in a discussion with me.

MR. HAROLD SZOLD, Sr. Attorney of the Allied Munitions Board, Public Health Service Bldg., Constitution Ave., Wash., D.C.

I have known Max Lowenthal 25 years. My brother was his law partner. Max I knew best when he was with the Amalgamated Bank in New York. He's been in Washington for years. He made lots of money and retired from law practice about 1930, I think, and then did some writing. What he is politically would be about the same as an original New Dealer. He is an expert on railroads and Wall Street and wrote several
Mr. Leonard B. Zeisler, Attorney in the Legal Division of the Social Security Board, Room 219, 1825 H St., NW., Wash., D.C.

Max Lowenthal is the former law partner of Robert Broid, who is my wife's brother. He is a brilliant lawyer. I have known him many years. He was with the Wheeler Committee and prior to that was in New York most of the time. I don't see a great deal of him here, however, although we meet socially now and then. I do not know what to say about his ideology. He is a great friend of Lee Pressman and I know Lee Pressman follows the Party Line. I have heard Pressman arguing straight Party Line many many times. I have avoided discussions with Max, but I do know he was against Lend-Lease. Later he became an interventionist, but when it was, I don't know, but I am sure that it was before Pearl Harbor.

INVESTIGATOR’S NOTE: Mr. Zeisler, whose testimony is recorded immediately preceding this note, was extremely reluctant to discuss Mr. Lowenthal with the undersigned throughout the interview he wore a Mona Lisa smile and answered questions as indefinitely and non-committally as possible.

Mr. Joseph Kovner, Principal Attorney, Legal Division, War Production Board, Room 4167, H, Social Security Board Bldg., Wash., D.C.

I worked for a few months in 1936 with Lowenthal when he was with Wheeler on railroad investigations. I was in his New York office and I have seen him very little since. I would say he could be trusted. His legal ability is great. I don't know what his political beliefs really are although I'd say he is the kind to carry Communism on his conscience. By that I mean, he is greatly concerned with the welfare of the underdog and wants his rights preserved. Yes, I am connected with the International Juridical Association. I was Editor of its Bulletin from early 1935 to late 1936. I have only received its bulletins since that time and have had no other.
I knew Max only after he came to Washington and I used to see him frequently here at the Press Club. I never knew him well enough to go to his home. He used to drop in here to talk over something that was on his mind and then I would get a memorandum in a few days supplying material on whatever subject we had discussed. He is interested in civil liberties and has written stuff on the FBI, as well as other legal subjects. I would say Max was a liberal, but no Communist. I think he helped defend the Trotskyists in Minneapolis several years ago and that certainly was not in line with what the Communists wanted. He never had a dispute with J. Edgar Hoover, to my knowledge, but he has been interested in the FBI for the civil liberties viewpoint for a long time. I know him only from the viewpoint of a newspaper man.

NEIGHBORHOOD INVESTIGATION

MRS. S.P. TEELE, JR., 5900 Connecticut Avenue, NW., Wash., D.C.

I have very little knowledge of the Lowenthals. They have been in this neighborhood for several years, I think. The only information we would have of them has been gained over the back fence by means of an occasional "Good-morning". I know of no reason for not employing them in the Federal Service.

MRS. GEORGE E. LADD, 4 W. Irving St., Chevy Chase, Md.

The Lowenthals have been here at least 2 years. He has a good friend, who is working in the State Department. They have three children, two boys in college and a daughter in High School. The whole family is quite musical. I know of no other INVESTIGATOR'S NOTE: Other neighborhood witnesses than those supplied above knowing anything at all of the applicant were not located by the undersigned.

INTERNATIONAL JURIDICAL ASSOCIATION

THE DIES COMMITTEE Record searched by Mr. William T. Finley, Investigator.

The International Juridical Association is part of an international organization of lawyers initiated under the auspices of the International Red Aid, parent organization of the International Labor Defense, with headquarters in Moscow, and controlled by the said International Red Aid. Proof of this is to be found in the pamphlet "Ten Years of the International Red Aid", published by the Executive Committee of the International Red Aid through its Publishing Department, pages 221 to 225:

"In November 1927 in connection with the 10th Anniversary of the October Revolution, a number of lawyers came to Moscow. These lawyers, together with the I.R.A. had a conference in connection with juridical questions... The minutes of this conference were issued in 1928...

"DIRECTIVES OF THE II INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE

"During the last few years the courts in all capitalist countries have been taking on a more and more clearly marked reactionary fascist character and in the hands of the bourgeoisie they are a powerful weapon and a reliable means of fighting against any liberation movement.

"In this struggle, the ruling class is helped by thousands of bourgeois lawyers and their societies and associations, which assist the capitalists to legalise murder and torture, the deportation and imprisonment of thousands of workers and peasants, assist them to turn the white terror into a normal legal proceeding so as to give a powerful footing to everything which may serve the capitalists against the revolution...
4. For this purpose it is necessary at least three times a year to send to the sections (of the International Red Aid—Ed.) a letter of instruction for the legal bureaus and at least twice a year to send juridical bulletins which will serve as a means of information as to current law in various countries and for the interchange of experience of the legal bureaus in various countries.

5. To instruct all the national legal bureaus, and in countries where there are none the secretary of the C. C. (Central Committee) to send to the International legal Bureau every three months a report on legal work...to keep watch on all the current political legislation and immediately on the publication of such laws or bills to send two copies to the E.C. (Executive Committee—Ed.)

7. It is advisable for all sections to publish (like the French Section) a bulletin for the information of the I.R.A. lawyers and the district organizations as to legal aid.

"DIRECTIVES ON THE ORGANISATION OF LEGAL DEFENCE"

1. The legal defence of the toilers persecuted for their political convictions must be carried on not only from the juridical but also from the political point of view.

With this aim in view the lawyers must collect and prepare all sorts of material for the trial. The material must characterise the class nature of bourgeois justice, the system of provocation, torture, and persecution...

2. The lawyers appointed to officiate in court trials must be social workers, lawyers who sympathise with the cause of the toilers.

"DIRECTIVES ON THE JURIDICAL TRAINING OF THE WORKING CLASS FOR SELF-DEFENCE DURING POLICE AND COURT PERSECUTION"

1. The knowledge of bourgeois laws, court practice and the prison regime is of absolute necessity for the working class in its struggle for liberation...

This juridical training must be carried on by the R.A. (Red Aid—Ed.) lawyers...

"It is expedient to draw up a small booklet of references, which in about 20 pages will contain the most important juridical advice..."
organized and with a Communist outlook...are in a position to...

powerful aid to the masses in struggle...Communist professionals also have the very important task of advancing, and even revolutionizing the techniques and theories of their respective professions...our lawyers must challenge prevalent capitalist legal conceptions and rewrite our legal history...Special organizational forms must be developed for this work...

To what extent have these tasks as laid down by the International Red Aid and the Communist Party, U. S. A., a section of the Communist International, been carried out by the International Juridical Association? We cite "Equal Justice", 1936-1937 Yearbook of the International Labor Defense, page 66:

"The International Juridical Association"

"The International Juridical Association which, since its foundation in America in 1931 has led in the field of labor legal research in the United States, in 1936 contributed notably to the defense movement. Its monthly bulletin has become an indispensable standby...It has attracted to its membership and its National Committee the leading attorneys of the United States in the field of labor law, and has succeeded to a remarkable extent in co-ordinating research and organizing legal assistance to labor groups. Isidor Poller is executive director, Carol King, secretary of the I. J. A., Joseph Konner, formerly editor of the I.J.A. Bulletin, is now assistant counsel to the Committee for Industrial Organizations...

"The legal work on the question of the right of seamen to strike without running the risk of being charged with mutiny was conducted under its direction and by member attorneys (note page 34 ibid.):

("At the request of the International Labor Defense, a study of the law involved was made by the International Juridical Association, which showed that the Department's (Labor-Ed.) threats had no legal basis. (See May and June 1936 issues of the Bulletin of the International Juridical Association--Ed.). A spokesman of the Department promptly disavowed the 'mutiny' charge.")

In accordance with the practice of the French Section of the International Labor Defense and the instructions of the International Red Aid, the Monthly Bulletin of the International Juridical Association was first published on May 1st, the Communist international revolutionary holiday, 1932. This issue of the Bulletin published the "Preamble to the Constitution of the American Section of the International Juridical Association", page 8, from which we quote:

"The American Section of the International Juridical Association subscribes to the declaration of principles of the International Juridical Association.

"Present America offers the example of a country discarding traditions of liberty and freedom, and substituting legislative, administrative and judicial tyranny. This country, once known to the world as the haven of refuge of oppressed peoples now excludes, or deports, those daring to voice unpopular opinions; with a constitution supposed to protect freedom of expression, it now persecutes and imprisons its political dissenters...

"The Post Office refuses the mails to printed matter expressing unpopular views. Criminal syndicalism and criminal anarchy statutes have outlawed meetings of members of minority organizations...

"The American Section of the I.J.A. declares its purposes to be as follows:

"To combat...and resist increasing executive, judicial, legislative and administrative oppression...To support the defense of political prisoners especially in the courts...To rally to the support of workers and their organizations...against the forces of the state whenever and wherever the latter aligns itself on the side of special privilege. To help establish in this country and throughout the world social and legal justice."
4. That its aims are not that of an ordinary professional organization of lawyers but are intended to help establish the IJA's conception of "world social and legal justice."

From its foundation the IJA Monthly Bulletin has been preoccupied largely with the defense of individual Communists or of the Communist Party itself:

May 1, 1932

2. "Ohio Criminal Syndicalism Act Unconstitutional". Ohio State Court of Appeals cited.
3. Communist cases discussed: Tom Murdoch, Edith Berkman, Kermatsu, Yokinen, Bill Boloff.
4. Bills on deportation of Communists.

IJA luncheon January 9, 1932 in honor of George W. Chemlee and Joseph R. Brezsky, counsel for Earl Browder, General Secretary, Communist

The following cases supported by the Communist Party are mentioned in this issue:

1. Scottsboro case.
2. Centralia case.

June 1932

1. H. R. 12044 to deport alien Communists.
2. Customs seizure of issues of the "Communist International".
3. Tom Mooney case, supported by the International Labor Defense and the Communist Party.

Juridical
Cases in which the Communist Party was interested: Bacco-Vanucetti, Unemployed Council of White Plains.

September 1932
1 Leo Gallagher, Communist candidate for Secretary of State, California, 1932. "Law Professor Expelled for Defending Workers in Courts."
2 Communist cases: Moses Bormunen, Nels Kjar.

October 1932
1, 3 Communist cases: Villi Zecor, Joseph Seevel, Nels Kjar, Silas Byrge, Charles Goya, August Yokinen, Clarence Hatheway

November 1932
1 Communist cases: New Jersey Court of Common Pleas.
1, 2, 5 Bill for deportation of alien communists.

December 1932
2, 3 Communist cases: Carr and Powers, Georgia; Paul Brown, also known as Solomon Pullman, and John Kasper, Bayonne, New Jersey.

January 1933
1, 2, 4 Communist cases: Angelo Herndon, Fernandes, Panagopoulos, Paul Kassey.

February 1933
4 Labor Test Book, published by the Labor Research Association, mentioned as coming within the IJA "field of interest."

March 1933
2 Arrest of Alfred Apfel, "Secretary of the International Juridical Association", Germany.
De Jonge (ibid); Angelo Merndon (July 1936); Paul Butasch (ibid); Maglicano (ibid); Jack Barton (August 1936); Margaret Adams, John Thomas (ibid); William Gallacher (September 1936); Lawrence Simpson (October 1936); Eleanor Swimmer (ibid); W. C. Kinkley (October 1936); Charles McLaughlan (ibid); Arthur Hertz (ibid); Earl Browder (November 1936); Carl Ohm (ibid); Leo Gallagher (December 1936); Lorenzo Puentes (January 1937); Joseph P. Coane (March 1937); James Branch (ibid); Samuel Kaschak (April 1937); Carolyn Hart (July 1937).

In the same issues of the Monthly Bulletin we find the following issues dealt with, all pertaining to the defense of the Communist Party and its members:

Bill dealing with deportation of aliens affiliated with the Third International (April 1936); Dickstein Bill for the deportation of any alien who "engages in the promotion or dissemination of propaganda instigated from foreign sources" (July 1936); Teachers' loyalty oaths (August 1936); Bans on Communist meetings (September, November 1936, February 1937); repeal of criminal syndicalism laws (April 1937); McNaboe Committee investigating Un-American activities in New York State (ibid).
null6rous citations fi'om the Daily Worker, Sunday Worker and Western Worker, all official organs of the Communist Party, USA:

July 1936; September 1936; October 1936; November 1936; August 1937.

In 1934 the Labor Research Association published a pamphlet dealing with the National Recovery Act (NRA). Contributors to this pamphlet included Earl Browder, General Secretary of the Communist Party and Mary Van Kleck. The position of the Communist Party is cited in the introduction:

"On July 7, 1933, at the Extraordinary Party Conference of the Communist Party, Earl Browder, Secretary of the Communist Party of the U.S.A. presented this fundamental analysis of the Roosevelt New Deal and the National Industrial Recovery Act, declaring, 'There is now being carried out a clean-up of all the little fellows...There is only the growth of the power of the big capitalists and the intensification of all the social and economic contradictions'. (p.3)

(Browder)"For the working class, the Industrial Recovery Act is truly an industrial slavery act. It is one of the steps towards the militarization of labor. It is a forerunner of American fascism." (p. 19)

The attitude of the IJA Monthly Bulletin was also critical during this period. It scoffed at the NRA as "based upon a philosophy of cooperation between employer and worker" (July 1933, p. 1). It acclaimed the resignation of Mary Van Kleck from the Federal Advisory Council to the United States Employment Service "because of the administration's labor union policy" as embodied in the National Recovery Act (August 1933, p. 2).

By 1938 the Communist Party had reversed its position on the NRA (Communist, October 1938, p. 881). Earl Browder explained the new line of the Party as follows:

"Within the first New Deal phase, only the famous Section 7a of the National Industrial Recovery Act, guaranteeing the workers' right of organization in unions of their own choice, clearly pointed the road of the further development of the New Deal." (Second Imperialist War, p. 96)

Reflecting this change in the position of the Communist Party we find the following statement in the IJA Monthly Bulletin, October 1937, p. 51:

"Alvin Johnson has stated shrewdly in the Yale Review that the Wagner Act represents a direct attack upon the system of industrial discipline
In conclusion it is significant to cite the items that make up the March 1942 issue of the IJA Monthly Bulletin, the last available at this writing, in order to indicate the consistency with which this publication and the organization publishing it, have maintained their character:

The Second Bridges Hearing; Death of Tom Mooney; Delegation of National Lawyers Guild calls upon Attorney General; National Negro Congress and National Federation for Constitutional Liberties write to President Roosevelt; Foreign Agents Law Amendments Vetoed.

In April 1940 after the Stalin-Hitler Pact and during the period of Communist Party isolationism, the IJA attacked the FBI as a "Secret Political Police" and called the period one of "war hysteria." (Bulletin, April 1940, p.106). In March 1942 after the Hitler attack on Russia the Communist support of the war, we find Paul Robeson quoted as follows: "This war is for freedom." (p. 94)

The present stand of the IJA should be further contrasted with its stand in 1940 during the period of the Stalin-Hitler pact. Opposing the Burke-Wadsworth draft bill, the IJA declared:

1. That the present bill would subject millions to secret police methods;
2. That deferment of service because of dependents is illusory, that men with families probably will be called up to active service at the whim of local draft boards as they were in the last war.
3. That the so-called protective clauses for workers necessary to defense industries may actually operate as strike-breaking machinery;
4. That no real protection exists for conscientious objectors;
5. That the "job protection" clause of the present bill offers "little promise of effective protection for the conscripted employee, and,
6. That no protection whatever exists for a conscript facing financial obligations such as a mortgage, lease, etc.

"Since the right to strike is not specifically safeguarded by provisions of the pending bill..."

The following information regarding Maurice Sugar is from a pamphlet entitled "Leninism-Levisism" published by the "National Republic Magazine" July, 1937:

C.I.O. Attorney in Michigan, according to the "Digest" was "convicted of draft evasion in 1917" and "pleaded guilty during indictment on December 4, 1917 and served one year in the Detroit House of Correction. The Labor Journal claims that records of that institution show that Sugar "served from November 25, 1918 to November 25, 1919 and that other records indicated that "Maurice Sugar and five others (were charged) with conspiracy to violate Section 37 of the United States Code". It is also charged that documents proved "copy of order for registration and disbarment by Judge Tuttle in the United States Cour, Detroit, on December 4, 1917. The Journal claims that Sugar "was elected to the Communist affiliated International Labor Defense, March 14, 1936". In 1936, Sugar was openly supported by Communist for local office in a Detroit Election Campaign. He is active in Communist circles and is associated with other radical movements in Michigan. The "Digest" charges that "Sugar's picture was found" in a place of honor alongside those of Stalin, Lenin and Tom Mooney in a raid on what they described as "Communist Headquarters in Detroit" several years ago "and that on the wall was also found a large placard which read: "Every factory a fortress from Communism".

ELECTION ADDEND

Report of Metropolitan Police Department, Washington, D. C.; states subject was present at a C. P. meeting in Franklin Park, Washington, D. C., Sept. 21, 1936 MEMBER, WASHINGTON COMMITTEE FOR DEMOCRATIC ACTION
CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR OF MARYLAND ON COMMUNIST PARTY TICKET, 1934
ISAAC E. FERGUSON

According to the report of the Joint Legislative Committee of the State of New York investigation seditious activities, filed April 24, 1920, I.E. Ferguson was a member of the Constitution Committee at the Communist Party Convention, opened in Chicago on September 1, 1919. The report also states that as of November 22, 1919, Isaac E. Ferguson was Acting Editor of the Communist, which was then the official organ of the Communist Party, and that he wrote in the "Revolutionary Age" of July 12th, 1919, which stated that it is a misfortune that the workers of the United States do not want a revolution because the "United States is grievously in need of the Socialist (Left Wing) Revolution." It is further reported that the subject has been an International Delegate and member of the Executive Council of the Communist Party and that he was along with Benjamin Gitlow, Harry Winitzky, Charles Kuhthenberg, and others. Member of the Managing Council of the "Revolutionary Age", the National Organ of the Left Wing Section of the Socialist Party, and that "The So Called Left Wing Movement ... was crystallized on Feb. 15, 1919, when certain delegates from local Kings and Queens, New York City, to the Central Committee of Greater New York, voted the meeting and procured a hall in the Rand School of Social Science, 7 East 15th St." In connection with this movement a city committee of fifteen, including Benjamin Gitlow, and Joseph Brodsky, was elected to carry on the work of the organization. This group prepared a manifesto, regarding the organization of "Workmen's Councils". "Ferguson was a member of the Left Wing National Council, which consisted of nine members and included Gitlow."
another member of the original executive committee, and still a member, is Jerome R. Hollerstein. Miss King stated in her letter that the organization was international in character with international affiliations, but that 'with the advent of Hitler, the German organization disappeared and since then there have been no international affiliations.

"The Treasurer of the organization when it was formed was one Sol Cohn, who still remains its Treasurer. The significance of the International Juridical Association filed with the bank, at which an account was opened in 1931, described it as the "International Juridical Association, American Section". Recently, when a new bank account was opened, it was still described in the same manner.

"The International Juridical Association, after its organization, had its offices at 100-5th Avenue in the offices of Joseph Brodsky and Carol King, who are members of its executive and national committee. Both Carol King and Joseph Brodsky are well known as attorneys for leading Communists, Miss King having recently defended Harry Bridges in the trial for his deportation.

"Mr. Kern admitted that Carol King had invited him to become a member of the National Committee of the International Juridical Association, but he denied that the organization of which he was a member was the same as the International Juridical Association, which was formed in 1931. However, Miss King admitted it was the same organization as the one in existence today. Bank records of the organization also confirmed this fact.

"The alleged purpose of the International Juridical Association as set forth in one of its bulletins in 1932 was to defend civil liberties, labor's right and to rally to the side of workers "against" the forces of the State "when the latter aligned itself on the side of "special privilege"."

"Sol Cohn, Treasurer of the International Juridical Association, since its inception was also Chairman in 1940 of the Lawyers Committee affiliated with the United May Day Parade, staged by the Communist Party and connected with the Lawyers Committee to keep the United States out of war, with headquarters at 20 Vesey St., New York City.

"The evidence also showed that the International Juridical Association sent a delegation to the annual convention of the International Labor Defense, although which appeared in a strangely coincidental manner with that in which various editorials appeared in such publications as the New Republic, the Nation and the New Masses. This allegation is apparently on very sound ground. In the March, 1940 issue of the International Juridical Association bulletin, a great deal of space is devoted to the arrest at Detroit, Michigan on the morning of February 6, 1940 by the Federal Bureau of Investigation of a number of individuals, who had been recruiting or enlisting men for service on the Loyalist side of the Spanish Civil War.

The Bulletin accuses Hoover of having taken part in the raids under Attorney General Palmer. The Nation on March 9, 1940 in an editorial also accused Hoover of repeating the Palmer Raids while the New Republic on February 19, in an editorial entitled "American CAFU" also criticised the Detroit Raids and also one which took place in New York and says that the way is being paved for the return of the Palmer Raids.

The New Republic on March 1, 1940 stated in an article that the men behind Hoover is Roosevelt and that it was time to get wise to his Gestapo and this same issue also calls for investigation of the FBI and goes on to criticise the Detroit Raids and the FBI list of subversive names set up in 1939.

The IJA Bulletin in April, 1940 makes this same point and criticises the FBI's alphabetical and geographical indices of allegedly subversive persons and organizations.

As referred to immediately above, the New Republic expressed such sentiments on March 1, 1940.

On February 5, 1940, the New Republic accused the Federal Bureau of Investigation of overlooking "treason and treasony" cooking under the nose of its Hawaii Branch Office "while it chased liberals up blind alleys and prepared a black list of allegedly subversive persons; thus, it is inferred, paving the way for INVESTIGATOR'S NOTE: The analysis just above this note could be made a very voluminous affair. However, it appears sufficient to introduce the few parallels demonstrated above between the coincidental and probably concomitant musings of the Communist or ultra-liberal press, and all written somethings which he thought enough of to claim the authorship. He has written a book entitled: "The Investor Pays", which he published in 1933 in Harper's magazine of December, 1934, he wrote an article entitled: "The case of the Missouri Pacific" and in the New Republic on October 17, 1934, he wrote an article entitled: "Thirty Dollars in Wall Street" and in the New Republic of August 22, 1934, he published an article entitled: "Wall Street Kisses Congress Good-bye." All of these publications have been examined in whole or in part by your Investigator and they are devoted to the subject of Wall Street and its operations.

The book, "The Investor Pays" is an account of the biggest railroad refinancing ever done in this country which involved, incidentally, the Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Paul Railroad. The applicant mercilessly excoriates the firm of Kuhn Loeb and Co. and demonstrates that he has a deep hatred for Wall Street and its machinations. This railroad was apparently bled white by financiers, and reviews of this work, and the reaction to it of Senator Wheeler, Senator Truman, and others interested in railroad finance, indicate it to be a masterpiece. All of the applicant's works published are indicated above deal with Wall Street, its crookedness, etc., and involve a neat exposition of the methods used there.
The Friends of Soviet Russia, Local New York, has just opened a joint campaign for the Russian-American Industrial Corporation and the Children's Homes in Soviet Russia.

"The Corporation, formed recently in the Amalgamated, has for its purpose the promotion of industrial activity in Russia by raising sufficient capital to start large factories. A million dollars is needed for the initial capital, and thousands have already purchased stock, which sells at $10. a share. Every worker who wishes to see Soviet Russia proper must lend his financial assistance to this project. Further details which regard to the corporation and the campaign to be conducted will be published later."

Walter S. Steele, Statement Before a Special Committee on Un-American Activities

H.R. 282, (DIES COMMITTEE REPORTS) pp. 4729, Vol.7; testimony of Ben Gitlow, as follows.

"The 1922 convention of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America dramatized the return of Hillman from Russia. The main speech he delivered was on his trip to Russia, and the outstanding achievement of that convention was approval for the starting by the Amalgamated of the Russian-American Industrial Corporation..."
there are 50,000 in the Friends of Soviet Russia. There are tens of thousands more Friends of Soviet Russia than this. But to now we have found 50,000 comrades and sympathizers who will, if given a duty, make a conscientious attempt to perform it.

The Russian-American Industrial Corporation (R.A.I.C.), organized by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers has issued an invitation to the Friends of Soviet Russia to assist in a campaign to sell a million dollars' worth of stock, the proceeds of which sales to be used to aid in the regeneration of Russia.

You stated on the stand the first day you appeared, I believe, that the Friends of Soviet Russia was a completely Communist dominated, organized, and controlled organization?
Mr. Gitlow. Yes.
Mr. Matthews: About the disposition of whose funds there was some very serious comment you had to make?
Mr. Gitlow. Yes.
Mr. Matthews. In that the funds were not used in the interest of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, but were used to organize the party in this country?
Mr. Gitlow. Yes.
Mr. Matthews. In the issue of the Worker of December 2, 1922, is an article on the Russian-American Industrial Corporation which states:
President Sidney Hillman of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, who has just left Russia, has concluded an agreement whereby American investors in the corporation are guaranteed a minimum of 8 per cent dividends, and also in the full payment of principal by the Soviet Government.

The American Labor Year Book, p. 76:
"Assistance to Russia and War Sufferers.---The most liberal and constructive trade union contributions to Russia and the war-stricken peoples of Europe in the last few years have come from the needle trades. The Amalgamated contributed $167,206.80 and the Ladies Garment Workers $55,538.50 toward Russian famine relief, and this at a time when they were fighting almost for existence in their most important centers. The Furriers and Camp Makers have been generous as well, and all five contributed heavily to the National People's Relief Committee."
the syndicate, which are, by policy confined to Soviet territory, averaged $100,000 monthly in 1929, while its profits measured over 10 per cent. RAID's first semi-annual payment to its 5,500 shareholders amounted to 3 per cent and was paid in the fall of 1929. Shares in the corporation are still being bought by individual workers, trade unions, and other friends of Soviet Russia."

the applicant's conception of sound business practice appears to vary markedly from his idea of what Wall Street business practices are and should be. It does not appear that he would be of such dual opinion if there were not some ulterior motive involved. It may be said that he was out for the legal fee involved, and that may be true, but it appears hardly likely that he owned stock in the concern as an investment, knowing what he is bound to have known about its organization. He must have had a desire somewhere in his makeup to aid the Communist Party and its openly declared intent of destroying this Government by violence.

For over seven years prior to being employed by the Board of Economic Warfare, the applicant was with the Senate Interstate Commerce Sub-Committee on Railroads. Here he set up an organization to do research work on railroads, and apparently did a very good job. In his employ for this purpose, he had as his secretary in his New York office, a Miss Simons, a Communist petition signer, who is now at the Board of Economic Warfare. He also had a Mr. Ungar, who had Communist connections, and for a while, he employed a Mr. Kovner, who at about the same time was editor of the IJA Bulletin. Who else he employed has not been established, no list of the employees of the Committee being available. It appears safe, though, to assume, that a liberal sprinkling of communistic liberalism were included, and a number of these same employees are still with him, and where they no longer appear, we find such names as that of the Communist, Charles Flato.

The applicant's work with the Inter-State Commerce Committee of the Senate does not appear to be as important in this investigation as some of his extra-curricular activities. While he was thus engaged vocationally or professionally for Senator Wheeler, and the rest of the Committee, he had the clever evocation of memorandum writing. It would probably be impossible to ascertain what all the applicant has dealt with in his multifarious memoranda, but it cannot be gainsaid that a goodly portion of them have been on the FBI. The method of circulating them was rather novel, in that the applicant apparently used as his steers, soon after coming to Washington and renewing acquaintances with him, Robert O. Litchfield, Litchfield, after being approached in an apparently covert manner, circulated the anonymously written matter of the applicant. They seem to have worked chiefly on the FBI, though Mr. Lowenthal appears to have a highly productive penchant for writing on anything that concerns civil rights, or his version of civil rights. of the possession of accurate knowledge of the Federation, it at least indicates a desire on his part to build up the Federation into something of consequence. The National Federation has been branded as subversive by the Attorney General of the United States, and it for a long time has been the foundation of the Communist legal arm in the United States. It may be said with a great deal of supporting substance that the IJA, and its publication, the Bulletin, are the Keystone of the communist legal arch erected on this foundation. The applicant furnished the brains and did much of the writing on the Detroit question, which was handled by the National Federation. It would seem that on this performance alone, he accredited himself as a Communist lawyer. When we consider his National Committee membership with the IJA, and his close relationship with it, he has a much more difficult time escaping this classification.

This investigation has not produced with regards to the applicant the clock-work following of the party-line which was demonstrated by the devotees of the Party in June 1941, when, upon the invasion of Russia, they changed over night from intervention, to rapid interventionism. However, to say that Max Lowenthal consorts with those who follow the party line is putting it mildly, and when we consider that he was against Lend-Lease when it was first started, and is alleged to have had an important hand in organizing The American First movement, only to later change and to become sold on intervention prior to the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, we have established within bounds the following of the party-line. This conclusion is strengthened when we consider that the International Juridical Association, which is as well loaded with Communists as a Moscow subway, followed the same general pattern, as manifested by its Bulletin, and examined in detail above.

Today the subject is head of an organization which deals with reoccupation, etc., and which apparently is having a hard time recruiting personnel acquainted with the value of Works Councils. He has there with him a number of Communists, or at least, ultra-radicals, who form a coterie that may well be viewed with wide-eyed suspicion. The applicant has for a long time manifested interests, and maintained connections, which, if not of an outright Communist nature, are at best unwholesome for the viewpoint of a virile democracy. Any one devoted to our form of Government, my well subscribe to Voltaire's statement: "I disagree wholly with what you say, but will defend to the death your right to say it," but it makes the performance seem somewhat inferior and/or out of place to out shout those whom you protect in such rights. Lowenthal, like all the Communists, employs an under-cover unnotious, and usually unfair method of implementing democracy. If we all followed his and their methods, democracy would soon be a shambles.

Respectfully submitted

Dear Mr. Hoover:

I shall address the House today on a man of mystery, one Max Loventhal. In at least two instances, I shall point out the efforts of this man to wreck the fine agency of which you have been the directing genius for many years.

My dear Congressman:

I wish to acknowledge receipt of your letter of September 1, 1950, wherein you advised of your contemplated address on the activities of Max Lowenthal.

I have just had the opportunity of reading your remarks of Friday afternoon. I did appreciate your kind references to the FBI. There is no question but what this individual has been for many years most vigorous in his efforts to discredit, with smear, half-truths and vicious falsehoods, the FBI before the public. I am sure, however, that the record of the FBI is the best answer to any such vilification.

With best wishes and kind regards,

FORREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 1 (UP) — Seventh seeded Earl Cochell of Los Angeles, who was ignored completely by U.S. Davis Cup selectors, upset Frank Sedgman of Australia, 7-5, 5-7, 1-6, 6-2, 6-2, today to make an all-American final in the U.S. Tennis championships.

Leading 4-2 in the fourth set, darkness halted play yesterday, the 28-year-old Californian immediately shattered the Aussie’s first service today and held his own to square the match at two sets each.

And in the fifth, Sedgman, 25-year-old ace of the Aussie team, was just as helpless at the slashing Cochell zipped volleys and smashing into unreturnable overheads, who for nearly a week dodged efforts of investigators to locate him, was accepted in his behalf by the law offices of former Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana late yesterday it was disclosed. He is slated to appear at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Cochell was mentioned as a social acquaintance of upstate New York expense committee named three other former government officials who he said were Communist cell members with him in 1935. The three were Nathan Witt, John Abt and Charlie Hains.

Although Presnall did not want to give him a Communists as a Communist, committee members said his testimony may possibly be more important than that of Witt, Abt and Hains.

Henderson said he had only a short distance from the dock when the battleship rang a bell.

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

FREEDOM OF INFORMATION/PRIVACY ACTS SECTION

COVER SHEET
Will stir up controversy. What is probably first unglamorized account of history and work of the FBI is also a stern criticism of its methods as a danger to freedom of thought and speech. Many dramatic episodes will appeal to readers not particularly interested in the result of the author's inquiry. The author is a lawyer who has served with all three branches of the government and has written "The Investor Pays."

This book on the FBI is being published by the William Sloane Associates and will sell for $4.50.

The Bureau has been advised that book salesmen of this company are endeavoring to secure advance orders at a reduced price and there is some indication they are attempting to sell copies of this book to Chiefs of Police and other law enforcement officials. One salesman in describing this book said the book does to the FBI what Paul Blanchard's book did to the Catholic Church. You may recall that the Blanchard book, according to experts, was said to be a perversion, distortion, and misrepresentation of the historical development of the Church.

It is well known that Max Lowenthal has been exceedingly active in the past ten years in his attempts to discredit the FBI. Perhaps his motives may be accurately deduced from an address which Congressman George Dondero of Michigan made on the floor of the House of Representatives on Friday, September 1. A copy of this address is attached.

At this time the Bureau does not desire to dignify the Lowenthal book with any comment.

While the Bureau at this time does not feel it advisable to comment.
This office has been advised that the above-named individual, author of a book relating to this Bureau, is to appear before the HUAC on September 15, 1950.

Lowenthal has also been in particularly close contact with and representatives of OFRRO. The conversations with these individuals for the most part dealt with the meetings of the coordinating committee for postwar rehabilitation, which have been attended by representatives of the State Department, OFRRO, Office of Foreign Economic Coordination and Office of Loan-Lease Administration. Lowenthal himself does not appear to have attended all of these meetings but has discussed at length the matters which were taken up there. He appears to be a "behind the scenes" influence and his advice is constantly sought.

During one conversation with (phonetic) as (the appointment of) was discussed and Lowenthal questioned the appointment of a man "who isn't even known definitely to be a thorough liberal." In a later conversation with Lowenthal referred to as one "whose liberalism you don't know and how true in trial he would be."

You will be advised of any matters of Bureau interest which developed.

THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD

September 2, 1950

In scanning the Congressional Record for Friday, September 1, 1950, it is noted that Mr. Dondero spoke under the caption, "A Man of Mystery", wherein he gave a brief biography of one Max Lowenthal. This speech appears on pages 14254-55.

Mr. Dondero stated, "Lowenthal sent out anonymous memorandum smearing the FBI, which fact can be attested to by many Washington newsmen, hoping to head off the FBI in its fight to protect our shores against the menace of communism."
Poland today is a puppet state, subject to the will of the Soviet Union. Its government is not a Polish Government. It is a Communist-dominated satellite government which is despised by the people of Poland. The freedom-loving Poles have seen this government crush opposition parties and throw their leaders in prison. They have seen religion discouraged and the press and schools placed under severe restrictions. Only the fact that the Polish people have known and endured persecution and domination for centuries gives them hope and courage in this dark hour.

We in the United States must recognize our obligations to this enslaved nation. These obligations are rooted in blood as well as in ties of common ideals and principles. Thousands of our fellow Americans are descended from the freedom-loving citizens of Poland. Many of our brave soldiers bear names which remind one of those Revolutionary to fight and to face death rather than to sacrifice Poland's liberty.

The Polish people fought desperately, but when, 18 days later, Communist Russia attacked from the east, it was only a question of time.

Poland's history is traditionally filled with the heroism of not only its fighting forces but of its civilians. No chapter of that history is more vividly written than this one in 1939. This is a sorrowful anniversary for the people of Poland, but it is a day when all free people can express their admiration for the spirit of a free Poland which still exists and will one day bring back to the Polish people freedom from the oppression of a vicious dictator. In this they will be joined and encouraged by the free governments and peoples of the world, with the people of America in the forefront, extending every possible influence and aid.

Mr. REATINO. Mr. Speaker, I awoke...
The year 1569 finds the free nations of the world better equipped to resist aggression. Under the banner of the United Nations we are endeavoring to put an end to the banditry which engulfed the world in another holocaust. The difficulties we are enduring in this dark hour will only make the victory sweeter.

But the adversaries of Korea should remind us all the more strongly of the tragedies represented by Poland and the other countries under Communist domination. The people of Poland are powerless now—afraid to speak—oppressed by injustice. But they live on in the confidence that liberty and justice will triumph in the future as it has triumphed for them in the past.

The people of Poland, now enclosed in the stockade of communism, must know that those outside the prison walls are united with them in their struggle for liberty. Our powers must be constantly extended to protect the frontiers of freedom. And in our efforts we need not doubt that we have the eternal support of the Polish people. For as the poet has said:

The heart of Poland hath not ceased
To quiver, tho' her sacred blood hath been drawn,
The fields, and out of every smoldering town
Cries to thee.

But after Poland was forced to its knees and made to capitulate as a nation, its fighting spirit and the spirit of free men lived on. The Free Polish Army sent records for all the world to envy by its deeds of valor in the fight for freedom and justice.

Its men served with the R.A.P. during the heroic battle of Britain, when the men were flying antiquated planes hardly worthy of the name. By their individual courage, they helped to keep the time for Britain to rearm and build her defense against enemy bombardment.

In Africa, France, and in the Caspian Sea, the Poles left a record of magnanimous fight and self-sacrifice, side by side with the allied troops of other liberty-loving nations.

In addition to these, many of our best citizens are of Polish birth or Polish descent. These people brought with them the same firm faith in freedom and liberty, and the same firm faith in the American way of life. They have grown into a numerous fraternity, ruthlessly enveloping and terrorizing the small, independent countries which border her.

It is to our shame that Poland is still crushed beneath the heavy heel of its Communist conquerors. That small voice of the national conscience will never cease to cry until Poland is able to hold her head high once more, as free and independent Poland. For we cannot consider ourselves free from blame for her miserable plight to which we acquiesced at Yalta and Tehran.

Our ties with Poland and the Polish people have been forged in the fires of friendship since the beginning of this Republic. Polish heroes are honored along with native-born citizens when we commemorate our Independence Day. In 1781, the Poles formulated a national constitution, based on the principles of liberty, democracy, and justice. They helped to establish the rights and voice of the national conscience.

By pulling at strings he acquired the title of assistant secretary for the Wickersham Commission on Law Enforcement but when he found he could not run it he resigned in a huff. Later he became research director of the Bank of Commerce and Industry, of which he was appointed to the staff of the Senate Commerce Committee, which was affiliated with the Board of Economic Welfare.

SPECIAL ORDER
The SPEAKER. Under previous order of the House, the gentleman from Michi-

A MAN OF MYSTERY
Mr. GONZALEZ. Mr. Speaker, I want to discuss a man of mystery this afternoon and for the first time take off the mask behind which he has been hiding for years and even avoiding service from the Committee on Un-American Activities.
The sharp pen and penetrating insight of a Washington editorial writer has carved Washington officials to pause and wonder when he asked in an edtorial, “Who is this man?” The writer then goes on to describe:
He places these agents of destruction in our government agencies. He can put his tribe in when our loyal citizens cannot get jobs.

Lowenthal also lent his prestige to other groups. He was reported to be one of the endorsers of the Conference of the American Committee for the Protection of Foreign Born in 1940, an organization listed as subversive by the Attorney General. He was a member of the left-wing National Lawyers Guild.
He was a member of the National Committee of the International Juridical Association with Lee Pressman, who once defied a congressional committee.
Admitted his Communist affiliation this summer, Lowenthal also was associated in the American Committee for Soviet Rus-

Lowenthal sent out anonymous memorandums acclaiming the FBI, which fact can be traced to by many Washington lawyers to indicate their support of the existence of communists and fascists as a menace to the American people.
There is a striking kinship between the master, Justice Felix Frankfurter, and the pupil, Max Lowenthal. And so it often is, the pupil rises to outdo the master.

Lowenthal’s record is one of attack on the internal security of this country. In

Mr. Speaker. I ask unanimous consent that all Members may extend their remarks at this point in the Record.

Mr. Speaker, when he retires from this body at the end of the Eighty-first Congress, he will carry with him the respect and best wishes of all. We will miss his leadership and guidance.

Mr. Speaker, I know every Member of this body, regardless of political affiliation, joins me in wishing the gentleman from South Dakota, success and good luck.

Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may extend their remarks at this point in the Record.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from South Dakota?

There was no objection.

Mr. TALLE. Mr. Speaker, Lorne is famous the world over as the "all corn State," but her greatest contribution to our civilization is her people. Her native sons have traveled to every corner of the globe and have distinguished themselves in every field of human endeavor—arts, the sciences, professions, crafts. One of these illustrious sons is our good friend and colleague the Honorable Francis Case, who has served together on the subcommittees in charge of efficiency appropriations. I know his character, his ability, his industry, his resourcefulness and integrity, his skill as a parliamentarian.

I greatly value his friendship. I consider him one of the ablest Members of the House of Representatives.

He will be a very much missed by his friends and colleagues here in the House. In all human probability, however, our loss will be the gain of the United States Senate.

It is good to know that his high purpose, unquestioned integrity, and outstanding ability is to find further opportunity for service to the Nation.

I expect fine things from him as a Senator.

I wish him the continued success of which I am confident that he is assured.

Mr. JENSEN. Mr. Speaker, it is a pleasure and privilege to join my colleague Mr. Love, of South Dakota, in all he has said about the Honorable Francis Case. For the past 8 years, I have served very closely with Mr. Case on Appropriations Committee and know of his tireless, valuable, and faithful service to his country in committee where the public did not have access to knowledge of his good work, as well as on the floor of this House where all could see and hear and know of his good works.

Mr. Speaker, I dare say that no man ever served in Congress who was more devoted to his task than is Francis Case, in seeing to it that the taxpayers' dollars be not wasted, nor has Francis Case ever yielded one iota to the strong influences that would destroy our God-given free No one can take his place in our affections.

Mr. DOLLIVER. Mr. Speaker, I regret exceedingly that Francis Case of South Dakota is to leave the House of Representatives. He is a man of ability and integrity, and one of the outstanding leaders of the House. No Member has a wider and more useful, knowledge of the rules of the House, and no Member is able to apply parliamentary procedure more skillfully. As a Member of the Appropriations Committee, he served well and effectively in making recommendations concerning the spending of public money.

For his district, western South Dakota, he has rendered outstanding service. In no small measure, he has been responsible for numerous public improvements which are evident to any observer in that great midwestern State.

I have known Francis Case since boyhood. We grew up together in Hot Springs, S. Dak., where we attended the same schools and church. He is a product of a studious mind—a mind of great capacity for knowledge and hard mental effort.

The Republican voters of South Dakota have nominated him for the United States Senate. I have confidence that in the November 1950 election, the voters of the great State of South Dakota will send him by an overwhelming majority to the Senate of the United States, where he will continue to serve his State and Nation in an even more abundant manner. All my good wishes are his.

Mr. GROSS. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate this opportunity to join my colleague, the gentleman from South Da-

Another reporter stated, "I take it this book is an attack on the FBI," to which subject answered, "No, no indeed, it is not an attack on the FBI; it is an official record of happenings in Congress and other government circles in the last 40 years and the title was chosen by the publishers." Subject then advised that he did not express his opinions in the book but chose statements made by other individuals of high regard. Another reporter asked Subject's counsel if subject had been asked if he knew the words. Subject's counsel advised the committee did so inquire but would comment no further regarding the hearing and advised the reporters to contact the committee for any further statements.

NO WAY TO PREVENT GRANTING OF COPYRIGHT TO LOWENTHAL was next asked if an individual could be stopped from copyrighting a book titled "The Federal Bureau of Investigation" inasmuch as Congress had passed an act on July 1, 1935, assigning that name to the FBI. He stated that a person can use any title he desires for any book he desires as long as it is not a fraudulent advertising scheme and the text is related to the title. He said the examiners could hold up the granting of a copyright for a limited period of time as a matter of cooperation, but if the title and text were in agreement he saw no way to hold it up indefinitely.

A TITLE IS NOT PROTECTED BY THE COPYRIGHT LAW book had been actually published at which time he must send 2 copies of his book, his application and his application fee to the Copyright Division. stated he would be glad to keep it strictly confidential and notify Agent as soon as the book is received. He said several of his school friends have gone into the FBI and he appreciated the need for keeping such matters confidential.

REFUSAL OF COPYRIGHT DOES NOT PREVENT PUBLISHER FROM DISTRIBUTING BOOK FOR SALE

further stated that the refusal to grant a copyright would not in the least hinder the publisher from distributing the book for sale. It would merely mean the author and publisher would have no legal action against any person using the context for his own purposes.

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION
FOIPA.DELETED.PAGE_INFORMATION.SHEET
Representative Dondero asserted that in the early 1920's the Russian-American Industrial Corporation was formed in New York City to aid and assist in developing the resources of Russia; that the General Counsel of this enterprise was Max Lowenthal.

The Bureau possesses a prospectus published by this corporation which listed the purpose as follows: "To aid and assist in developing the resources of Russia, thereby furthering the economic progress of Russia and the American progress in that country." (62-25733-42) to note that Arthur Alexandrovich Adams, a native of Russia who had been residing in the United States, was employed in Martens' technical section and he departed with Martens. Adams later engaged in Soviet espionage in the New York area. (Summary of Soviet and Satellite Espionage and Communist Activities in the U.S., 12-15-48.)

Representative Dondero described Lowenthal as a member of the National Committee of the International Juridical Association.

Bureau files disclose that in 1942 a letterhead of the International Juridical Association carried the name of Max Lowenthal as being a member of the National Committee representing the District of Columbia. This organization was cited as a Communist front by the Special Committee on Un-American Activities of the House of Representatives on March 29, 1944.

On March 25, 1940, Walter Winchell's column carried the following: "Incidentally, the Attorney General has protested the appointment of Max Lowenthal to the Senate Wire Tapping Probe on the ground that he was the writer of the anonymous brief against John Edgar Hoover. It was distributed by Lowenthal's stooge Litchfield -- the irony of it; that an anonymous letter writer should be against wire tapping."

Representative Dohdero pointed out in his speech that Lowenthal aided the all-out Communist attack against the FBI in 1940; that he sent out anonymous memoranda smearing the FBI, which fact can be attested to by many Washington newsmen.
Representative Dondero asserted that Lowenthal has been given the credit for the 1947 offensive launched against the House Un-American Activities Committee at the Hollywood hearings.

"The Federal Bureau of Investigation"

On pages 472 through 552 of the above-mentioned book are listed the sources Lowenthal used in preparing his manuscript. He also cites the page and line in the book where each source is used.

Since Lowenthal's book will undoubtedly be used as a Bible by Bureau critics for years to come it is felt that we should completely check each one of Lowenthal's source notes to ascertain whether he has quoted material correctly, quoted material out of context, etc. Even though this would be a stupendous task and will take several weeks for a number of supervisors I do feel that it would be most worthwhile.

I think we should do this.

I suspect that the John Keats story will be carried only in the Daily News. As soon as we get the World Telegram and have a chance to compare the story which appeared in the New York World Telegram with the one which appeared in the Daily News then we should consider talking to about this.

I see no point in waiting - I think Nichols should call about the Keats column.

Lowenthal Called Loyal to Moscow

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—Lowenthal, New York City, and former government official, was told here today he had served the nation with being loyal to America.

The House Un-American Activities Committee ruled yesterday night copies of testimony given by Mr. Lowenthal behind closed doors last September.

Mr. Lowenthal has held a number of government posts, the latest being a brief term as special adviser in the American Military Government in Germany.

Mr. Lowenthal was subpoenaed before the House Un-American Activities Committee earlier this fall.

Mr. Lowenthal said in a statement to this floor that he was "prepared to answer every question."

The book called Red Aid

FREDERICK WOLTZMAN, Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—Congress and others paid tribute to the book called Red Aid, written by a man who has lived in the Soviet Union.

The book, which was published by the American Civil Liberties Union, is a collection of articles and essays written by members of the Communist party. It was edited by the author, who is a member of the party.

"Lowenthal's book is a valuable contribution to the study of communism," said Mr. Lowenthal. "It is a book that every American should read."

How Good, How Bad, Is FBI?

There are two reviews of an important and controversial book. One is by a former FBI agent who has written a book critical of the FBI. The other is by a former FBI agent who has written a book defending the FBI.

The first review is by a former FBI agent, Ladd Clogg, and the second is by a former FBI agent, Gandy.

Mr. Lowenthal, who is a former FBI agent, has written a book critical of the FBI. The book is called "The FBI and the Civil Liberties." The author of the book is a former FBI agent named Gandy.

ATTACHED BY -

In New York City, the FBI has come under fire from the American Civil Liberties Union. The FBI has been accused of interfering with the ACLU's efforts to protect civil liberties. The FBI has been accused of using surveillance techniques to monitor and harass ACLU members.

A brief mention of the recent events involving the FBI and the ACLU could be included here.

We are transmitting today to the testimony of Lowenthal, copy of the Congressional Record of September 1 and he is being advised that Donders was re-elected to Congress.

This is being submitted for no further information.
Ex-Federal Official, Accused of Loyalty to Reds, Defends Record

By the Associated Press

Max Lowenthal, New York attorney and former Government official accused in Congress of loyalty to Russia, says he has served the United States Government with honor.

"Mr. Lowenthal was questioned in private by the House Committee on Un-American Activities on September 13 after he was attacked in the House by Representative Dondero, Republican of Michigan. The testimony was made public last night.

"Mr. Dondero told the House that evidence of Mr. Lowenthal's "unswerving loyalty to Soviet Russia is clear and unequivocal."

No Direct Questions.

Mr. Lowenthal was not asked to answer this directly. However, in the course of questioning about his employment during the war with the Board of Economic Warfare, the witness said that his record "had already been passed upon by some of the leading men in the United States Senate, and by men who had been present, both on the Democratic and Republican side."

Mr. Dondero said Mr. Lowenthal's record was "one of attack on any American institution which stands four square for the American way of life." He charged the attorney had worked "relentlessly" to destroy the effectiveness of the FBI in its campaign against Communists.

The Congressman said that Mr. Lowenthal pulled strings to become adviser on disposal of Jewish property under the American military government in Germany, and had as an assistant, George Shaw Wheeler, "the American traitor (who) denounced the land of his birth and asked Communist-controlled Czechoslovakia for asylum."

Denies Having Aide.

Mr. Lowenthal testified he had no assistant and said he saw Mr. Wheeler in Germany only once in a public dining hall.

The attorney described his duties in Germany as an adviser on restitution of stolen property.

Mr. Lowenthal said Mr. Wheeler worked under him briefly at the Board of Economic Warfare in 1941, transferring from another Government agency. But he denied he had anything to do with putting him into the Government.
I delivered to Mr. Cleghorn copies of the Zinman speech on September 1 and copies of the testimony by Lowenthal and others before the House Un-American Activities Committee on September 15, which I furnished to him.

I told him that he should have his clerk call me as soon as the copy for us was available and we would arrange to pick it up at a time that works for him.

This matter will be followed very closely and arrangements will be made to pick up a copy of the report as soon as it is available. He was offered the services of the Bureau in answering any of his questions, and he stated that he would call if there was any other information he needed.

THE COMMERCIAL APPEAL
MEMPHIS, TENNESSEE

Attached hereto is an editorial entitled "Sinister Propaganda", which appeared in The Commercial Appeal at Memphis, Tennessee, on November 24, 1950. This editorial is very critical of MAX LOWNETHAL and was written by Mr. HARRY CARLEY, Associate Editor of The Commercial Appeal.

Three articles by FULTON LEWIS, JR. concerning LOWENTHAL and his book have recently appeared on the editorial page of The Commercial Appeal and are not being forwarded to the Bureau inasmuch as I understand heretofore transmitted the editorial page for those dates to the Bureau.

TO:    THE DIRECTOR
FROM:  MR. D. M. LADD
SUBJECT: MAX LOWENTHAL

DATE: November 25, 1950

You will be interested to know that the book on the FBI recently written by Max Lowenthal, has been placed by Lowenthal on the desk of all officials at the White House. All of these copies are autographed by Lowenthal, but none that Mr. Roach observed were autographed to anyone in particular. They only bore the notation, "With regards, from Max Lowenthal".

Mr. Roach showed his copy to Mr. Roach on the date it was received which gave him an opportunity to give Mr. Roach an opportunity to give him a brief rundown on Lowenthal and also the nature of the book. He stated that although he had heard the name of Lowenthal around the White House, he did not know him personally and certainly had no intention of wasting his time reading the book.

Inquiries concerning the book have been directed to Mr. Roach by Presidential assistants and like answers as given to were supplied to them.

ACTION:

None. This is prepared for your information.

He has checked around and has ascertained that the President did not review Lowenthal's book nor did the President give anything which would be tantamount to an approval for its publication. He feels that if this story is peddled around it is probably Lowenthal who is peddling it; that he simply feels that no point could be served in trying to run this down any further.

Will be sought to be repudiated by W. K. Drury. It looks like Lowenthal's lawyers & his publisher say it is true.

Frankfurth, during his radio comments on "The White House Story" 6:30 P.M. Wednesday night, 11-22-50, said a new book was out which was detrimental to the FBI. He said Mr. Truman and Mr. Hoover were not particularly friendly, but the author of the new book, Lowenthal, and Mr. Truman were friendly.

I called [redacted] and told him that Mr. Laughlin had advised me of his call yesterday, that I had gone over the book and would be very happy to sit down with him at his convenience although we had decided we did not want to make any public comment on the thing.

I referred him to the Dondero speech and I made a tentative appointment to see him at 11 a.m. Wednesday morning, November 22.

He seemed very enthusiastic.

I advised on further reflections, that while the Director's position was the same that he would not do a review on the Nat Lounenthal book it had occurred to us that who knew the Bureau exceedingly well and who has been out of the Bureau for the past several years might be persuaded to do such a review.

I told could very well anticipate exactly what would say, that his idea of objectivity and fairness was on an equal par with Lounenthal is ticked at the thought of the review and I am sure when he is approached will be very glad to do it.

I told him the Director would not, that the book was so hopeless we did not care to dignify it with any denial, that it would take another book to explain away the distortions, inaccuracies, and misstatements.

I told him I was writing a book of his own on the general subject of loyalty, that he might not want to do it and between us he would probably use this book as a springboard to get across some of his own ideas. I told him I would like to think about somebody else and would talk to him later, but that I was wondering why it was necessary to go to all this trouble and whether the book really warranted this type of treatment.

This morning I talked and told him that we had been giving the matter a lot of thought, that we were wondering if it would not be a very excellent choice, known for his scholastic background and would give a very objective treatment.

I again brought up the matter of why not assigning one of his good staff men to write him why he didn’t drop the whole matter completely.

FOR RELEASE: Monday, November 27, 1950

Leading statesmen of both political parties, and of every wing of each party, figure in the pages of THE FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION by Max Lowenthal just published by William Sloane Associates, Inc. A great many of these men are shown as supporting and defending American traditions, often in the face of excited opposition of the moment. The book's statements of their actions and opinions were drawn from official and public records.

The early debates relating to the creation of the FBI, Mr. Lowenthal states, were under the leadership of Congressman James A. Tawney of Minnesota, the author's native state. Mr. Tawney, a Republican, was a House leader, and a devoted supporter of the William Howard Taft viewpoint in national affairs. Another of the Republican names appearing in the early pages of the book is that of Congressman Walter I. Smith of Iowa, also a veteran in the House of Representatives, and of President William Howard Taft's school of political thought. Democratic names also come into the first chapter, among them Congressman J. Swanger Sherley of Kentucky, a friend of Alben W. Barkley, now Vice President of the United States, and Congressman John J. Fitzgerald.

Throughout THE FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION, Republicans and Democrats appear with complete impartiality as between the parties. A reference to Congressional leaders of the past 40 years whose words and acts are reported in the book will make this clear to persons acquainted with the statesmen sent to Congress by each of the states. Some of the states whose representatives in national affairs are mentioned in this book are here listed:

Alabama: Senators: J. Thomas Heflin (p. 291), Hugo Black (p. 132) and Lister Hill (p. 397), Democrats; Representatives: William Richardson (p. 11), George Huddleston (pp. 292, 295, 296) and Sam Hobbs, (p. 131), Democrats.

Arizona: Senator: Henry F. Ashurst (p. 291), Democrat

Arkansas: Senators: Thaddeus H. Caraway (p. 291) and Joseph T. Robinson (p. 295), California: Senator: Hiram M. Johnson (pp. 32, 33, 34, 124), Republican; Representatives: Carl Hindshaw (p. 161), Republican; and Chet Holifield (p. 152) and Helen Gahagan Douglas (p. 152), Democrats.

Colorado: Senators: Charles S. Thomas (p. 33), Democrat, and Eugene D. Millikin (pp. 155, 156), Republican; Representatives: William N. Vaile (pp. 170, 174, 176, 178), Republican, and John A. Carroll (p. 153), Democrat.

Peyton Ford of the Department called at 6:15 PM this evening and stated that he had been following the reviews in the papers today with reference to Max Loenthal's book. He stated he was calling to see if there was anything he or the Bureau could do and that if there was anything the Bureau should just let him know. He stated maybe the Bureau would want to consider having the Attorney General issue a statement or some other action the Bureau might desire taking.

I told him I knew of nothing they could do at this time but that I would advise you of his call. In this connection Mr. Ford stated he had talked to several times about this book in the past and that he and others were hopeful that the book would not come out. This is the first time I had heard that Peyton was contacting concerning the book.

MEMORANDUM FOR MR. TOLSON

MR. NICHOLS

Congressman O'Toole called to advise that he was having put in the Congressional Record this morning the statement by Raymond Moley which appeared in Newsweek regarding the Max Lowenthal matter. He said that later on he would have his own remarks placed in the Record. I told him I was most appreciative of this being done.

Very truly yours,

MR. TOLSON

L. B. NICHOLS

I called and told him that I was a little bit concerned as we had had some letters come in and at least three persons who did not appear to be "crack-pots" had suggested to us that the book was back of the Lowenthal book. I told him that these individuals had been told that we did not believe this was so as we knew where the stood on the Bureau and exactly where they stood on Lowenthal.

I told him that I realized that but I was merely passing this on to let him know what we did hear and to inquire if he had heard anything. I told him that they were probably better posted on handling matters such as this than we were and that all that we were concerned about was that some anti-Semitic did not pick this up and attempt to smear the good people.

I told him I thought this would be a good idea.

I told him that we would not hesitate but that we had not found it necessary to request anybody to help out as it appeared that everybody was so much impressed with the unfairness of Lowenthal’s book that they had started their own program.

I agreed.
Memo to Mr. Tolson from Mr. Nichols

November 30, 1950

I told the FBI that the FBI had prepared the questions and was running the questioning of Lowenthal, that Lowenthal would have known that he had been questioned.

ADDENDUM, LBN 12/1/50:

It seemed to me that his approach was an exceedingly effective one.
