Introduced to Milwaukee Bowl skiers this season is the ski-boggan, a massive sled that carries 32 snow riders at a time up the steep slopes to the base of Rocky Point. Here's a sledful of its way up, being lifted 725 feet in a stretch of 1,800 feet. The Ski School students have found it quite a big help.

SKI SCHOOL IN SESSION TODAY

Clearing weather greeted pupils of the Seattle Times Ski School as they poured into the Milwaukee Road Ski Bowl this forenoon for Class No. 8.

Today was to be a brushing-up day for the hundreds of high-school and college skiers who are learning their ski fundamentals from Ken Syverson and his Times School aides. It also was designated as Roosevelt High School's special "day" at the Bowl, with a queen to be chosen at the close of the instruction period.

The brushing-up will be in preparation for next Saturday's big finale, when the youngsters will hold downhill and slalom races to wind up the school for 1947.
